-XXXVIIITH CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION. CLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

SENATE.—Mr. Wilson reported, from the Military Committee on House bill establishing a Bureau of Military Justice, with an amendment changing the head officer from Major to Colonel.

Mr. Wade introduced a joint resolution appropriating $20,000 for expenses incurred by the Committee on the Conduct of the War, which was passed.

. Mr. Trumbull introduced a bill to establish passed.

Mr. Trumbull introduced a bill to establish a depot and navy yard at Cairo, Illinois. Reserved to the Naval Committee. The bill appropriates $100,000. He also gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill for a sbip canal netween Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River:

The bill in relation to desertors was called up by Mr. Wilson. The bill disfranchises those who shall refuse to return to the service at the call of the President, in a proclamation to be issued immediately after the passage of this act. Those who re-enter the service at such place and time as the President may designate do so without punishment, except the forfeiting of pay and all allowances due at the time of desertion and during their absence.

The morning hour having expired, the Senate took up the special rider, the bill of Mr. Powell to prevent military interference in State elections.

Mr. Howard addressed the Senate in opposition to the bill. He considered the bill an extra ridinary one in every aspect: the bill proyided that no officer of the army shall have under his control any troops or armed men within one mile of the place where any general election is being held. Ind the honorable Senator contemplate the possible effect here any general election is being held. Did the morable Senator contemplate the possible effect such a clause as this! Did he foresee that it nonorable Senator contemplate the possible effect of such a clause as this! Jud he foresee that it might happen that a rebel force in full battle array might be within the radius of one mile from the poli where the election was held! Such a bill as this would in effect prohibit our commanders from attacking such rebel force white they were in the radius of this magic circle, and would make our polis a sanctuary for armed rebels. It was impossible that a bill containing any such feature could pass the Senate of the United States, as in our whole history there was not a precedent for it.

The Senator from Kentucky brings in this singular measure when the country resounds with the clash of arms; and the whole hemisphere is lighted up by the latid flame of civil war, extending from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky Mountains, and while the hearts of all truly loyal men are bleeding for the perpetuity of our government. He did not deny that there might have been in some cases trifling abuses or meases of military power at elections, but the reasons must be weightly indeed, to demand the passage of such a measure by Congressas the one proposed. He believed the provisions of this bill were plainly obnoxious to the Constitution of the United States.

He held that Congress had no power over this subject of State elections, except that it may prescribe the time, manner and place, of elections.

He held that Congress had no power over this subject of State elections, excep that it may prescribe the time, manner and planes of electing Senstors and Representatives to Congress. The power to regulate local electors was one of the reserved rights of the States. He would inquie from what part of the Constitution the Senator derived the power for Congress to punish those who small violate State laws regulating elections? Yet the Senator who is a himself up as an expounder of the Constitution here, and so often declares that the old fapric's going to pieces, like an old raft over a waterfall, now inualges in the legislative experiment of asking Congress to punish every person in the military service who shall interfere in a State election. Congress had no more right to do this than to punish for the violainterfere in a State etection. Congress had no more right to do this than to punish for the violation of other State laws.

He called the attention of the Senator to the fact that Gen. McClellan was the flist to issue orders in relation to whitever was referenced. in relation to military supervision at elections, and quoted from his orders to Gen Banks at Muddy Creek, Meryland, of October 26, 1861, in-structing him to detail forces at the different polis to protect Union voters from intimidation, and to hold in confinement those who were in collasion with the rebels. He was very happy, for once in his life, to concur with Gen. Mc lellas, and he was proud that the power was sanctioned by that distinguish military leader, the heir apparent of the Democratic party in the next Presidental election.

Mr. Howard, without concluding, gave way.

The Senate went into Executive session, and Mr. Howard, without concluding, gave way.
The Senate went into Executive session, and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Spaulding (Ohio) introduced a resolution, which was passed, instructing the Committee of Ways and Means to inquire into the expediency of imposing an adequate duty on all wool imported from foreign cou tries, from and after the first day of July next, and to report by bill or otherwise.

day of July next, and to report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. McCfurg (Mo.), rising to a question of privilege by unanimous consent, referred to the remarks which he delivered on the 9th inst., in which he charged that his colleague (Mr. Blair) had issued an order, while in military command, for smuggling liquors into the army, contrary to the Treasury trade regulations.

A sharp personal discussion them took place between Messrs. McClurg and Blair, resultin in Mr. Blair presenting a resolution in writing, that a select committee of three members be appointed by the Speaker, with power to send for persons and papers, and investigate the charge of Mr. McClurg (Mo.) agairst Francia P. Blair, Jr., of said State, of violation of the laws in the matter of an alleged liquor speculation. This resolution was passed after being amended at the suggestion of salieged liquor speciation. This resolution was passed after being amended at the suggestion of Mr. Stevens, so that the committee may also inquire into the genuineness or falsity of the documents which Mr. McClurg had produced.

The Speaker appointed Messrs Higby (Cal.), Clay (Ky.), and Pruyn (N. Y.), the committee. The House considered, during the morning hour the bill declaring the Delaware Bay and Raritan Railroad to be a postal and military route. route.
Mr. Dayis(N. Y.) supported the bill on the ground that the Government required the road for such purposes, and argued to show that the principles claimed by the opponents of the measure were both ansate and unsound.

masate and unsound.

Mr. Perry (N. J.) opposed the bill, insisting that it was not enily unwarranted and uncalled for, but was derogatory to a loyal State, and was not required by the necessities of the Government. It was an intringement on the right, and simply a Wall street speculation.

The House next proceeded to the consideration of the special order, being the bill amendatery of the National Bank act.

Mr. Houser (Mass.) explained that this bill made.

of the special order, being the bill amendatory of the National Bank act.

Mr. Hooper (Mass.) explained that this bill made such corrections as experience and observation of the past year required, and to render the law so perfect that the State banks may organize under it, instead of continuing under their State charters. He looked on the system of State banks as having outlived their day, and being unequal to the present exigencies and the demands which this war is making on the country and on its financial and monetary systems. If we had relied on the State banks instead of the government for our currency, there would have been an inflation of paper which would have overwhelmed and embarrassed the government. The legal tender was the only measure which could be adopted with safety. So far these National Banks had worked well, and be expressed the hope that gentlemen would give support to this bill, which had been so carefully prepared after consultation with those most familiar with the question of currency.

Without action the House at 4.20 P. M. adjourned.

DEPARTMENT WEST VIRGINIA, March 21, 1861.

—General Averell, who has been lying dangerously ill for several days past at the United States Hotel in Martinsburg, is now considered out of danger by the physicians in attendance on him.
At one time the General was so low that he was given up by his friends. The General's complaint is hemorrhage of the bowels.

There was a rumor at Martinsburg to-day that a portion of Sturt's cavalry was moving on this side of the mountains. Our scouts go out every day a short distance beyond Strasburg.

I hear reports of a gathering of rebel forces at Staunton. The gathering is represented as an unusually large one. sually large one.
ST. JOHN'S RUN, March 21.—Everything is ulet here to-day. guist here to-day.

The rebel force that dashed into Bath was commanded by Major Hunter. The rebels did not destroy any property. They captured only two soldiers as prisoners, and carried off four citizens, including Senator Bechtel and Delegate Wheat.

There is now no danger to the railroad line at this point.

CAIRO. March 23.—A fire broke out this evening in Reed & Mann's Foundry, on the Ohio levee, consuming two entire blocks fronting on the levee, teleween Tenth and Twelfth streets, including Pemberton & Woodward's Novelty Works, the Quartermaster's building, carpenter shops, and a number of stores. The official papers were all saved.

"HUMBOLDT CIL" REFINERY! DESTROYED,—
The steamer Urilda, on her last trip from Oil City, blought down intelligence of the total destruction of the 'Humboldt Oil Refinery," said to be the largest and most valuable establishment of the character in the United States. The fire occurred on 'aturday, and broke out in the engine-house, from which it extended to the adjoining buildings, which, in a few minutes were enveloped in flames. The fire raged with fearful fury, and as there were no means of checking. its progress, everything ignitable in the neighborhood was destroyed. Sarcely a vestige of the Refinery remains, while to add to the extent of the calamity some twenty thousand barrels of oil, we are informed, were also destroyed. This may be an exaggeration, but there can be no doubt that the quantity of oil lost was very large. The Allegheny boats have ceased running, owing to the lowness of the water, so that some time must elapse before we can get particulars of the catastrophe.—Pillsburgh Chronick.

COLD BLOODED MURDER — A cold blooded lars of the catastrophe.—Pilisburgh Chronicle.

Cold Blooded Murder —A cold blooded murder was perpetrated by a man named Landers, at Zaresville, Ohio, the other day. It appears that a soldier named Monroe was sitting at the Porter House 'i' with his wife and child, from whom he expected in a tew moments to part, to again brave the perils, of the field. They had just returned from the picture gallery, and he was sitting talking to his wife, when Landers entered and thrusta paper into his bosom. Mon toe asked if he meant to insult him. Landers passed out the deor, and requested Monroe to fo low him. Asson as Monroe had passed into the street, Landers drew a revolver and shot him through the head, killing him instantly. An efforwas made to lynch the murderer on the spot, but he was rot inside the jail before the mob could carry out their threats, and is now in prison awaiting trial for the murder. trial for the murder.
