XXXVIIITH CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION.

CLOSE OF SATURDAY'S PROCEEDINGS. UNITSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. The House went into Committee of the Whole supon the State of the Union, and resumed consideration of the National Bank Bill. deration of the National Bank Bill.

Mr. Hooper (Mass.) offered an amendment to the forty-fourth section, providing that any bank or banking association now organized in pursuance of the laws of any State under articles of association which prohibit specified changes therein, may be changed or converted into a National banking association without any change in the articles of association as may be prohibited by the same, and its directors at the time of the change may continue in office, and their successors may from time to time be appointed or elected in the manner provided in the articles of association. r. Hooper said the New York Bank of Commerce desired to come under this law. It had a capital of $10,000,000, and had done more to sustain the Government then any other institutions. the Government than any other institution.

Mr. Broomall was willing to let all the State banks become National Banks, but he wanted them to cease as the former when they became the latter. He did not want such political miscegenation as to make it difficult to tell what they were. Mr. Stebbins remarked that this bill was intended to do nothing more than to make the present Bank law effective, and he should therefore vote for it. But at the same time he favored the pending amendment, as without it the Bank of Commerce could not come under the law.

Mr. Alley (Mass.) was opposed to selecting out the Bank of Commerce, and offered an amendment to extend the principle of non-individual labelity to all other banks organized under this act.

During the debate the same gentleman remarked that Mr. Hooper's amendment was making an injudicious distinction, and argued that the provisions of the bill should be applicable alike to all banking institutions.

Finality. Mr. Hooper's amendment was adopted. Sovernment than any other institution.

Broomall was willing to let all the State bonking institutions.

Finally, Mr. Hooper's amendment was adopted, by a vote of 49 against 45.

Mr. Wilson (lowa) moved to amend the section providing for the redemption of notes, so as to consider it to New York, Philadelphia and Boston, which was rejected.

Without concluding the action of the bill the Committee rose, and at 5 % the House additional Committee rose, and at 5.25 the House adjourned

INTERESTING FROM MEXICO.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The Times Havana correspondence contains Mexican news to the .9th ut. It appears certain that Vidaurri has openly declared against Juarea, and General Mejia was marching to fight Vidaurri. Other accounts say Doblade is going to the United States.

An American General is said to have gone to Satillo to have an interview with Juarez, who has published a decree separating the State of Coahulla from New Leon. General Bizzine would shortly leave Mexico for Puebla to direct the operations of the expedition against the south of Mexico.

The report of the capture of Guadaleiga has INTERESTING FROM MEXICO. Mexico.

The report of the capture of Guadalajars by Uraga and the shooting of Miramon appears unfounded. Uraga is said to have withdrawn and to be marching to the south of Morelia. Ortega is reported to have been routed by the French Graeral Castagny, in the State of Jalisco, and to have dishanded his troops.

The French are reported to have abandoned To-tasco and Miniatitian, after some severe fighting. The French fleet is blockading the coast strictly from Vera Cruz to Tobasco. In some fighting near Alvarado the French had the advantage The garrison of Tampico, having been strengthened, came out and gave battle to the Liberals, but were driven back to the walls of the city, where they

The Liberals, under Diss. hold Oajaca and the The Liberals country.

The French crutisers will be and Gray. triven back to the walls of the city, where surrounding country. The French cruisers will soon blockade Mazatlan, Manzanilla, and Guaymas.
The Foreign Legion is to be increased to six battalions, and to remain ten years in Mexico. The Courier, of Mexico, rejoices that Matamoras has not been occupied, as it avoids difficulties with the United States.

A TRAGEDY IN A CONCERT SALOON-A YOUNG WOMAN MURDERED IN A PRI-

On Saturday evening about nine o'clock, a terible tragedy was enacted in one of the private poxes at the Continental Theatre, on Walnut street, bove Eighth. A young German woman named above Eighth. A young German woman named Margaret Baer, sometimes called Maggie Mitcheil, while sitting in the box was shot by William Maguire, a young man known by many as William Howard Mitchell, from Wilmington, Del. The parties had been acquainted for some months, and Maguire had, it is said manifested considerable fondness for her. They had met often at a drinking saloon, corner Chestnut street and Hudson's alley, called the Red Robin Saloon, and they had been together so often at the Continental Theatre, where Maggie had formerly been a waiter, as to be well known to the freq uenters of that house. Lately ell known to the frequenters of that house. Lately e had rather avoiced him, and this had caused him to make threats to take her life. On Saturday they met at the Red Robin Saloon, but nothing occurred there to induce the belief that he intended to carry his threats so soon into execution. He drank freely and passed the time at card playing. After dark he went to the Continental Theatre, where she was seated in a private box. He was observed to be excited, and to the officer of the house he remarked that he was going to New York, and bade him good bye, saying he would not see him again. To his request to go to the back part of the theatre the officer objected, but he was finally permitted to go. He went directly to the private box in which Margaret Baer was sitting, and going towards her in an excited manner, said, loud enough to be heard by all in the box, "Maggie, are you going to do what I asked you?" She made no reply, and he repeated it. A companion sitting at her side said "Say yes, for if you don't it may cost you your life," and she then replied "Yes." In the meattime, however, Maguire had drawn a revolving pistol from his pocket and commenced to fire. There were three discharges of the weapon in rapid succession, and it snapped at the fourth attempt. —Three balls entered her body, two proving fatal wounds, the third a slight one. One ball passed into the brain and one through the lungs, and aorta, the latter causing death almost instantaneously. Maguire are year to die for her. He was removed to the Central Station, where he many times repeated the remarks that he loved her and was ready to die for her. carry his threats so soon into execution

PHILADELPHIA, March 30, 1804—My Dear Maggie:
—I embrace this opportunity of writing to you to nform you that I leave for Columbia: to-morrow. I would not write until I arrived in York, but I meet one of my friends at the depot, and I borrowed the enclosed money of him until I get home had no time to come down and give it to you, as thought I would write a letter and enclose the money. Don't let any of them heiffers around you know any of your or my business. Keep everything to yourself. As soon as I arrive in York, I will enclose the ame amount and direct it as you told me; so be ure and go every day to the Post Office. I have nothing further to say, only be d—n sure and not irink anything strong, for you know I am opposed to that more than anything else. I want you to  as little as poss ble until I return. Coroner Tayler held an inquest in the case yesterday afternoon at the Central Station. The ipace allotted to spectators was a perfect jam, so great was the curiosity to hear the details, and to gee the witnesses, among whom thee pretty waiter. girls' were expected to be. A number of witnesses were examined, but each corroborated the other. The story is told in the following:

Sallie Price, sworn—I reside at Fifth and Spruce streets; have met the prisoner several imes at a ssloon—corner of Hudson's alley and Chestnut street; the prisoner always reated Maggie well; saw him at the saloon in Saturday afternoon; he was playing unchre and drinking; deceased did not brink; he asked her not to forget what she promised; heard him make threats that if he did not do as he wanted he would whip her; aw him in Burlington two or three months ago; here he threatened to shoot her if she would not lo as he wanted; I left to go to the theatre; saw daggie there in the private box; I was there at the ime of shooting; the prisoner came in and went to Maggie and said: "Maggie will not do.

to as he wanted; I left to go to the theatre; saw faggie there in the private box; I was there at the faggie there in the private box; I was there at the ime of shooting; the prisoner came in and went p to I laggie and said: "Maggie will you do what I wanted you to do," she made no eply; I told her in German to say yes; she then aid, "Maybe I will," he then repeated is question, and she replied "yes, I will," he en shot her; I was standing behind him; he had ne hand on a chair, the other in his packet on the light hand side, from which he pulled out the pisol; deceased went by the name of Maggie Baer; she went by no other name; she was not married, and was twenty two years old; had heard her say often he did not care for him, obly for what she could nake; Maggie was born and raised in Germany; I save known her for nine months.

Dr. Shapleigh, sworn—Made a post-mortem exmination of the body; discovered three pistol wounds; a slight one on the left thigh, another just n top of armpit, and another back of the head; he ball on the head split in two pieces; [he then howed the pieces]; I found the small piece was erved the substance of the brain about two inches; a the wound opposite the armpit, the ball entered etween the first and second ribs; went through the rot liese wounds; he thought the last ther of these wounds; he thought the last there of these wounds; he thought the last found caused the death, which was almost instanteneous.

The inquest was adjourned until 4 o'clock this
