THE DAILY EVENING BULLETIN; PHILADELPHIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 8 1864.

THE FIRE IN BOSTON. The Boston papers of yesterday give further details of the destructive fire in that city.

In regard to the losses and insurance, the Boston Encampment were insured to the ex-tent of $10,000 on their regalia and furniture. Their loss is about $20,000. The loss of the De Molay Encampment, in regalia, furniture, etc., is about $6,000, which is uninsured. The Massachusetts Lodge had an insurance of $325 only; their loss was $1,500, including an ori-ginal portrait of General Joseph Warren.

The valuable library of the Grand Lodge, embracing over 1,000 volumes and many pam-phlets, many of which were of great value and which it will be impossible to replace, were destroyed. There was but $400 insurance on the library.

Among the portraits destroyed was a valuable original portrait of Chief Justice Sewell, which had recently been purchased by Dr. Winslow Lewis, and which he designed presenting to the Bost n Bar. The original picture of Henry Price, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge in 1733, was burned, together with the charter signed by General Warren. The charter of the Columbia Lodge. signed by Paul Revere, was also lost. The golden urn, containing a lock of the hair of Washington, presented by his widow, inclosed in a mahogany casket, was in the custody of Mr. McLellan, Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge, and therefore, this precious relic was saved. The Winslow Lewis Lodge had all their property, comprising jewels, etc., stored in a safe. It is thought this will be recovered n an uninjured condition. The fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary, who set the fire in a closet under the tairs, between the second and third stories, in he part of the building occupied by Mr. Silsbee. Mr. S. says his loss, in furniture and other things, including the interruption to his business, cannot be replaced by $100,000. His actual loss in property he estimates at about $50,000, on which there is an insurance of $26,000.

ART AND BEAUTY .--- The Baroness de Stae confessed that she would exchange half of her knowledge for personal charms and consider them cheaply bought at that price. All women know that it is beauty rather than genius which all generations of men have worshiped in the sex. Can it be wondered at then that so much of woman's time and attention should be directed to the means of developing and preserving that beauty? Women know, too, that when men speak of the intellect of woman, they speak critically, tamely, coldly; but when they come to speak of the charms of a beautiful woman, both their language and their eyes kindle with the glow of an enthusiasm, which shows them to be profoundly, if not, indeed, ridiculously, in earnest. It is a part of the natural sagacity of women to perceive all this, and they therefore employ every allowable art to become the goddess of that adoration. Preach to the contrary, as we may, against the arts employed by women for enhancing their beauty, there still stands the eternal fact that the world does not yet prefer the society of an ugly woman of genius to that of a beauty of less intellectual acquirements. The world has yet allowed no higher mission to woman than to be beautiful. And it would seem that the ladies of the present age are carrying this idea of the world to greater extremes than ever, for all women now, to whom nature has denied the talismanic power of beauty, overcome this defect by the use of an enameling process "Parisjan Enamel," and which has lately been introduced into this country by a French chemist. With the assistance of this new French trick of a lady's toilette, female beauty is destined to play a larger part in the admiration of man and the ambition of woman, than all the arts employed since her creation .--

While visiting some friends in New York who were using Plantation Bitters they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine glassful atter dinner. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days 1 was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I have not done for years I feel like another being. I called a physician, who si-tended her three moaths, when he left her worse than be had found her. I then employed one of the best physicians I could find, who attended her for about nine months, and while she was under nis care she did not suffer quite as much pain. He finally gave her up and said, her case was in-curable. "For," said he, "she has I such a combination of complaints, that medicine given for one operates against some other of her difficulties." About this time she commenced the use of the CONSTITUTION WATER, and, to our utter astonish-ment, almost the first dose seemed to have the de-sired effect, and she kept on improving rapidly under its treatment, and now superintends entirely her domestic affairs. She has not taken any of the CONSTITUTION WATER for shout four weeks, and we are happy to say that it has produced a perma-nent cure. WM. M. VAN BENSCHOTEN.
