suspended, and the usual reference to the Gommittee on Railroads will be avoided. The bill will then be rushed through the House, and hurried to the Senate, where the same programme will be gone through with. There are, we hope, honest men enough in both branches of the Legislature to defeat this infamous scheme if they were prepared for action upon it, and if all else fails the Governor will certainly interpose his veto to prevent the consummation of the disgraceful scheme. The hurrying of such a bill through, without the ordinary formalities, is sufficient to make any legislator above the degree of an absolute idiot suspicious of the honesty of the movement; and if the plans of the conspirators are carried out we will take good care that the people shall know through the columns of the BULLETIN the names of the legislators who have gone to the State Capitol, not to legislate for the good of their constituents and the State at large, but for the purpose of filling their own pockets. DEATH OF DR. FRANKLIN BACHE.

Dr. Franklin Bache, the oldest great grandson of Benjamin Franklin, and a distinguished member of the Medical profession, died at his residence in this city on Saturday afternoon after a short illness. Dr. Bache was born in Philadelphia on the 25th of October, 1792, and was the oldest son of the oldest grandchild of Benjamin Franklin. In 1810 he graduated as Bachelor of Arts at the University of Pennsylvania, and four years later graduated in the Medical department of the same institution. The year previous he entered the Army as Surgeon's Mate, and the following year was appointed a full Surgeon, a position he occupied for two years, when he resigned and commenced a private practice in this city. From 1824 to 1836 he was physician to the Walnut street Prison; from 1826 to 1832 a Professor of Chemistry in the Franklin Institute; from 1829 to 1839 physician to the Eastern Penitentiary; from 1831 to 1841 Professor of Chemistry in the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy; and in 1841 he was appointed a Professor of Chemistry in the Jefferson Medical College, the duties of which office, he ably and faithfully performed up to the day that he was taken sick with the disease which resulted in his death. He was also at one time President of the American Philosophical Society, and at the time of his death the President of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum. During his long career he made numerous valuable additions to the particular branch of science of which he was such an able exponent, the principal of which were the Dispensatory of the United States, published by Dr. George B. Wood and himself. the first edition of which was issued in 1833. He was also a member of the Publishing Committee of the United States Pharmacopæia, and to his persevering labors, frequently extended after the midnight hour, is due much of the value of that important work. During the recent session of the Jefferson Medical College he showed no evidence of the near approach of death, and was present at the Commencement party given on the evening of the tenth instant, apparently in the enjoyment of health. Prof. Bache was a brother of Col. Hartman Bache, of the Engineer Corps, and a first cousin of Prof. A. Dallas Bache, of the Coast Survey. He leaves one daughter and four sons, three of whom are in the Govern-

ANOTHER BAILWAY SCHEME. We understand from reliable authority that some of the members of the Senate and Assembly have a scheme on foot to saddle the citizens of Philadelphia with a wholesale gridironing in the city railroad way, whether they (the citizens) will or not. It is of course well known that most of the recent city railway schemes originate with mere speculators who are entirely indifferent to the amount of damage they may inflict upon the community, so that they can fill their own pockets. When there is sufficient money involved in these operations there is no difficulty in finding legislators of easy virtue who will lend themselves to the work with results that we are unfortunately too familiar with in the history of Pennsylvania legislation. In this latest scheme to which we refer, a number of members of both branches have taken the speculation into their own hands, so as to secure for their own pockets the whole of the profits, and such of the corporators. other than themselves, who are named in the bill, are understood to be mere men of straw. The whole business has been managed with such secrecy that it is difficult to learn, all the particulars of the route of the proposed new road. It provides for occupying Seventh and Ninth streets, with branches running to the Kensington depot, Fairmount, the Baltimore Railroad depot, and the Navy Yard, making a circumbendibus line which will not only run through the centre of the city, but which penetrates to each of its four corners. It can scarcely be possible that such a road will ever be built, and the object of the passage of the bill can
