Christiana Weller, widow of Martin Weller, vs. The City. This was an action to recover damages for the death of plaintiff's husband, occasioned, as is alleged. by the negligence of the city authorities to repair a portion of Girard avenue, between Front and Second streets. The deceased was the driver of a lager beer wagon, and in September, 1861, in driving along this street, a wheel of his vehicle dropped into a hole, by which he was thrown from his seat to the ground under the wheel, which passed over his body. Evidence was produced as to the condition of the street at the point in question, and also the facts as to the accident and fatal result. Mr. Brewster for the City, moved a noneuit—1st. Because no proof had been produced that notice was given to the proper authorities of the bad condition of the street. 2d. That the driver was passing along a different highway from that of the city, viz: the track of the Richmood and Schuylkill Passenger Railway, and therefore the city was not responsible: and 3d. That the suitshould have been brought in the name of both widow and child, and not that of the widow alone—a child having been born four months after the husband's death. The Court overruled the motion, and the Jury rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $1,600.

FROM EAST TENNESSEE.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercia writes from Knoxytlle as follows: writes from Knoxville as follows:

The rebel army has disappeared from our fron at Bull's Gap. Scoute reported the movement o the enemy in mnsses going to the rear three day ago, but it was not then known what the particular object was. Deserters have since arrived in considerable numbers, who confirm the reports, and state that only one brigade—some say a single regiment merely, with a small park of artillery, new holds the place. The suffarings of the residents in the upper counties are represented as very great, owing to the scarcity of food. Cases of extreme violence and inhumanity are reported by females who lately found their way through the enemy's lines. Rebels in squads roamed over the country at will, taking everything. In some cases women, whose husbands or friends are absent, particularly if suspected of being Union families, were tied up and whipped, to compel them to reveal the place where provisions were concealed.

Our army, which has been of late resting with them to reveal the place where provisions were concealed.

Our army, which has been of late resting with its center about Mossy Creek, and its advance toward New Market, will probably occupy the vacuum caused by the retrogade movement of the rebel army. Where the army of Lengstreet is going is now the puzzling question. The theory most generally accepted by military men is that the rebel Government finds it necessary to provide for the defence of Richmond, and that all their available strength is to be concentrated there and at Atlanta. Desertions from Longstreet's army, according to the account of one of the late arrivals, who was six weeks ago conscripted near Hanover county. Virginia, have reached the startling number five thousand within as many weeks. He represents them as melting away like a spring snow. The number of rebel deserters received at Knoxville, in round numbers, during three months, is as follows:

It cleanses and renovates the blood, instills the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease.
