XXXVIIITH CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION. EXSION. WASHINGTON, March 30. SHEATE.—Mr. Willey, from the Committee on Finance, reported adversely on the resolution directing the Superintendent of the Omeus to pepare certain tables showing the population, products and manufactures of certain sections, by comparison and in cetail. Ordered to lay on the table.

table. Mr. Fessenden, from the Finance Committee reported back the House bill making approprations for the legislative, executive and judical expenses of the government for the current year, with amendments.

On motion of Mr. Johnson, it was resolved that the Secretary of War be requested to furnish the Senate with the original or copy of telegraphic dispatch or orders on file in the department of Major General Dix, to Provost Marshal Do ge, dated November 5, 1861, concerning an election held in Maryland on the following day.

Mr. Brown presented resolutions of the Legislature of Missouri adverse to the imposition of a tax on the growth of tobacco or tobacco in the leaf. Referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Wilson reported back from the Military Committee, the bill for paying to Minnesota the costs, charge and expenses of the Indian war of 1862. Referred to the Committee on Claims. Claims.

Mr. Sherman submitted a letter, received from the Assistant Secretary of the Trea-ury, (ar. Field.) with details of the claim of Mrs. Mary Throckmorton for the compensation for six negroes claimed as her own, which the District Commissioner for Emancipation could nowallow, her husband being in the rebel army, though a son is sancoffier in the Union army, but recommended Congress to pay from residue of that fund.

Mr. Harlan, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported favorably on the joint resolution explanatory of the tenth section of the act to reduce the expenses of the survey and sale of public lands, which was adopted.

which was adopted.

Mr. Harian reported from the Committee on Public Lands a bill to aid the railroads in Iowa, from McGregor, along the forty-third parallel, to a point of Missouri river with a branch of Cedar Valley towards Mankato, Minnesota, and one from Sioux City to Mankato, giving tive alternate sec tions per mile.

Mr. Wade called up the House bill to provide a temporary government for the territory of Mon-Mr. Wilkinson offered an amendment to the Mr. Wilkinson offered an amendment to the sixth section striking out the words "free white male inhabitant," and inserting "male citizen of the United States, or who shall have declared his intention to become such." This clause r-ters to the qualification for vo ers and eligibility to office.

Mr. Johnson briefly stated the reasons which would cause him to vote against the amendment.

The morning hour expired, and the Senate proceeded to the unfinished business of yesterday, the joint resolution amendatory to the Constitution. Mr. Davis said there was no subject more important to the people than the proposed amend ment of the Constitution. The general reason assigned for this action, that slavery was the cause of the rebellion, struck him as very unsound. He would be perfectly willing to acknowledge the guilt of Massachusetts and of South Carolina, and abolish both of these States. If this had been done abolish both of these States. If this had been done thirty years ago, this war would not have occurred. He was opposed to the present measure for many reasons. It strikes at one of the most vital and essential principles of our mingled system of national and State governments, He held that when a State was in the performance of its duties in obedience to the Constitution, that it was entitled to immunity from the infraction of its local laws on the part of the Government. Any other principle would be a despotism.

These amendments would destroy a fundamental principle of the Constitution, interfering with and stripping the people of a loyal State where slavery stripping the people of a loyal State where slavery exists of their undoubted constitutional rights. It would also, he argued, if extended, deprive then of their right to regulate any of their domestic institutions. Slavery was the creature of local law alone. Upon what pretext, then, did Senators asstitutions. Slavery was the creature of rocal awalone. Upon what pretext, then, did Senators assert that Congress had jurisdiction over it in sovereign States. He denied any such power, either in Congress or the Executive.

Mr. Davis arraigned the President at great length for military interference in elections in Kenucky, Missouri, Maryland, and Delaware, to promote the election of representatives friendly to his cause.

Cause.

Though he grieved to say it, he did not know which government threatened the people most, that of the rebel Jefferson Davis or the usurper braham Lincoln. The Senate then went into Executive session, and subsequently adjourned.

HOUSE.—Much time was spent on the consideration of a report from the Naval Committee proposing to refer to the Court of Claims the settlement of the claim of Wm. Wheeler Hubbell, for the government use of his patent Thunder-bolt shell and fuse, and the compensation not to exceed

The subject was referred to the Court of Claims.
On motion of Mr. Yeaman (Ey.) the Committee on Military Affairs were instructed to inquire into the practicability and utility of furnishing and asing as a military highway the railroad between Henderson. Ky., and Nashville, Tenn., and report by bill or otherwise.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union on the National Bank bill.

Bank bill.

Mr. Brooks (N. Y.) offered an amendment to confine the engraving and printing of the notes to the Controller of the currency, without the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury; as the bill provides. Mr. Brooks said the Secretary already has too much te do. He could not give sufficient time and attention to the printing and circulation of notes. This business, therefore, should be exclusively under the direction of the Controller of the Currency, as heretofore. He called attention to the fact that the printing was now conducted by a man who was engaged in fraudulent transactions, but no official attention had been given to the subject. Some great mishap might occur, and in view of the vast temptation measures ought to be taken to prevent it.

Mr. Garfield (Onio) was thoroughly tired of hearing insinuations of something very rotten in the management of the Government. The gentleman should be specific.

Mr. Brooks replied that he had already placed on record a public document-showing that the man who has control of printing money was heretofore engaged in a fraudulent transaction, as specified by a Republican committee. He now made the charge, and demanded a committee to investigate the whole subject of printing public money.

Mr. Stevens (Pa.) said the bill made the currency bureau a part of the Treasury Department; but the gentleman's amendment was based on a different principle. No honest and intelligent man had charged the Secretary of the Treasury with corruption. Since the days of Hamilton no purer corruption. Since the days of Hamilton no pure or abler man had filled the office. Mr. Brooks's amendment was rejected. Mr. Pike. (Me.) offered one in effect to make the sanks simply banks of deposit, and to issue only the notes of the Government, the people, so far as he knew, being very well satisfied with green-

Mr. Hooper (Mass.) said if the gentleman was sincere, be would accept a substitute, that it snall not be lawful for any person, association or cor-poration to issue any note, check or other evidence poration to issue any note, check or other evidence of indebtedness designed or calculated to circulate as money; that would cover the whole subject Mr. Pike could not accept the substitute, for the reason that it was in conflict with a decision of the Supreme Court, who, in the Kentucky case, held that the issues of State banks were constitutional.

that the issues of State banks were constitutional. The propositions were rejected.

Mr. Brooks offered an amendment to deprive the Secretary of the Treasury of prescribing the devices and form of the notes, saying the vast money power of the country should be divided as much as possible, and not lodged in the hands of one man without limit of responsibility. Such consolidation and concentration of power was frightful. He endorsed what Mr. Stevens said of Secretary Chase, but he now repeated what he said on a former occasion—namely, he had never known, throughout his public life, any one so surrounded and enveloped with se many unprincipled men as and enveloped with se many unprincipled men as was the Secretary. Four hundred any fifty thousand dollars were made from the sale of the five hundred million loan, and it was his belief that the money thus obtained was used by the opponents of Lincoln to establish anti-Lincoln clubs and news-money thus obtained was used by the opponents of Lincoin to establish anti-Lancoin clubs and newspapers in New York and elsewhere.

Mr. Stevens said this was but a repetition of remarks the gentleman had heretofore made. He was glad the gentleman conceded there was one honest man in the Treasury Department. He wished as much could be said of Secretary Chase's predecessor. He did not know who the gentleman meant in his remark that a dishonest man was superintending the printing of money. Such vague denunciations were easily made. These were the weapons of the small men of the party—the weapons of skirmishers not used by the main body of the party. As to $450,000 being put into the pocket of somebody, did the gentleman suppose there were no expenses in issuing and taking in the $500,000,000 lcan? He could scarcely believe moneyed men were so liberal as to establish anti Lincoin clubs and newspapers. If it were not for the high authority of the gentleman he would not believe a werd of it. He did not know of anti-Lincoin clubs or newspapers being established.

Did the gentleman herer to such clubs and newspapers being established.

of the gentleman he would not believe a word of it. He did not know of anti-Lincoln clubs or newspapers being established.

Did the gentleman refer to such clubs and newspapers established by his own party to trot out McClellan, in order to give a stronger race and exercise to the present Presidential incumbent. He had no idea the gentleman and his friends were in earnest to run him, for McClellan could not raise a trot when a forward movement was in question. [Laughter.] If anti-Lincoln movements were in progress they would not have heard of them but for the gentleman from New York. There was perfect harmony here. If such movements exist, they were notaliarming, and would produce nothing more from the President than a pertinent joke. [Laughter]. Some wild vision baunted the imagination of the gentleman from New York.

Mr. Brooks's amendment was rejected. He replied to Mr. Stevens, saying it was a numerical and algebraical charge he made against the S-cretary of the Trensury and his surroundings. This charge was, that without law the Secretary issued five Funcred millions of five-twenties, and gave somebody four hundred and fifty thousand dollars as a premium on the sale of the bonds.

An amendment was adopted striking out the rate of seven per cent. interest, and amending the the did not know of anti-Lincoln clubs or newspapers being established.

Did the gentleman refer to such clubs and newspapers setablished by his own party to trot out McOlellan, in order to give a stronger race and exercise to the present Presidential incumbent. Mr. Brooks's amendment was rejected. He replied to Mr. Stevens, saying it was a numerical and algebraical charge he mide against the Scretary issued five funcred millions of five-twenties, and gave somebody four hundred and fifty thousand dolars as a premium on the sale of the bonds

An amendment was adopted striking out the rate of seven per cent. Interest, and amending the thirtieth section go as to provide that every association may charge on any loan or discount, &c., at a rate established by law in the State where such institution shall be located. The section was further amended so that the rate of interest shall not exceed six percent. If more than this be paid, double the amount may be recovered by suit. Mr. rievens, who had opposed these amendments, not ed the committee rise, in order to give the Committee on Ways and, Means an opportulity to consult and determine whether they wanted the bill to pass. The motion was agreed to.

The House again went into Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union on the President's message. The committee rose, and at 5 o'clock the House
