XXXVIIITH CONGRESS.—FIRST SESSION

CLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS SENATE.—Mr. Summer presented the petition of one thousand citizens of Louisiana of African descent to be allowed to vote in the reorganization of Louisiana. The petition is approved by Anthony Fernandez, President of the Louisiana Association of the Veterans of the War of 1812, founder of the first Union Association, and member of the Oentral Committee for the Organization of a Free State by Thomas J. Durant, President of the Free State Committee, and by other citizens. It represents that all are owners of property; many engaged in the pursuits of commerce, paying taxes, for fortynine years, on an assessessment of fitteen multons of dollars; and that on the call of Gov. Shepley they raised the first colored regiment in forty-eight hours.

hours. Mr. Anthony, from the Committee on Printing, reported a bill to print five thousand copies of the report of Captain Fisk of his expedition to the Rocky Mountains. Adopted.

Mr. Wilkinson presented a bill to repeal all acts and the captains appropriations for the calculation of pure making appropriations for the colonization of persons of African descent. Referred to Committee a Territories. Mr. McDougal offered the following, which was agreed to.

Resolved, That the President be requested to communicate to the Senate, if not incompatible with the public interest, any correspondence or other information in the possession of the government relating to any plan or plans now projected, or being projected, with a view to the establishment of monarchical governments in Central or South America.

ment of monarchical governments in Central or South America.
Mr. Wilson introduced a bill to promote the efficiency of the artillery arm of the service, which was referred to the Military Committee.

The bill consolidates the five regiments of artillery now authorized by law under the title of the corps of artillery, composed of one chief of artillery, with the runk of general; 5 colonels, 3 lieutenant-colonels, 15 majors, and 60 batteries the batteries to consist of one captain, two Ist and two 2d lieutenants, and 145 non-commissioned officers and privates. The bill makes the chief of writters. 2d heutenants, and 145 non-commissioned officers and privates. The bill makes the chief of artillery a member of the Ordnance Board, and gives him, under the Secretary of War and General-in-Chief, the direction of the volunteer artillery, when mustered into the service. tered into the service.

Mr. Doollittle introduced an act to amend the

Mr. Doolittle introduced an act to amend the act of June 7, 1862, for the collection of direct taxes in insurrectionary districts, which was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The bill provides that under sales of the Tax Commissioners in such districts a writ may issue by said Commissioner to the Marshal of said district, commanding him to put said purchaser in possession of said property. The property as above purchased by the United States may be divided into parcels of fifty acres, and pre-emption rights granted to persons for mentorious service in the crushing of the rebellion, who shall have resided in the State where the lands lay. The right to redeem said lands by loyal lien creditors is prescribed by the bill.

On motion of Mr. Foster the Senate reconsidered its action of yesterday on the passage of the House bill defining the rank, pay and emolument of certain of the army. tain officers of the army.

Mr. Foster offered an amendment, which was ordered to be printed.

The Senate bill relating to chaplains was called

The Senate bill relating to chaplains was called up and passed, and on motion of Mr. Wilson, the clauses relating to chaplains having been anticipated by the House bill, its title was amended as a 'bill relating to enlistments.'

The bill provides for the enlistment of regulars during the war for three years, and places them on a footing with volunteers as respects bounties, and that officers absent on leave not exceeding ten days shall receive pay and allowances.

It also provides for additional officers in the battalion of regular engineers, and for the organization of regular engineers, and for the organization of regular engineers, and for the organization of regular engineers. talion of regular engineers, and for the organiza-tion of regiments of volunteer engineers, not to exceed one company to each brigade of infantry, to be placed on the same footing as regular en-gineers.

After the passage of the bill allowing the conferring of degrees by the Deaf and Dumb Institute of the District of Columbia, the Chair man of the Committee on the District of Columbia (this being the day set apart for District business) gave way to allow the Senate to consider the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill.

Mr. Sumner's amendment raising the rank of the minister resident at Belgium (Mr. Sandford) to a minister plenipotentiary, without corresponding pay, was adopted, after considerable debate.

Amendments increasing the salaries of consuls at Shanghae, Nassau, Larges and March 1997.

Amendments increasing the salaries of consuls at Shanghae, Nassau, Lyons and Manchester, were adopted.

Without disposing of the bill, the Senate at four o'clock went into Executive session, and adjourned. MOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Morrill (Vt.) reported from the Committee on Ways and Means a bill to establish an assay office in Nevada Territory, and also one at Portland, Oregon.

and, Oregon. Referred to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union.

Air. Dawes (Mass) reported a resolution from the Committee on Elections to pay John Sleeper $750, for the time spent and expenses incurred in contesting the seat of Mr. Rice, from that State. A debate ensued, involving the merits of the election, which has already been decided by the House.

The resolution was tabled.

Mr. Ambrose W. Clark (N.Y.), from the Committee on Printing, reported in favor of printing ten thousand copies of the reports of General Researchs. The resolution was adopted.

Also, a resolution to print an equal number of General Meade's report of the battle of Gettysburg. The House resumed the consideration of the Gold Mr. Griswold (N. Y.) said that when the debate

Mr. Griswold (N. Y.) said that when the debate on the subject commenced he was absent from Washington, but being in contact with husiness men, those not interested in gold speculations he found there was an almost universal expression of hope that the power to sell gold would be conferred on the Secretary of the Treasury.

He believed all concurred that the Treasury should be depleted of its excess of gold. The only point of difference was as to the manner in which this should be done: The gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Boutwell) yesterday said the Secretary of the Treasury had not recommended this measure; but he (Mr. Griswold) believed the Secretary had sent a letter to the Committee of Ways and Means asking for the authority to sell.

Mr. Boutwell (Mass.) here rose and equand a

Mr. Boutwell (Mass.) here rose and caused a letter, dated to day, from Secretary Chase, addressed to him, to be read. The Secretary cays he was told this morning that Mr. Boutwell was under the impression that he was indifferent to the gold bill as amended by the Senate. His yiews were expressed to the Committee of Ways and Means, on the 19th uit., in favor of giving the Secretary authority to sell the surplus gold. He thought then as he did now, that such authority would tend to restrain speculation and prevent the sudden fluctuations in the gold market. The use of such power might contribute to this desirable end. His opinion remain unchanged. Mr. Griswold resumed his remarks advocating the passage of this bill, giving as his reasons that he would afford all reasonable facilities to increase the risks of speculation in gold, and having confithe passage of this bill, giving as his reasons that he would afford all reasonable acilities to increase the risks of speculation in gold, and having confidence in the intelligence and patriotism of the Secretary of the Treasury, he would clothe him with the authority desired. The present price of gold is merely speculative. We have almost as much to fear from the army of speculators in gold as from the army of rebels.

Mr. Hubbard (Conn.) declared he would vote for the bill. The Secretary of the Treasury could not endanger the credit of the country any more by the power proposed to be conferred by this measure than by the power with which he was now invested. He said this in reply to arguments which had been urged against the measure. He would not borrow from England or France it they would send over their money. The only way to maintain the credit of the nation was by relying with boldness and firmness on our own resources. If more money was wanted we must continue to tax ourselves still more, and the people would continue to pay.

Mr. Broomall (Pa.) said he had voted steadily resources. If more money was wanted we must continue to tax ourselves still more, and the people would continue to pay.

Mr. Broomall (Pa.) said he had voted steadily against the measure from the beginning, and he would steadily vote against it to the end. The power proposed to be given was wholly unnecessary. The only parties who need the gold are the importing merchants. Looking upon excessive importations as one of the evils of the day, he was willing to let gold remain up till importations came down. This would relieve the pressure. If there is a surplus of gold in the treasury, let the Secretary seek out and pay honest creditors. The bill would be wholly ineffectual to fix the price of gold. The Secretary of the Treasury was the best man that could be put in the place be occupies, but as he could not individually effect the sale of gold, the speculators, privately gaining knowledge of the time this would take place through an agent, would be anabled to profit at the expense of the government. To pass this bill would be a disgrace. It was repudiation.

Mr. Morris (N. Y.) did not profess to undersand everything relative to finance, and hence he deferred to the judgment of those who have full knowledge of the subject. The Secretary of the Treasury has a reputation for skill, astuteness and patriotism, and ability for conducting financially the affairs of the country, and therefore he officer that the power to sell the surplus gold be conferred.

Mr. Dennison (Pa.) said for the Government to go into market and buy its cornel.

bring in a bill so taxing the people as will obviate the further emission of paper. Then let General Grant, who is now the most prominent military man in the country, be sent for to lead the army of the Potomac, so brave and efficient, against Geu. Lee. A combination of victory with the depreciation of the price of gold and the means of carrying on the war by taxing the property of the country, would have the effect of reducing gold to forty or forty-two cents; the highest price it should bear in time of war Mr. Garfield (Ohio) argued against merely giv.

Mr. Garfield (Ohio) are ned against merely giving suthority to anticipate the payment of interest, as it proposed to pay debts before they are due, and to be now money to pay debts that are due. The pre-payment of interest would not sensibly affect the gold market. The sinking of the funded cebt and the anticipation of interest are failures. The only way lett is to stop trading and barrering in gold. While the Secretary maintains inviolate the credit of the Government he should be permitted to take the balance of the gold and hold it over the reads of the gold speculators and keep them back from presumptious sins that they may not bear rise over us. We ought to give the Secretary over to protect us from the bulls and bears of Wall street.

Mr. Davis (N. Y.) said we should look to the rnle over us. We ought to give the Secretary power to protect us from the bulls and bears of Wall street.

Mr. Davis (N. Y.) said we should look to the tours as well as the present. This bill was to remain in effect until our successors shall repeal it. The peculation was merely gambling in paper for the price of fold. We are importing a hundred millions a year, which have to be paid to foreign rations in gold, which coin by law we have delated sacredly reserved for payment of public debts. The House were endeavoring to do what could not be done by legislation.

Mr. Price (Iowa) maintained that the assurance the interes on the public debt would be paid in coin, gave the bords more value than when they were issued. Remove this foundation, and the superstructure of our credit falls. The money ought to be retained to meet the obligations for which the public faith is pledged.

Mr. James C. Allen (Il.) said the fact that the Secretary of the Treasury asks for the power to sell gold would have no influence upon him until he tound, as a member of Congress, it was his duty to register the decrees of that offier. Nor was he willing to yield his opinions to the Committee-of Ways and Means. The only way to secure the confidence of the people is to show the power of the Government to pay its liabilities, and the willingness to discharge them. It was, to say the least, a dangerous experiment to authorize the Secretary to sell the gold in the Treasury, and he was opposed to it. It was a scheme concocted somewhere to speculate on the Government's gold without reference to the faith of the country and its liabilities. For the Government to go into market and buy up its own promises, would be dishonorable to the Government and those who administer its affairs.

dishonorable to the Government and those who administer its affairs.

Mr. Hulburd (N. Y.) offered an amendment to the bill as a proviso, that the obligation to create a sinking fund by the act passed February 25, 1562, shall no be impaired thereby.

Mr. Stevens expressed a hope that the vote on the bill would be taken early to-morrow.

The House at a quarter to five o' clock adjourned.

We should not make a profit out of our broken proprieted by law to our creditors, and therefore we should not violate the plighted faith of the Government. It was proposed to turn the Treasury into a broker's shop, with a sign informing the public "Uncurrent funds are bought and sold in this Department." He protested against such a prostitution of power, and that our Government should be reduced to this disgrace.
