NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"Lyrics of a Day, or Newspaper Poetry," published by Carleton, of New York, contains some of the best verse of its kind that has appeared during the war. Most of the poems are vigorous, terse and manly, very far above the common-place level of the occasional pieces suggested by the events of the war. One of them, "The Color-Bearer," suggested by an incident at Vicksburg, has gone the rounds of the press extensively, and been universally admired as a most striking poem. The very roughness of the verse, in this and most of the other pieces, has a good effect. There is nothing namby-pamby or sentimental in any of them. The author is Mr. Henry Howard Brownell, who shows himself capable of higher flights than any he has attempted in this little volume. A valuable and well-timed legal publication has just been issued by the Appletons and may be obtained from Ashmead & Evans. It is entitled "Practice in the Executive Departments of the Government, under the Pension, Bounty and Prize Laws of the United States.' Its author is Robert Sewell, Counsellor at Law, who, while serving on the staff of the Governor of New Jersey, found how necessary such a work was. He undertook to prepare one, and the result is the excellent volume under notice. It contains all the legislation on the subjects named in the title, together with instructions how to proceed in the departments, and forms of applications such as are approved and in use. The volume is handsomely printed and bound in law.calf. It contains 350 pages.

The series of translations from Jean Paul Friedrich Richter, from the publishing house of Ticknor & Fields, is progressing. They have just issued in an exquisite volume, "The Campaner Thal and other Writings." The translator of "The Campaner Thal" is Juliette Bauer. The "Life of Quintus Fixlein" and the "Journey to Flätz" are translated by Carlyle, and there is a series of brief articles called 'Analects from Richter," translated by De Quincey. The singular and original genius and the quaint, grotesque humor of Jean Paul are seen vividly in all these writings. The translators have happily succeeded in trans-ferring to English the subtle style of the origi-nal. Messrs. Peterson & Brothers, a new volume published by Ticknor & Fields, from the pen of Rev. W. H. Furness. It is entitled "The Veil Partly Lifted and Jesus Becoming Visible." For beauty of style and clearness of thought we know of few works of this class that equal it. The life and character of Jesus are presented in singular freshness and beauty. Of course the views of the writer harmonize with the doctrines of the church of which he is a distinguished ornand pay. The Tribune's correspondent says: Mrs. Bissell ment. It is a very lively and spirited narrative, apparently written by a Pennsylvania bird clars, at Pittsburgh. Uthers heside these may be ready for floating off. It appears that as one of the cars, laden with coal, had commenced descending the inclined plane leading from the mouth of the pit to the river. the fastening gara way, and there scientific exposition of the manœuvres of steam fleets, with about seventy diagrams to illustrate the different problems. It will be invaluable to naval officers who have, or ever expect to have, squadrons to command. The work is for the river, the fastening gave way, and there being nothing now to check its course, it rushed down the track with fearful velocity. sale by J. B. Lippincott & Co. being nothing now to check its course, it rushed down the track with fearful velocity. At the foot of the plane a number of men were engaged in loading a coal barge lying in the river directly under the 'ttipple,'' while on the 'ttipple'' itself was a car which was being unloaded just as the other came down. The men tried to get out of the way, but the velocity with which the descending car approached left them but little opportunity to escape the danger, and the catastrophe above noted was the result. The car struck that on the track with fear-ful force, forcing it over the 'tipple'' into the barge, and scattering the coal and tim-bers in every direction. Mr. W. Nichols, foreman of the works and one of the owners, was standing in the barge at the time and 'was knocked overboard. His body was recovered soon after, but life was extinct. John Kane and Joseph Wells, who were engaged in unloading the car on the 'tipple,'' were knocked from the plat-form into the barge and instantly killed. They were struck by the flying fragments of the broken car and their bodies badly mullated. Another of the hands, James Forden, had one of his legs fractured and was otherwise dan-gerously 'injured. He is not expected to recover. William Copeland, also employed at the worke, was injured considerably, but his life is not in danger. Kane was a married ma and leaves a family. The others were unmarried. Doctor Walters was called on soon after the acci-dent occurred, and went up by the noon train to attend to the sufferers. The accident was caused by the breaking of the bolts helding the straps to which the rope was fastened, and was one of those occurrences against which it seems almost impos-sible to provide. Intervent Miltrrary Onder. A handsome volume of poetry, called "Mount Vernon and Other Poems," by Harvey Rice, has been published by Appleton & Co., and we have received a copy through Messrs. Ashmead & Evans. The verse is musical in all cases, the sentiments are pure and the patriotic feel. ing that characterizes most of the poems will be highly acceptable to our loyal citizens. The 23d and 24th parts of "The Book of Days" have just been issued by Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co. This admirable collection of curious facts was the subject of an elaborate and highly laudatory criticism in a late number of that leading critical journal of England, the Saturday Review. A NEAT LITTLE BOOK on the "Laws and Practice of Whist," by Cavendish, has reached its fifth edition. It is published by Appleton & Co., and may be relied on as authority in all questions concerning this interesting and popular game of cards. In order to remedy existing evils in waste and de-struction of cavalry horses, a board of three offi-cers is to be appointed by the War Department to make horough inspections of mounted troops in each sumy in the field, and to report to the Adju-tant. General such regiments and companies as for want of discipline and neglect and waste of horses ought to be dismounted and broken up and trans-terred to other organizations from the same State. Where regiments or companies are broken up, officers will be mustered out of service. Authority has been given to commanding generals of armies and military departments to dismount and transfer to infantry regiments from the same State any monnted man whose horse is, through his own fault or neglect rendered unfit for service. There is great consternation among horse con-tractors to sight. Secretary Stanton, by a skill-ful cong d' tad, has broken up the ring formed here to force up the price of horses on the Government. MAKING A BIGINNING.—If you do not begin you will never come to the end. The first weed pulled up in the garden, the first seed set in the ground, the first shilling put in the savings bank, and the first mile traveled on a journey, are all important things; they make a beginning, and thereby give a hope, promise, a pledge, an assu-rance that you are in earnest with what you have undertaken. INFORMATION WANTED.—James W. Green, a member of Company E, 3th Massachusetts Regiment, is now in this city in search of his wife. Marie B. Green. Mirs. Green was a clerk in the Post Office Department at Washingtoff. She also took a prominent part in the Sanitary Fair held there, and about the last of February she became considerably depressed in spirits, as is supposed, in consequence of ther severe labors. She was ad-vised to take some relaxation, and on the 29th of February, was placed upon the cars for Phila-delphia, stating that she would pay a visit to a friend here. Since that time she has not been heard of. Her friends in Massachusetts have been telegraphed to, but she has not been there. The furlough of Mir. Green is about to expire, and any information about the missing woman, left with Chief Ruggles at the Mayor's office will be for-warded to him. A SOLDIEE SHOT IN CAMP-Geo. Wells,

He had joined the 25th regiment, but de-serted, and afterwards enlisted in the 43d regi-ment, under the name of Haws. He was placed in the guard-house for unraly conduct, and while there drew a knife upon the guard and also upon the Sergeant, a man named Coffey, belonging to

AMUSEMENTS.

AMUSEMENTS. THE ARCH.—But three nights remain of the en-gagement of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams. Each evening they have filled the house to over-flowing, and if their stay could be prolonged, they could again act their entire round of Irish and Yankee characters. As time has mellowed and ripened their powers, they both act in a more sub-dued tone, which allows of delicate shading and very nice touches which could scarcely be noticed in their more rollicking style of a few years ago. Still, this mellowing process has but increased their popularity with their admirers, and they have never played a more successful engagement thras the present one. To-night's bill comprises three plays. Mr. Williams appears in "The Irish Tutor," and in "The Irish Tiger," and Mrs. Williams enacts nine different parts in the protean play of "An Hour in Seville." THE GREAT FAIR to be held in June is attsacting universal attention. The important question is.-How will the visitors be accommo-dated? It is suggested that a list of all private boarding houses and their capacities be made out, and then if that will not be enough, the large houses at the navy yard will be fitted up as hotels; also the great market, houses. In the mean time Charles Oakford & Sons, under the Continental Hotel, will have everything in their line ready for the great rush of strangers. Daughter." THE 102D REGIMENT. — The Old Thirteenth Regi-ment, Colonel Patterson in command, artived in Pittsburgh on Saturday, and met with a most em-thasiastic reception. They were met at the depot by a large crowd, including the Mayor and seve-ral prominent citizens, and escorted to the OlD Hall, where the Subsistence Committee served them up an excellent meal. There was a band neady to escort the regiment from the depot, but they came on an hour ahead of time, so that the programme for their reception was but partially carried out. At the City Hall, the Mayor wel-comed the regiment in an appropriate address, which was frequently interrupted by applanse. The regiment numbers some three hundred and seventy men, and never was in finer trim. They have a furlough of twenty days, during which they will no doubt have a good time of it among their friends.
