Then one article after another rises io pric every manufacturer and dealer is afraid that he will not add enough to his charges, and makes experimental trials to ascertain the utmost rates that people will give sooner than do without his commodities. Plots are laid amongst speculators to clear the market of certain articles, and to hold them until prices more and more unreasonable and excessive are obtained. We see all this going on before our eyes and cannot stop it. We know that specuations of this sort are at this moment going on in tea, in coffee, and in lead. Everybody suffers, that a set of sharks may become enriched. These men, finding themselves masters of sudden fortunes, try to spend as fast as they make, and their spending is directed to foreign luxuries. It is the "shoddy, people" who are the great buyers everywhere. Meantime the Government, now necessarily the great purchaser of home-made productions, is compelled to make its purchases at exorbitant rates, and to pay from 25 to 100 per cent. more than the actual value of all that it requires. Of course the national debt is swelled proportionately and we shall emerge from this war with at least one-half more debt than we should have had could a specie basis have been preserved. As to whether that could have been done, it is useless to speculate now. The great question is, how shall we diminish the difference between gold and paper as much and as quickly as possible ?

It needs no Œdipus to solve this enigma; the answer is plainly this : We must stop the export of gold by fixing whatever duties are necessary to keep down our imports to the measure of our exports. Let us adopt as a cardinal principle that we will not buy from foreign nations more than they buy from us. Gold goes out to make up the difference between what we buy and what we sell. Let us make these two items balance each other, and the gold will remain. We want every ounce of gold that is in the country, every ounce that can be mined, and more still-we want what has already gone out, and which we cannot recover. But if it is too late for that, it is still time to prevent the evil getting worse, to check the incessant flow of the precious metal outwards to pay for useless laxuries-luxuries which at the present time no one has a right to indulge in. And if any will have them, let them pay well for them in he shape of largely-increased duties. A heavy increase in our duties will have another most beneficial effect: it will increase immigration. Those who have been labering abroad to produce for our markets, if we cease to buy abroad will come here, and produce here the manufactures for which there is a demand, and which we shall have refused to buy abroad. Thus augmented duties will benefit us in three distinct ways-will retain the specie, increase the revenues, and promote immigration. Of these the first is at present the most important. Faith in our currency is indispensable, and that faith is only to be kept by having behind it an abundant metallic basis. If for ten or fifteen years past we had maintained a high protective tariff and kept our specie at home, we should now be on a specie basis, simply on account of the abundance of gold, which would have existed everywhere amongst us. To realize this, it is only necessary to look at California, where specie payments have never law. Indeed something of the kind is abso-Intely necessary to prevent wrong-doing in the finances of the city. The public will, therefore, learn with surprise that yesterday Mr. Jeremiah Nichols, Senator from this city, introduced a bill to repeal this section; and will be still more surprised to learn that the Senate passed it. This trifling with the organic law of the city will be ruinous. The people do not want this section of it, or any other, repealed, till they have had it presented to them fairly, and had time to examine it. The purpose of this proposed repeal is to remove all checks and restraints from the expenditure of the money of the city. We trust that the Mayor and the members of the City Councils will make some effort to prevent the further progress of this scheme. Well may Philadelphia pray to be saved from her members of the State Legislature.

ABMY BUTTONS AND GOLD CORD.

Not long since one of the commanding Generals in the West issued an order prohibiting citizens or other unauthorized persons from wearing the buttons or gold cord, which usually designate an officer of the Army, and the benefits derived from the prohibition have been so great, that we are surprised similar orders have not been promulgated in other military departments. It may be impossible where thousands of soldiers, discharged from the service, are found in every Northern city, to prevent the retention of a regulation overcoat, cap or pants; but there is no reason why the gilt button of the officer or the private, or the black and gold cord which is exclusively the designating mark of a commissioned officer. should be used promiscuously by every man and boy, white and colored, who may feel inclined to adopt them. Officers who have dissolved their connection with the service, unless devoid of that honor and principle which usually mark the gallant defender of his country, never retain the uniform for a single day after they reenter the great army of civilians, and as impostors only will be affected by this order, we hope the necessary regulation will be prescribed by the Commanding General at this

EVENING BULLETIN

THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1864.

THE BAILBOAD MONSTER.

It is perhaps unreasonable to expect that, in times like these, every man elected to the Legislature can afford to be pure and incorreptible on a salary of six hundred dollars a year. The temptations of city railroad companies and other speculative corporations are too great for the virtue of many of them. They have given mp their business at home at a pretty heavy macrifice, and they are bound to be paid for it in one way or another.

Those who have heard of "the Ring," inside and outside of the Legislature, which was formed for the passage of the Union Passenger Railway bill, can scarcely be surprised to hear that it has passed the House, and by a heavy majority. All the Philadelphia members present voted for it, except Messrs. Cochran, Schofield, Watt and Miller. Whether its passage through the Senate will be equally easy remains to be seen. Remonstrances are being signed, and if time is allowed, the Senators will be able to learn that the project is opposed strenuously in this city. We trust, too, that the Common Council will, at its session this afternoon, unite in the protest against it which the Select Council agreed upon last week. Or, if the bill must pass, let there be at least some effort made to have it amended so as to divest it of the offensive features that we have pointed out at various times. If the road is needed, as is claimed, shough we deny it, let it be made in a fair and open way. Let the city have a right to consent or object to it; let the books be opened to the general public, and not exclusively to those who are behind the scenes; let provision be made that the dividends to be declared be upon the capital actually paid in; and let there be a secsion under which the city of Philadelphia may have some little control over a road which, with its branches, may run over every one of her streets. But this, we fear, would not suit the angineers of this grand speculative scheme. They have not, thus far, allowed a line or a word of the original bill to be altered, and they will try to push it through the Senate in the same way. We trust, then, that the Senate will reject it, and we appeal to the intelligent and honest members of that body to interpose for the good of Philadelphia.

HOW TO BRING GOLD DOWN.

We took occasion recently to enter an earnest protest against the prevailing extravagance. Let any one inquire of the jewellers, the dealers in lace, and in expensive dry goods, and he will be told that it is difficult to obtain objects expensive enough, costliness being the first requisite. If these objects were manufactured in this country, this wasteful expendi-then have been at par, and everything could have been bought at moderate rates; we should owe but two millions, where we now owe three. But letting the dead past bury its dead, and been suspended. The National currency would looking only to the future, we must be blind not to see that there never was a time when a reform in the tariff was so absolutely necessary as now. The retention of gold is the only cure for our currency, and measures to effect this object cannot be too quickly adopted.

"HIRED CUTTHROATS."

The New York correspondent of the London Times, writing Feb. 26th, shows great indignation and uneasiness at the large arrivals of immigrants from Europe. He charges the Government of the United States with sending numerous emissaries through Ireland and Germany, well provided with money, who pretend to engage men to go to America to till the soil or to work on railways; but says they are really to recruit the army. He goes on to say : to recruit the army. He goes on to say: "Those who are tempted by the enormous boun-ties offered by the Government and the municipali-ties, and come to America as mercenaries to fight the battles of a people which has not the willing men in sufficient numbers to fight its own, are not to be reasoned with. They are hird cutthroats, nothing less, and hird cutthroats they will remain the battless of a beat of the second second second second the transformation of the second seco whether they be Irish Germans, or English-

It is a fine piece of consistency for an Englishman to speak of foreign soldiers in an army as "hired cutthroats," England has never been engaged in a great war in which she has not employed thousands of foreign mercenaries. The Hessians who fought against us in the revolution; the Swiss who fought against us in 1812-15, were, according to this writer, "cutthroats," hired by England. In 1854-5 emissaries of England were trying to hire "cutthroats" in this country to fight against the Russians; but our Government stopped it summarily by dismissing the British Minister and several consuls who were engaged in the work. In that same war England had a "foreign legion," recruited from Germans and Swiss, who were all, according to the Times writer, "hired catthroats." Even now there are several war steamers afloat, under the rehel flag, which were built, fitted out and armed with English money, and manned with "hired cutthroats," most of them subjects of Queen Victoria. It is false that the United States has sent emissaries to Europe to get men for our armies. But thousands of Europeans are coming weekly to this country voluntarily, and it is base to stigmatize such willing emigrants as choose to enlist after their arrival, as "hired cuttbroats."

MORE MISCHIEVOUS LEGISLATION.

The act consolidating the city of Philadelphia, and several of its supplements, contain various provisions for preventing a wasteful or improper expenditure of the money of the city. Among these is the following section of a supplement, approved April 21st, 1855 :

plement, approved April 21st, 1855: 'SECTION 21. That no appropriation shall be made of the moneys of the city without an ordi-nance therefor, expressing the objects thereoi, and the amount appropriated for each object. It shall be the duy of the Mayor to keep a register of the amount and objects of all appropriations, and to withhold his signature for all new constructions and redemption of tolls as a forstaid, UNTIL ALL THE INTEREST ACOUL-ING ON THE LOANS OF THE CITY, AND THE PRINCI-PAL OF THESE BECOMING DUE, AND THE ORDINARY AND NECESSARY EXPENSES OF THE CITY, AND THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE IN THE COURTE, SHALL BE ADEQUATELY PROVIDED FOE; and WITH-OUT HIS SIGNATURE, any ordinance therefor shall not go into effect. It shall be a misdemeanor in office for the Controller of the city to pass, or the Trea-surer of the city to pay. any bill or order for any object to anthorized by law.'' No one can deny that this is a very proper factured in this country, this wasteful expendi-ture would still be very injurious; but what new renders it almost fatal to us, is the fact that the importing of these objects drains us of enr specie, and so depreciates our currency. ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE IN THE GOUNTER, and JUSTICE IN THE GOUNTER, and with our HIS SIGNATURE, any ordinance therefor shall not go into effect.
