the loyal North! desert her now, when one by one her broken planks are being placed in their former position, and her course is becoming more ateady under the skillful guidance of Lincoln and his subordinates, Grant, Thomas and Meade, with their faithful and disciplined crews. Abandon her now, when we can feel that, with a little more sailing and a few more stitches of canyass, we can outride the heavy sea, and the black piratical craft of Rebellion will be our prey! No! we mean to stand by the bulwarks of our own good ship until their flag is struck and their crew suspended at every yard arm.

To the friends of our comrades, whose graves mark the green hillsides of Kentucky, or can be found smid the dark cedars of Stone River, or by the waters of the fretfal Chickamanga, the river of death of Georgia, I wish to say a word. You have the proud consideration of knowing that they fell in a cause, the sacredness of which is second to none ever contested on the face of the earth; that they fell fighting to demonstrate the feasibility of self-government; to prove the superiority of Freedom over Slavery, civilization over barbarism; light over darkness; with their faces toward the deluded toe, doing their whole duty to their God, their country and humanity; that their bones will form a part of the corner-stone of a superstructure the like of which was never presented to the gaze of man—a Republican Government uncorrupted, majestical in its might, sublume inits majesty.

THE SEVENTY-NINTH PENNSYLVA NIA AT HOME.

On Wednesday last, the 77th P. V., reenlisted veterans, arrived at Lancaster; from the West, on furlough. A grand reception was given them. Col. Hambright, who makes no pretensions to speech making, bri-fly thanked his fellow-citizens for the honors conferred by their cordial reception, and remarked that as the furloughs upon which they were here had been granted by the Government for the benefit and gratification of the men, it was proper that on this occasion one of the rank and file should speak for the regiment. He would therefore call upon Private Edwin R. Martin, of Company E, to respond, which that gentleman did in an able and eloquent manner, speaking the following patriotic sentiments in the name of his brave comrades in-arms:

We have crime home as veteran volunteers. Our friends, no doubt, will ask in swhy we re-enlisted, when there are so many on whose services the country has as good a claim as on ours, who have never undergone a single privation. We answer, proudly, we belong to the Old Guard, the first Three Hundred Thousand—the men who have brought this rebellion down from the flush of manhood to the decrepitude of old age; who have's si it on its crutches, and are even now moving those crutches down the pathway of time to an ignominious grave. It is true, the festering carcass of rebellion may turn, cast them away, stand for a moment erect without their support, but it is the death struggle; the wounded bison is most dangerous and most powerful in his last agonies. Now, then, is the time to strike. Davis and his minions are blind with fury and rage at their hitherio ill-success; their followers are deserting their standard not by tens or hundreds, but by thonsands. He is even now casting lots with the potentates of Europe for the spoils of our fair country, as the Jews of old did over the raiment of our Savieur. Would we be American soldiers and tolerate this, or stand by and have it

THE PIRATE RAPPAHANNOCK.

The Paris correspondent of the New York Times, under date of March let, writes as follows:

The French Government, tired of the annoyances caused by the presence of Confederate ships in French ports, has announced, as its law of action, it e same regulations as those published two or three months ago by the English Government. These new regulations are more stringent than the original neutrality proclamation, and tend to diminish and simplify the contestations between the two Governments. Among other things specified in these regulations, are two, to the effect that no vessel of either of the belligerents can remain in port more than twenty-lour hours, unless by stressof weather or for necessary repairs, and that no vessel can return to a French port after leaving it in a less time than three months. These rules the French Government hope will lessen the inducement for making of its ports a harbor of refuge on all occasions. under date of March 1st, writes as follows:

ll occasions.
The Rappahannock has furnished a fruitful ex-The Rappahannock has furnished a fruitful example of the nature of the annoyance there we sels are liable to provoke. In the first place, her Commander Capt. Campbell, declares that she broke some part of her machinery at sea, and drifted or was blown into Calais, which circumstance gives her the benefit of the stress of weather clause, and the contriry cannot be proved. But evidence has been obtained from England, that when the vessel escaped from Sheerness the was not in a fit condition to go to sea, as for example, among other things, that the masts were not stayed, and upon this very strong point it is arged that the French Government ought not to allow her to leave port as a Confederate vessel. Again, it was objected by the American Minister, that the packages sent to the vessel from England ought not to be permitted to go on board; but this objection was overruled by the French Government, on the ground that a part of the material in the packages was for the repair of the real or pretended a scient to be material.

And again, a serious discussion has arisen in regard to the crew of the vessel, and into which the English Government has been drawn. Several crews, surreptitionsly recruited in England by the Confederate Agents, have deserted, after arriving at Calais and learning the true situation of affairs, and Capt. Campbell applied to the police authorities of the town to aid him in preventing these desertions. This circumstance brought Lord Cowley, the English Ambassador at Paris, into the affair, so that the fight has now become a triangular one and bids fair also to become an interesting one. Calais, it will be understood, offers great advantages for desertions, since it is the port from which the English mail boats start twice a day to cross the channel, and a sallor once on Board of one of these vessels is safe. For this reason, and to put a stop to a discussion which was annoying and irritating to all parties, the commander of the Rappahannock asked the privilege of transferring his vessel to Cherbourg or Brest, from which ports there is no ready way of escape to England; but as the matter of desertion was no business of the French Government, the request was very naturally refused. At present the number of sailors on board the vessel can hardly exceed half a dozen

The American Minister at Paris has collected enough evidence in regard to the Rappahannock to satisfy him that this vessel, if allowed to go to sea, ought by every fair construction of international law, to stand in the same relation to the French Government as the Alabama and Florida do to the English Government, and he has therefore given writ

Thus, at the present moment, the prospect is, that the Rappahannock will not be allowed to go to sea; but international law is not construed in all countries alike, and the law counselors of the French Government may find some technicality we have not yet dreamed of across the Atlanti-

Capt: Sawyer, of the 1st New Jersey Cavalry, who has just returned from Richmond, reports that he saw, on Monday last, Lieut. Col. Litchfield, Major Cook, Dr. Kinston and three officers of a negro regiment, in one cell, chained to six negroes. The prisoners are fed upon corn bread and water, and have a limited supply even of that.

The World correspondent writes:

Private advices from the South state that the rebels have organized a very strong force in North Carolins, and that they have distributed it all along the railroad line which connects Petersburg to Weldon and Weldon to Wilmington. The forces are said to be the nucleus of an army of observation, destined to watch the Southern part of James River, which, in the calculation of the rebels, will be attacked next spring by the Federal army, commanded by General Grant in person. It is also stated that General Longstreet is to be recalled from his command, to be appointed commander of the forces in Southern Virginia, and that General Kirby Smith will take his place. The rebels are now actively engaged in manufacturing rails and rolling stock for the establishment of new lines of railroad in North Carolina and Georgia. A branch of the railroad has been already built, commenencing at Ashby, running to Bibb iron works, in Bibb county, Georgia; thence to the rich coal region of Catawba county, and ultimately to Elyton, Jefferson county.

STUART NORTH OF THE RAPPAHANNOCK.

The Times' correspondent at Washington sends the following despatch:

There is some excitement in military circles tonght about the reported raid by Stnart. He crossed at Fredericksburg last night, with a force estimated at five thousandmen. Kilpatrick and Merritt are on his track.

The army correspondent of the World in announcing the movement, says: The enemy are not chastened by the recent destruction of property within their lines, and are now attempting to do something in the way of retaliation. Last night information was received at headquarters to the effect that Stnart, with five thousand cavalry (probably fifteen hundred), was crossing the Rappahannock at or near Fredericksburg. The full object of the enemp is not yet developed; but the whole Army of the Potomac is well in hand, ready for a raid or a general move on the part of the enemy.

It is thought that the enemy's cavalry will also make a demonstration toward the Baltimore and Onio Railroad.

FROM MEXICO.

[Correspondence of the N. Y. Tribune.]

MATAMORAS, Feb. 20, 1864.—It is reported here that on the 9th or 10th Juarez entered Monterey, and that on his approach Vidaurri took all his artillery and went into what is called the Black Fort, about a mile from the city, and there remained. Thereupon Juarez returned to Santilla. It is supposed that a fight will come off between the forces of Juarez, under Doblado, and Vidaurri, in the course of a week or ten days.

The so-called C. S. authorities in Texas have appointed Thomas J. Devine (a C. S. District Judge) and Thomas F. McKinney Commissioners to negotiate with Vidaurri for reopening the trade that they will be successful, especially as about 3,000 bales of cotton have already accumulated at or near Eagle Pass, and more is on the road. The Mexican tariff of 1½c, per pound on this cotton is an object to Vidaurri. The C. S. authorities charge one half of the cotton as the export daty on the other. The freight from Eagle Pass via Piedras Negras, &c., to Matamoras, amounts to the exporters, if not rebel officials, make little or mothing.

S. Government. Maior Joseph F. Minter, formerly a Lieutenant in the U. S. A., but latterly a Major in the C. S. RUMORED CUNAPIDACY IN RENTUCKY.
There is a rumor in town of a vast conspirary, ambracing several counties and cities of Kentucky, and having for its object the annexation of that state to the Southern Confederary. The leaded, their heacquarters at Monticello, and were corresponding, through Stony and Founding gaps with Lougstreet at Rogersville and with Kentucky delegation at Richmond. The Conspirators had, it seems, secret affiliation with Certain purities at London, Manchester, Mount Vernon, Danville, &c., with whom they were carrying on an active correspondence. Their plan was to establish in every county a central committee, invested with dictatorial powers, to compel the inhabitants to join in the Southern Confederacy as soon as Longstreet or Breckinridge, who are anxiously waited for, would have invaded the State. This infumous conspiracy was discovered, it is said, by the seizure of the Post Office of letters addressed by the Kentucky delegates to some of the leaders of the most notorious rebels, such as Humphrey Marshall, G. W. Triplett, E. F. Bradley, and other members of the rebel Congress.—Washing on Correspondent New York World. RUMORED CONCPIDACY IN RENTUCKY

GENERAL GRANT AT LOUISVILLE.

The Louisville Journal of March 15, contains the following:
Lieutenant General Grant arrived on the mailboat from Cincinnati, vesterday morning, direct from Washington. He did not stop to rest in the city, but left for the front on the seven o'clock train for Nashville. Since the commencement of bis journey to Washington, over a week, ago, he has been on the constant go, and though worn out with travel and loss of sleep, he hurries to the front to perfect the arrangements for the gigantic movements in progress. We understand his headquarters in the field, will be established at Culpeper Court House, Virginia. General Sherman is expected to arrive here in a few days and assume command of the Military Division of the Mississippi. He, perhaps, will meet Gen. Grant in this city, on the return o' the latter to Washington and his Leadquarters in Virginia.

STREET CLEARING.—Mr. Dickinson, the new Inspector of Streets, has commenced operations in earnest. Men with scrapers and brushes, and carts for the removal of the ashes can now be seen dally in almost every part of the city. Some difficulty is yet experienced in getting fully underway, owing to the scarcity of tools, but this is fast being remedied. It will take some time to remove the filth—the accumulation of months—from the cobble-stone, but when the streets are once thoroughly cleansed, the activity and energy already displayed by Mr. Dickinson is a sufficient guarantee that they will be kept in good condition.

CARD — WARBUETON'S HATS.—The new shipes for spring wear are new ready. Gentlemen it re respectfully in vited to call and examine shem. It is believed that the styles now being offered will prove very pleasing. The brims are made narrower than heretofore, conforming in this respect to the best fa hions of London and Paris, and in compliance to the expressed wish of many, whog we at the natures of dress in this city as well as in New York. Broader brims will be kept in stock, or made to order for those who desire them.

The prices of Silk, as well as Felt Hans, have necessarily advanced—nearly every article entering into their construction being either prepared or produced abroad, can consequen by be bought only with gold or its equivalent. Strong endeavors bare been made to exceed as little as possible the standard prices of the times pre ed ng the rebellion. Present prices for fine dress Hats are now $6 and $7 For blocking or refinishing Hats, an increase of price is also made necessary by the higher wages now paid for labor.

THE SANITARY COMMISSION IN GENERAL BANKS'S DEPARTMENT. The following is an extract from the February report of Mr. O. C. Bullard, Special Relief Agen. of the U. S. Sanitary Commission, in the Depart ment of the Gulf:

ment of the Gulf:

"Lave Monday night a squad of seventy-six recruis for a New York Regiment, arrived in Brashear, on their way to Franklin, to join their regiment. The night was stormy, some of the menter sick, and all without experience in the service. They had but just landed from the transport which had brought them from New York, when they were started for the field. The officer having them in charge asked if we could cooksthem some rations, and give them a place on the floor, or elsewhere under cover, for the night.

"We prepared them some good coffee, gave them an abundance of excellent bread and butter, and then made the best arrangement we could for sleeping. Most of the beds were atready occupied. The sick men were furnished with cots, the rest were well satisfied with the floor.

"We gave them breakfast and dinner the following day, and they left us with many kind wishes for the Sanitary Commission.

"For Tuesday we had it many respects a repetition of the preceding twenty four hours. Eightythree men were received, some dropping in as late as 11 P. M.

as II P. M.

"A squad of some thirty men came in about 10 P. M. They were from various regiments, on their way to New Orleans for the Inva.id Corps Camp. The beds were already full, but we gave them supper, and spread them on the floor."

COURTS. NISI PRIUS-Justice Agnew—Thornton vs. the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.—In this case the jury was discharged yesterday, until Monday, when the evidence for the plantiff will be resumed. QUARTER SESSIONS—Judge Ludlow.—Desertion cases were before the Court this morning.

cases were before the Court this morning.

PERSONAL.

The St. Lonis Democrat, of the 15th March, has the following: Brig. Gen. Alfred Sully, son of Sully, the celebrated artist, arrived in this city on Saturday. He has been appointed to the command of the expedition against the Sioux Indians of Dacotsh, which will start in a short time. General Sully has served against the Sioux in Minnesots, and is pretty well posted in regard to their habits and mode of warfare. He is eminently qualified for the command of the contemplated expedition, and will doubtless bring the war-like Sioux to terms during the next summer.

Judge Carter, of Cincinnati, sued the Commercial of that city for libel, in stating at he was not a fit person to occupy a seat on the bench, etc., and that he had received $1,000 to decline a nomination given by the Democratic party. The case was decided on Saturday last, the jury finding a verdict in favor of the Judge and awarding him damages to the amount of one cent.

AN EMPLOYER CHALLENGED .- A porter was recently brought before a court in Paris, for beating his employer. He admitted the beating, but professed himself ready to give his employer the satisfaction of a gentleman. The Court and the employer did not acknowledge the right of a servant to challenge his master, and the chivalric porter was fined for assault. He paid the fine and left the court, casting a glance of sovereign contempt on the object of
