Boston, March 26, 1864. — Gentlemen: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 21st inst., inviting me to visit Philadelphia and address a public meeting of its citizens. The terms in which you express yourselves of my services in the cause of "impartial and universal liberty," albeit quite above my merits, are nevertheless (coming from such a source), truly grateful to my feelings. For though I recognize among the signatures to your letter the names of but few with whom I am personally acquainted, I do not fail to observe those of others whom I know to be held in high esteem by the best people of the land, and whom I am personary acquainted, I to hot am so observe those of others whom I know to be held in high esteem by the best people of the land, and whom in consequence I have myself been long accustomed to regard with respect and honor.

The estimate which in your kindness you put apon my labors in behalf of this country, were it predicated upon my intentions only, I should say does no more than justice. I have ever been an admirer of America; American people and American institutions have had for many years my best affections and warmest approval. The language of my heart has often been—"Would to God that my own country were as 'America, except these bonds." And to break these bonds, you will bear me witness, no effort of mine has been wanting.

For America's sake as well as for humanity's, have I, under much reproach, ever labored to this end. Thank God the day of deliverance or America's sake as well as no little and a very I, under much reproach, ever labored to dis end. General J. P. Hatch, has arrived at Hilton Head from the North, and will temporarily relieve Gen. T. Seymour, who, it is undersood, has been ordered to Washington. Gen. Seymour will leave Hilton Head in a day or two. It is thought Gen Vodges will eventually take command of the Florida District, and Gen. Hatch of the Hilton Head District. There is ground for beheving we may possibly lose Gen. R. S. Foster, as two flajor-Generals in the Army of the Potomac bave applied at Washington for his transfer to their commands. A few cases of small-pox have made their appearance, but tranks to the active measures of Medical Director Gross, the disease has been prevented from epreading among the troops. A pest-house has been erected on the south side of the river, whither the sufference on the south side of the river, whither the sufference of the figural Corps in the district, a line of flag communication has been opened between here and the mount of the St. John's River.

This is a very important move as it enables the commanders of vessels who, on account of stormy weather, cannot cross the bar, to convey in elligence of special import to the first signal station, whence it is speeddly despatched to headquarters.

& An alarm was occasioned last week in consequence of a report brought in by a colored woman, that she had seen a soldier near her premises whose actions led her to suspect he was a rebel whose actions led her to suspect he was a rebeil spy. Col. Howell ordered a strong mounted name, he made no reply, but hed nurriedly to the woods. Col. Howell ordered a strong mounted patrol to search the woods, but they did not find the suspected individual.

We were visited on Monday and Tuesday by a severe northeast gale, which threatened to do considerable damage to the shipping, but as yet no accidents are reported. A steamer and a schooner were driven ashore on the beach at Hilt n Head, but they were got off without sustaining any material injury.

The Count-Martial of Gen. Gordon is still progressing. On Saturday he made an able defence in reply to the charge of disobeying orders, preferred by Gen. Gillmore. The case will probably be decided by the Court on Monday.

HEADQUARTERS DIST. FLORIDA, March 23 1861.

—Some of the few and true men of the Union cause, which we found in this place and vicinity, gave us information on our arrival that a number gave us information on our arrival that a number of steamboats might be found on the head-wavers of the St John's, or in its lakes and tributaries. The Sumter, Hattie Brock, Reliance, and Silver Springs were considered the most valuable Assoon as Col. Barton had fortified his position at Pilatka, and felt fully able to take care of himself and hold the place some anterprint of the read and hold the pince, some enterprising officers and marines from the navy yard resolved to make a cruise up the river in search of these boats. and hold the place, some entrprising officers and marines from the navy vard resolved to make a cruise up the river in search of these coats.

The expedition was considered full of danger, as it must necessarily be small, and go from all assistance into the enemy's country. Acting Master Champion and First Mate F. W. Sanborn and 13 marines, volunteered to undertake the perilous cruise. The Columbine, a steam tug, mounting on her prow one 6-pounder, and a launch from the Pawnee, comprised the fleet. On the morning of the 7th Master Champion left Pilatka, with the good wishes and benediction of Burton's army resting upon him. The next day he entered Lake George, and, after a short search, found the Sumter, a small stern-wheel transport. It was made especially for the carrying trate on the St. Johns, and its tributaries. It is of very light draught, and can ascend far up these small streams into the interior, and before the war, did a very profitable business. With his prize he returned to Pilatka and cast anchor amid the welcoming hurrah of the army. The Sumter contained a small cargo of cotton, rosin and turpentine.

A second expedition was immediately planned, and was ready to leave Pilatka in the evening of the 12th. A prize crew from the launch was pnt on board the Sumter, and she was immediately put into service. As before, the Columbine led the way. Only three days' rations were taken, and when five had passed, we, hearing nothing from them, became a little concerned for their rafety. But we knew Mr. Champion to be an earnest leader, and that he was safe if nothing had befallen him of greater moment than a loss of rations. After a little cruising about in Lake George, he moved up the river, exploring every tributary, bay and secleded spot of that ragged and crooked stream, till Pilatka was left some 80 miles in his rear. He resolves to risk still further, and on he goes up into Lake Busford, but finds nothing. Lake Jeeup is but a few miles further on, and he pushes far her up into that, with the same result

It was on this broad and beautiful sheet of water that perseverance was crowned with success. The Hattie, as she was fondly and familiarly called, was found tied up in an out of the way place and left to her fate. Our men, without opposition, took possession, towed her into a place of safely, and made some hasty examinations. She had on board 100 bales of cotton, a quantity of turpentine, a lot of rosin and a copper boiler for a turpentine distillery. It was found that the side valves of her engine had been removed, but wooden ones were soon extemporized, and in four hours steam was up and the enlarged fleet moved down the liver.

distiliery. It was found that the sine vaives or her engine had been removed, but wooden ones were soon extemporized, and in four hours steam was up and the enlarged fleet moved down the niver.

The hold of the Hattie Brock can contain 500 bales of cotton. She has cabins to accommedate from 75 to 100 passengers, an excellent double engine, nearly new, and cost about $20,000. She was the best boat ever built expressly for the St. John's trade.

On the way down, in passing Fort Gates (an old earthwork built during the war with the Seminoles). a volley of muskerry was fired into the boats but without effect. The Columbine's long gun, projecting over her prow, put the guerillas to flight, and they were seen no more.

The most exquisitely painful part of the downward trip occurred at Enterprise—a small town on Lake Monroe. As the fleet moved up to the landing, near where the "Brood House" stands, the veritable Miss Hattie, after whom the boat, as is the wont throughout the chivalrous South, was named, made her appearance on the vernadah, overwhelmed with astonishment, indignation and grief, as she saw that her namesake, the pride of her life, had fallen into the hands of the Yankees. The little black eyed belle seemed like an augel angry. She was eloquent in her grief, and our marines, poor fellows, were glad to get away as soon as they had supplied their boats with fuel. No mishaps occurred, and on the 20th the expedition, without loss, arrived at Pllatka, and on the 23d were in Jacksonville. The whole affair is regarded as one of the most daring and brilliant exploits of the war. As the prizes were taken by volunteer marines, it is thought that the prize money (about $100,000) will be divided between them—the I4 men, two of them officers.

During the cruise it was learned that the Silver Springs is far up the Oclawaha, in a large basin-like spring of the same name. The Reliance, and taste of adventure and prizes, will not rest till both are found and captured.

The Hilton Head correspondent of the Herald, under date of 27th ult., writes as follows:

The rebels are becoming quite active about our ontposts. On Sunday last they made an attack on our pickets near Jenkins' Island, but were repulsed at every point by the 76th Pennsylvania regiment, Col. Campbell, doing duty at that point. The rebels approached in eight large flat-boats, and came in force, evidently with a view of cutting off our pickets. In this they were foiled, and went back considerably cut up.

The Chippewa afterwards gave them a taste of her metal, and inflicted heavy loss upon them.

Another attempt to gain a toot-hold on the island the following night was baffled by Capt. Kness's company of the 76th, who fired several deadly volleys into the boats, and drove them off. No casualties occurred on our side in either attack.

After several attempts succeeded in communicating with the stranger, who reported having her engines broken down, and wished the Fulton to lay by her during the night, and tow her into a port. The wind at the time was so violent, it was impossible to understand further. Kept her in sight until two A. M. of the 30th, when, the Fulton being very light, having no cargo and but little coal, and iging on her starboard side, a arge amount of water acci mulated in her lee bilge and engine room, requiring the whole force of the donkey pump and bilge injections to clear her. CITY BULLETIN.

DEPOT IMPROVEMENTS.—The alterations in the depot of the Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown Railroad Company, at Ninth and Green streets, are almost completed. The improvements are quite extensive, and the accommodations are now fully equal to any other depot building in the city. The waiting rooms are now located upon Green street, extending the whole length of the building, and the entrances are upon that thoroughfare. There are two apartments, one for gentlemen and the other for ladies, each being 30 feet in length by 18 in width. At the upper end of the ladies' room is a small dressing room, and east of the gentleman's apartment is the baggage room. The waiting rooms are handsomely fitted up and comfortably furnished. Between the two is a cozy little place which is occupied by Col. John B. Peddle, the General Euperintendant, will have his office on Kinth street, in the room formerly occupied by the gentlemen. The offices of the President and Treasurer will remain as here-tofore, in the second story on Ninth street. The car house has undergone a complete change. The roof has been raised considerably, and light and ventulation are now plenty. But one platform is to be used for passenger purposes, so as to avoid mistakes. The Germantown trains are on the right track and those for Norristown upon the left. A track upon the Kninth street side of the house has been specially set apart for the milkmen, so that they can load and unload their cars in the depot instead of placing their cans upon the sidewalk and thus blocking up the passage way.

ALL FOOLS' DAY.—The first of April generally affords much amusement to the juvesile community, and many grown persons also indulge in jokes at the expense of their friends. To-day is no exception from former years, and the youngsters have amused themselves by their usual pranks. Sometives some very good tricks are perpetrated, and are generally much enjoyed by the victims. This morning an adverusement appears in one of the papers that pennies would be-exchanged for green-backs, in sums of five dollars, from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M., at a certain bank up town. This advertisement was a hoax, and quite a number of people were victimized by it.

Shadaker, Jones street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth. They were named after the officers by whom they were found, and consequently one is called John Logan Leighton and the other Henry Franklin Williamson.

MILLINERY OPENING.—Yesterday the popular old house of Wood & Cary, No. 725 Chestnut street, held their annual opening of fashionable Bonnets, and notwithstanding the somewhat unfavorable state of the weather, their spacious salesrooms presented a perfect crowd of beauty and crinoline during several hours in the day. The various new styles of bonnets exhibited, which were tastefully arranged on ornamented stands. Onstituted a npon the numerous "germs" must have been highly gratifying to the proprietors. The most prevalent colors of houners and trimmings, this season, are found in the different shades of the cuir or ian. The form of houners this season is a decided siteration from, and we think, an improvement upon that of last. They are more flattened at the top and closer at the sides, and on the whole, smaller. Among the specimen houners which the top and closer at the sides, and on the whole, smaller. Among the specimen bonnets which attracted the most attention in the "opening," we may mention their cuir-colored straw, Cactus or seagrass hood and bag-crowned skirred bonnets for traveling purposes, fine English straw, white crapes, quilted in diamonds, and exquisite walking hats, in every variety. The trimmings of the bonnets that we examined strike us as the most tasteful and beautiful that millilery genius has yet produced for the adornment of the sex. riety and of the finest and best-known brands, are constantly kept on hand, by Messrs. Davis & Richards, dealers in fine family groceries, Arch and Tenth streets.

CARD.—WARBURTON'S HATS.—The new shapes for Spring wear are now ready. Gentlemen are respectfully invited to call and examine them. It is believed that the styles now being offered will prove very pleasing. The brims are made narrower than heretofore, conforming in this respect to the best fashions of London and Paris, and in compliance with the expressed wish of many who give attention to matters of dress in this city as well as in New York. Broader brims will be kept in stock, or made to order for those who desire them.

kept in stock, or made to order for those who deshe them.

The prices of silk, as well as felt hats, have necessarily advanced. Nearly every article entering into their construction being either prepared or produced abroad, can consequently be bought only with gold or its equivalent. Such is the enhanced cost of material and labor that the very lowest grade of silk hat (when made of new stock) cannot be retailed for less than five dollars. Every endeavor has been made to maintain the quality, and to keep near to the prices of the times preceding the rebellion.

Present prices for five dress hats are now $6 and $7. For blocking or refinishing hats an increase of price is also made necessary.

ity. More Witty than Wise.—"I'll commit you; MORE WITTY THAN WISE.—"I'll commit you; you're a nuisance!" said Mr. Justice to a noisy fellow in court. "You can't, sir; you say I am a nuisance, and nobody has a right to commit a nuisance—so I defy you!" This is about on a par with the reasoning of the miserly Scotchman who went shabby abroad because nobody knew him, and who dressed meanly at home, because there everybody knew him. Very ingenious reasoning; but very unsatisfactory. Persons should avoid being nuisances; ergo, they should eschew shabiness. Conclusion irresistible, they should purchase their wearing apparel at the Brown Stone Olothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 663 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth.

AMUSEMENTS.

AMUSEMENTS.

SIMMONS, THE ILLUSIONIST.—The aurouncement of the first appearance of this king of deceivers has already created an excitement, and there is no doubt that he will receive a warm greeting on Monday evening next. Those who go to see the tricks of other conjurors repeated will be disappointed, for all he does is novel and entirely different from the feats of those who have appeared in his peculiar branch of art. Travelers have related the most marvelous things of the magicians of China and Japan, some of which have been sufficient to startle the credulity of the most credulous; but we are assured that Professor Simmons, during his residence in those countries, possessed himself of the secret of their most marvelous feats and will perform them during his seances in Philadelphia. While in San Francisco his expose of the charlatanry of Home, the professed spiritualist, created a great excitement, and the spiritualists held a council in which they declared that he (Simmons) produced the Blood-Red Writing on the Arm and performed his most miraculous tours by spiritual agency, but that he dishonestly disclaimed the true source of his power. Of course we cannot decide the question, but on Monday evening the public will have an epportunity of judging for themselves.

NATIONAL MALL.—Tom King's Excelsion Circus continues to attract large audiences. The programme is varied and pleasing, and needs improvement only in one particular. A man-monkey is very good in his place, but that place is certainly not to be found among the spectators at a Circus. He belongs in the ring, and if the manager of the "Excelsior" expects to receive the patronage of children and delicate females he must request the representative of the aforesaid animal to refrain from substituting fright for pleasure. to refrain from substituting fright for pleasure.
