THE DAILY EVENING BULLETIN : PHILADELPHIA, TU SDAY, APRIL 5, 1864.

XXXVIIITH CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION.

GLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

SENATE --Mr. Trumbull offered the following: Resolved. That the Secretary of the Interior be directed to inform the Senate what number of cases were pending in each Circuit and District fourt of the United States on the 1st of January, 1864, and the number of cases commenced in each of said Courts, during the year ending on that day; which was agreed to.

Was agreed to. Mr Anthony offered the following: Resolved, That the Committee on Foreign Rela-tions be instructed to inquire into the expediency of so amending the neutrality laws as to make it reciprocal to each government, extending neutrality to those which return the same, neutrality to those which return the same, and to others the exact measure of neutrality which they extend to us; which was agreed to. Mr. Wright presented a petition from eighty-five merchants of Philadelphia, praying that a tax may be imposed upon the circulation of State Banks, which was referred. Mr. Wilson, from the Military Committee, re-ported adversely on the Housé bill to regulate the dismissal of officers in the military and naval ser-vice.

vice. Mr. Wilson reported back from the Mili'ary Committee the bill for the better organization of the Quartermaster's Department, with amend-

Mr. Sumner reported a bill to establish a bureau of emancipation; which was ordered to be printed. The Vice-President laid before the Senate a com-munication from the Secretary of War in reply to resolution of the Senate, denying that any order had been given by General Dix to the Provost Mar-shal of Baltimore, in November, 1961, prior to the Movember election. Mr. Summer reported a bill for the adjustment and satisfaction of claims for spoliations committed by the French prior to July 31st, 1801. This bill provides satisfaction to the amount of $5,000,000 for claims and damages through detentions seizures and captures made by the French. It does not cove claims embraced in the Convention of 1803, no those of the treaty of 1819, between the United States and Spain, nor under the treaty of 1531 with

States and Spain, nor under the treaty of for which France. The bill authorizes the appointment of Commis-sioners for three years at $3,(00, and Secretary at $2,000, the expenses of the Commissioners not to exceed fifty thousand dollars. Mr. Wilson called up the House bill to provide for the voluntary enlistment of any persons resi-dents of certain States, into the regiments of other States.

States. Mr. Grimes said he desired to put himself on the record against this bill, before the evils which are to flow from it, should it pass, shall be realized. Under this bill States which may not have been successful in filling their quotas could go into States in rebellion and enlist colored men who had been slaves to make up their dedicates. States in repention and emiss conorce more more the been slaves to make up their deficiency. To this he had decided objections, and it would render confusion worse confounded, and demoralize our descise will be rushing into those States. army. Agents will be rushing into those States and their recruiting will not only be for the presen but for future drafts, and exorbitant prices will b paid for these men.

paid for these men. Mr. Sherman said the Senate had failed to draw the distinction between the negro and white troops. If white men are enlisted they enlist into such Northern regiments as they may individually se-lect. There were some objections to the bill even if confined alone to white troops. It would allow agents to go down South to enlist black men as United States troops, and credit them to the defi-ciency of quotas in the States. He thought this would be injurious to the public service. There was no reason in the world that Northera States should be allowed to send agents to rebelhous dis-tricts to recruit negroes. Every State should fill up its own quota. Mr. Wilson said the bill came from the Honse, having received the support of two to one in that body, among them General Garfield, who declared it the best bill introduced since the war. He pointed out the difficulty in the seaboard States of filling their quotas as contrasted with the younger Western States, whose inhabitants were mosily males. He thought the Government did not know hew to enlist men. If we authorize the States to raise men they could raise one hundred thousand men quicker than the Government can raise five thousand. paid for these men. Mr. Sherman said the Senate had failed to draw men quicker than the Government can raise fiv thou nourand. The bill went over with the expiration of the morning hour. The joint resolution to amend the Constitution The joint resolution to amend the Constitution so as to abolish slavery came up in order, and Mr. Howe proceeded to address the Senate at length in favor of the measures. He said he had waited for this day, and was glad to see it come. It had been a good while coming, but it is here. He had read history rather carelessly, but he had been under the impression that as he could not have been born by any diligence on the part of his ancestors under the era in which Ohrist hyed, he was glad to have been born in this day. To day you propose to summon thurly-six millions of people to give free-dom to four millions. Not from such bondage as our forefathers resisted, but from a worse bondage than they ever conceived of. Me was ambitieus to put his name to this scheme of freedom. He would vote to submit this proposition to the American neepple. Even though ke might be disposed, which he was not, to wote against it himself, he thought the sense of the people should be taken on the subject.

those engaged in it to part from this Government, the Mexican soil would expand their territory. The treaty proposed to secure us the privilege of intermedding, contrary to the policy of our Go-vernment, at any time until finally Mexico was secured to us. If his friend had expressed his re-gret that the Corwin treaty was not fratified, it would have been a different view of the question. That treaty granted pecuniary aid which, if given, would probably have prevented European intervention. The time, however, had passed to prevent the war from going on. We now wish to declare against a European Power planting its foot on Mextcan soil, and establishing an empire either under an offspring of the House of Haps-burg, or some scion of the family of Louis Napo-leon. He wished the world to hear the emphatic declaration that the erection of a monarchy in Mexnco. will not be recognized by the people of the

Mr. Morris (Ohio) offered a resolution setting forth that, Whereas, George Thompson, of England, in March, 1834, declared that the dissolution of this Union should be kept steadily in view, therefore Resolved. That the resolution heretofore passed, granting the use of this hall to the said George Thompson on the evening of the 6th of April, is hereby rescinded, objection being made. Mr. Morris moved a suspension of the rules, which was decided in the negative by 44 against 56, so the resolution was not considered. The House resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, Mr. Rollins (N I.) in the chair, and resumed consideration of the National Bank bit.

(N H.) in the chair, and resumed consideration of the National Bank bill. Mr. Elijah Ward (N. Y.) offered an amendment, the object of which was that the State Banks when their organization under this act is completed, shall windraw their State Bank circulation. The amendment was rejected. Mr. Blaine (Me.) offered a new section: that seven per cent. as fixed under the thirtieth sec-tion of this bill, shall be deemed the lawful rate of interest in States where no rate is established, but each bank shall be governed by the State law where it is located. He made a few explanatory remarks, when the amendment was adopted by 60 against 21. Mr. Van Valkenburgh offered an amendment: that nothing in this act shall prevent the States from taxing the capital stock of said banks the same as for corporative, States or municipal pur-poses. Mr. Holman adverted to this a vicht for 2000

Mr. Holman adverted to this as right, for $900,-000,000 should not be relieved from the taxes im-posed on the people of the United States. He hoped the minority would never consent to the passage of the him bill the minority would never consent to the passage of this bill. Mr. Stronse (Pa.) argued against exempting such large amounts from taxation, and allowing the modern Suylocks to go free. Mr. Van Valkenburgh's amendment was amended so that no State shall impose any higher rate than is imposed on the same amount of moneyed capital of individual citizens of such States. Mr. Bavis (Md.) offered to further amend by ex-empting money invested in United States bonds from taxation. The question of the propriety and instice of State from taxation. The question of the propriety and justice of State or municipal taxation was considered and dis-cuesed at length. Without concluding the subject the committee rose, and at half-past four o'clock the House ad-ionrad ourned.

Mr. Sanlsbury referred to a recent speech in Baltimore, in which he put certain questions to Mr. Kilbourne, a former member of the Maryland Logicature subject.

Legislature. Mr. Lane (Ind.) defended Gen. Wallace, and said that no traitor would or ought to be allowed to vote in the forthcoming or any other election. Mr. Sulsbury said his point was that a military officer was clothed with lawful authority to inter-fere with elections. Legislature. Mr. Lane officer was clothed with lawful authority to inter-fere with elections. Mr. Johnson said that General Wallace had very properly written a letter to Governor Brad-ford, to know whether the law authorizes the judges of elections to ask questions with reference to loyalty, and whether a voter could be turned away on account of his answer. Governor Brad-ford sent a very specific answer in the affirmative, and also stating that the authorities of Maryland would preserve the peace and purity of the elec-tion. He had no idea that General Wallace in-tended to use military force at the polls, unless in an extraorainary emergency.

an extraoroinary emergency. Mine pairs and Mr. Fessenden moved to postpone all prior or-ders, and proceed to the Naval Appropriation bill. The yeas and nave were demanded, but as no quorum voted the Senate adjourned. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

quorum voted the Senate adjourned. HOUSE OF BEFERSENTATIVES. Tho House took up Mr. Eldridge's resolution requesting the President, Secretary of State and Secretary of War to furnish the number of persons who have been arrested and held for political of-fences against the Government, by order or with the knowledge of either of them, and who have not been tried or convicted by any civil or crimi-nal court, together with the charges or accusations for such arrest or imprisonmeat; and the number of prisoners in the forts; whether any persons have been banished from the loyal States, etc. On motion of Mr. Rollins (N. H.) the resolution 'was tabled-yeas 62, nays 38. Mr. Davis (Md.) from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported the following joint resolution: Resolved, By the Senate and Honse of Represen-tative in Congress assembled. That the Congress of the United States are nurwilling by silence to leave the nations of the world under the impres-sion that they are indifferent spectators of the deplorable events now transpiring in the republic ef Useign.

deplorable events now transpiring in the republic of Mexico; therefore they think it fit to declare that it does not accord with the people of the United States to acknowledge a monarchical go. vernment erected on the ruins of any Republican government in America under the auspices of any Turonies Power Inropean Power. Mr. Brooks (N.Y.) said if it be not a mere paper fulmination I do not object; but if it be a detonation only to burst in the House, what is the use of it Is anything to be done with it?

only to burst in the House, what is the use of it? Is anything to be done with it?
Mr. Davis (Md.) replied that whether it is a mere paper fulmination or not depends upon whether (congress will adopt it, and whether, in adopting it, they represent the opinion of the people of the United States. The resolution is simply a declaration of what our policy should be touching our interests very nearly. I suppose it is not a subject any one wishes to discuss, and so I move the previous question.
Mr. Cox (Ohio) said the resolution had received that it should have been more emphatic. While he favored this resolution, he only wished that it could be so framed and backed up as to prevent sing_craft and the Arch-dupe of Napoleon, Maximilian, from establishment on this continent.

Maximilian, from establishment on Napoleon, Maximilian, from establishment on this con-tinent. Mr. Davis (Md.) was very sorry the gentleman from Ohio had thought it necessary to make an argument against the resolution. Mr. Cox replied he did not make an argument against it. He would vote for it, but he wanted the language to be more emphatic. Mr. Davis (Md.) said he did not know how the language could be more emphatic. Mr. Davis (Md.) said he did not know whether it was becoming at this time to asy what we will do, and whether we mean to resist by force of arms the permanent establishment of a monarchy in Mexico. When the gentleman referred to the Bemocratic policy in regard to affairs on this con-tined, he begged to remind him that when France and England, more than once jointly intervened in the affairs of the South American republics, if there was a protest against it by the government of the United States he did not remember ever seeing it, and certainly there was no armed protest on our part. The Democratic policy with regard to our southern bretheren had the tendency rather that Mexico should ultimately be anneyed to the South. Mr. Cox hoped the gentleman would not forget Adjourned. HOUSE.-The House met at three o'clock P. M. Mr. Lee offered a resolution requesting the At-terney General to furnish the House with his opinion as to the constitutional right of the Legis-lature to pass a law prior to the adoption of amendments to the constitution regulating the man-ner in which soldiers shall vote, in case they are adopted. This resolution passed. Mr. Searight offered a resolution that in the opinion of this House, the recent conduct of a Massachusetts military officer in Philadelphia, in ordering and producing the destruction of the pro-perty of a citizen of Pennsylvasia, and the arrest and deportation of the sovereignty of Penn-sylvania, and that it is the duty of the Governor to demand explanation and reparation of the injury.
