Exchange.—Major-General W. S. Hancock, accompanied by Gen. Gibbons, paid a visit to the Coal Exchange Association, at their rooms. No 205 Walnut sireet, at noon to-day. The distinguished officers were appropriately received, and the Association having organized by calling Mr. Pearson to the chair, Mr. Hunter introduced Gen. Hancock, with the remark that his visit was mad with a view to obtaining the co-operation of the Association to aid blim in recruiting the 2d Army Corps to its maximum of fifty thousand men.

Gen. Hancock addressed the meeting, prefacing his remarks with an expression of gratitude for the important services already rendered the caus by the liberality of the coal trade of Philadelphia. The Coal Exchange Association had been the first to contribute towards a fund to procure recruits for his corps; but in consequence of the competition from other quarters (and perhaps because the sum fixed as the extra bounty to be paid each man was not sufficient to secure the d-sired number of recruits) the four regiments expected to be raised in Philadelphia were not yet full.

In New York and Boston he had been more successful. Committees, composed offactive and influential gentlemen had taken the matter in hand, and through their knowledge of the necessary machinery to put in motion, the requisite number of men had been procured in the cities named. This knowledge a mere soldier could not be expected to possess, and the speaker urged that in addition to the handsome contributions made by the coal trade, a committee should also be provided that would give this money a practical direction and secure from it the best possible result.

The General was fearful that the coming draft (under the terms of the conscription act) would be a draft for money and not for men. It was of the last importance that the ranks of the veterans of the enemy for a year, and he appealed strongly and warmly to the gentlemen present to do what they could to aid him to procure men to fill his ranks, and to do it promptly, when time is in the law the l reference to disfranchisement and amotion and reference to disfranchisement and amotion and gathering into one group the principles of decision that lie scattgred thr. ugh the authorities; they are stated thus by the court:

First—That the power of a motion for adequate cause is an inherent incident of all corporations, whether municipal or private, except perhaps such as are literary or ellemosynary, but the exercise of this power does not affect the private rights of the corporation in the franchise.

Second—That the power of disfranchisement which does destroy the member a franchise must in general be conferred by statute, and is never sustained as an incidental power, without stature grant, except in two cases—1st, on conviction of the member in a court of justice of an infamous of fence; and 2d, where he has committed some act against the society which tends to its destruction or injury.

Third—That the power to make by leave in in-

Jence; and 2d, where he has committed some act against the society which tends to its destruction or injury.

Third—That the power to make by-laws is incidental to corporations, and generally expressly conferred by statute; but by-laws which vest in a majority the power of expulsion for minor offences, are, in so far, void, and courts of justice will not sustain expulsions made under them.

Fourth—In joint stock companies, for indeed in any corporation owning property, no power of expulsion can be exercised unless expressly confirred by the charter.

With these principles in view, I take up the charter of the Philadelphia Club and find that it was inaugurated on the 5th of May, 1850, under the name of the Philadelphia Club and Reading Room (afterwards changed to the Philadelphia Club, with authority to select officers, to establish By laws for their government, and to hold real es ate, the yearly value of which shall not exceed three thousand dollars, but there is no power of either amotion or disfranchisement expressly conferred. They make no pretence to this power by prescription.

resets sic, the yearity value of which shall not expower to thousand odilars, "but there is no power to thousand odilars," but there is no proved the construction of the provide and the proved by prescription. The judge then sets forth the disturbance for which late relator was expelled, and says—"Now, nadoubledly such conduct was disorderly, for which late relator was expelled, and says—"Now, nadoubledly such conduct was disorderly, for mot set forth into and purposes of the society are not set forth into and purposes of the society are not set forth into and purposes of the society are not set forth into and purposes of the society are not set forth into and purposes of the society are not set forth into and purposes of the society are not set forth into and purposes of the society are not set forth into and purposes of the society are not set forth into and purposes of the society and friendly snd kind relations and are not proved by such conduct as is imputed to the relator. But does a single instance of disorderly conduct instity distranchisement? It is not alleged that disorderly on the state of distranchise and friendly snd kind relations and are not alleged that disorderly on the state of the section of the state of the section of the sec members by disfranchisement. I am unwilling to make so bad a precedent of this case. But what is conclusive of this case is that the corporation possess d property, real and personal, and it is a liority to accumulate more until an annual revenuof $3 000 comes to be erioused, and the relation happing the form that franchise. It is not a joint stock company at present, for under its by laws no pecuniary profesare divisable among the members, but it may become so, and whether it does not, the relation has a vise of interest in its estate, and cannot be deprived of it by the proceedings that were had against him.

For these reasons a peremptory mandamus must be awarded and because the view I have taken of the case results in this conclusion it is not necessary for me to discuss the formalities of the proceedings of the club under their by-laws which led to the expulsion.

SALES OF STOCKS.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS-MARCH 12, 1864 There was a decided lull in the Stock Market today, after the extreme excitement of the past fortnight. Generally, prices were a fraction lower, though there was no instance of weakness in any of the speculative stocks. The above sales are a fair index to the quotations of those named, and to the general tone of the market. Reading Railroad was steady at 70 before board, but declined 1/2 under the New York call. Schuylkill Navigation mon and Preferred stock, Catawissa Railroad, North Pennsylvania Railroad, and Philadelphia and Eric Railroad sold to very moderate amount; also, at lower figures than yesterday's reports. Mining shares were comparatively steadier. Spruce and Pine Streets Passenger Railway advanced to 15%. and Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad to 24%. The demand for Government Loans was sensibly less. The Five-Twenty Bonds were offcred at 109.

North Pennsylvania Railroad Sixes sold at par and bid. The supply of money is most ample for all the call of the Stock Market, notwithstanding the large amount required to carry stocks at their present high prices.

The Third National Bank of Philadelphia will commence business on Monday, at the Southwest corner of Market street and Penn Square. The location is a desirable one, and a bank has long been needed in that vicinity. JayCooke & Co. quete Government Securities

PHILADKIPHIA MARKETS.

SATURDAY, March 12.—The dullness which for several days past has been noted, still pervades all departments, and transactions of all kinds were of the most limited character.

There is no quotable change in Breadstuffs and the market is dull. Buyers of Flour are holding off, and only a few hundred barrels, mostly to supply the trade at $6@ 55 for superfine, $6.50@7 for extras, $7@7 50 for extra family, and $8@9 50 for fancy brands. Rye Flour and Corn meal are nominally unchanged; small sales of the former at $6 \(\text{w} \) Darrel.

There is little or nothing doing in Wheat; the offerings are light. We quote nominally at $1 600 i $60 mostly at $1 03 in store, at which rate it is offered—for fair to prime Red; $1 70@1 95 for White—the latter for Kentucky. Rye is quiet at $1 30. Corn comes in slowly but the demand has fallen off. The sales are limited at $1 16@1 17 in store and the cars and $1 20 afloat, and about 4000 bushels were sold. Oats are unchanged; prices range from 80 to $2 cents.

Nothing doing in Barley and Mait.

Of Quercitron Bark about 100 hids. sold at a price kept private. The market is unsettled and lower.

PEMOVAL.

JOHN C.BAKER has removed from 154 North Third street to 718 MARKET street. Particular attention will be given to the manufacturing and bottling of his celebrated Cod Liver Oil.

John C. Baker & Co.'s Medicinal Cod Liver Oil has for many years had a reputation for genuineness, freshness purity and sweetness, which has made the demand universal. In this house, 718 Market street, the facilities for obtaining, manufacturing and bottling are greatly increased, and is all done under the most careful supervision of the original and sole proprietor. This brand of Oil has, therefore, advantages over all others, and recommends itself.
