RESISTANCE TO THE GOVERNMENT IN 1799' To the Editor of the Evening Bulletin:

In your paper of Saturday last, there is mention made of a letter written by the Rev. Dr. Helmuth in 1775, and introduced into a sermon of the Rev. Dr. Schmucker. Dr. Helmuth was no politician, but was Pastor of the Lutheran congregations worshiping in the churches of St. Michael and Zion, and was for many years the professor of the Greek, Latin and German languages in the University of Pennsylvania, and was considered the best Hebrew

In 1799 the United States direct tax was to scholar in the country. be levied; this tax had been fiercely inveighed against as an evidence of the monarchical and despotic tendencies of the men then in power. The opposition became so strong, that Washington from his retirement wrote to Patrick Henry entreating him to offer as a candidate, Henry entrating if not for Congress, at least for the Virginia Assemby. In his letter he said, "It would be Assemby. In his letter he said, "It would be a waste of time to attempt to bring to the view of a person of your observation and discern-ment the endeavors of a certain party among us to disquiet the public mind with unfounded alarms, to arraign every act of the Administrathen, to set the people at variance with their government, and to embarrass all its measures. Equally useless would it be to predict what must be the inevitable consequences of such a policy if it cannot be arrested." Further on he continues, "It has been said, that the great mass of the citizens of this State (Virginia) are well affected not with standing, to the general government and the Union; I am willing to believe it; but how is this to be reconciled with their choice of representatives both to Congress and their State Legislature, who are opposed to the general government, and who by the tendency of their measures would destroy the Union?" Again and further on, But at such a crisis as this, when every thing dear and valuable to us is assailed, when this party hangs upon the wheels of Government as a dead weight, opposing every measure that is calculated for defence and self-preservation &c.; when all the acts of their own government are tortured, by constructions they will not bear, into attempts to infringe and trample on the Constitution with a view to introduce monarchy &c.; when measures are systematically and pertinaciously pursued, which must eventually dissolve the Union or produce coercion, I say when these things have become so obvious, ought characters who are best able to rescue their country from the pending evil to remain at home? Rather, ought they not to come forward, and by their talents and influence stand in the breach which such conduct has made on the peace and happiness of this country, and oppose the widening of it?"

These assaults from political opponents to which Washington referred, soon produced their "inevitable consequences." In Pennsylvania part of the inhabitants arose in arms. and compelled the agents of the United States Government to desist from the performance of their duty. The President immediately issued a proclamation demanding submission to the laws. At this time, when the whole country was in a most excited political condition, equal to that which existed four years since, the Rev. Dr. Helmuth wrote to the people of Northampton county, his friends and brethren in faith, a letter which was afterwards published by Wm. Cobbett in the Evening Gazette, of April 12, 1799. It would be well if the kind adminotions of this letter would be followed by the opponents of the Administration of the

THE NEW MONITOR SAUGUS. The monitor "Saugus," of the river and harbor class, built, at Wilmington, Delaware, by Messrs. Harlan & Hollingsworth & Co., for the United States Navy, made a trial trip to Philadelphia on Wednesday, April 6th. The following are some of her principal dimensions: Her side armor is composed of five thicknesses of one-inch plate iron, with backing stringers of six and one-half inches by six inches, and six and one-half inches by four and one-half inches, which extend all round the vessel. The deck is composed of oak plank seven inches thick, and is plated with two thicknesses of three-fourth inch plate iron. The turret is twenty-one feet, internal diameter ten and a half inches thick and nine feet high, with base ring at deck, fifteen deep, and five thick, to secure it from injury by shot, that would prevent it from revolving. The pilot house is six feet internal diameter, six and three-quarter feet high, and ten and a half inches thick, located immediately over the centre of turret. The motive engines are forty-eight inches diameter of cylinders, and twenty-four inches stroke, and drive the screw exclusively, and are known as J. Ericssen's half-beam patent double engines. The two vacuum engines for surface condenser are of Worthington's duplex kind, with steam cylinders twenty inches diameter, air pump of twenty-two inches diameter, and circulating pumps of fifteen inches diameter, all having a stroke of fifteen inches. These engines create a vacuum for all the engines in the vessel, and also condense all the steam that can be produced in the boilers, at any time without operating any of the machinery in the

The blowing engines are 15 inches diameter of cylinder and 12-inch stroke, operating two very large Demfell's fans, which supply air for the ward-room, berth-deck and fire-room. The engines for revolving the turnet are 12 inches diameter of cylinders and 16-inch stroke, attached at right angles, without fly-wheels, one operating the other's valves, these engines are under the control of the principal gunner in the

Sanitary Commission.

Philadelphia, 1307 Chestnut Street. February 20, 1864.

The undersigned, members of the Executive Committee of the GREAT CENTRAL FAIR for the Sanitary Commission, beg to invite the co-operation of all their fellow-citizens, especially of those resident in Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, in this important enterprise. It is proposed to hold the Fair in Philadelphia, in the FIEST WEEK IN JUNE NEXT, and it is con fidently expected that the contributions. coming from a popula ion so benevolent and patriotic as that which inhabits the Central States, and repre senting the most important and varied branches of industry and art, will secure a result in aid of the funds of the Commission, and for the benefit of the Soldier, at least equal to that which has attended similar undertakings in other cities. It is not necessary to say a word to stimulate sympathy for the soldier. We feel for them all fas brethren, and the popular heart seeks only the best mode of manifesting that sympathy most efficient and practical way. These fairs in other places have been productive of great results. By this means Chicago has recently raised for this object $60,000, Boston $150,000, and Cincinnati more than $200,000. We appeal, then, with the greatest confidence to the inhabitants of the Central States, especially to those who constitute the great industrial classes, to send as contribution the productions of their skill and workmanship. We appeal to them in the interest of no party radical or conservative, Republican or Democratic, Administration or anti-Administration. We know only this, that to send our national soldiers in the field supplies to supplement those Government undertakes to give them, but which they sometimes fail to receive, and thus to relieve them when sick and in misery, is a work of Christian charity, and that it is a work of intelligent patriotism also, as economizing their life, health and efficiency, on which, under God, the nation depends in this its time of trouble.

We therefore ask every clergyman to announce this humane undertaking to his people, and to advise them to do what they can to further it. We ask the press to give it the widest publicity and the most earnest encouragement. We call on every workshop, factory and mill for a specimen of the best thing it can turn out; on every artist, great and small, for one of his creations; on all loyal women, for the exercise of their taste and industry; on farmers, for the products of their fields and dairies. The miner, the naturalist, the man of science, the traveler, can each send scmething that can at the very least be converted into a blanket that will warm, and may save from death, some one soldier whom government supplies have failed to reach. Every one who can produce any. thing that has money value is invited to give a sample of his best work as an offering to the cause of national unity. Every workingman, mechanic or farmer, who can make a pair of shoes or raise a barrel of apples, is called on to contribute something that can be turned into money, and again from money into the means of economizing the health and the life of our national soldiers. Committees have been appointed in each department of industry and art, whose business it will be to solicit contributions for the Fair, each in its own special branch. These Committees will place themselves in communication with those persons who may wish to aid us. In the meantime it is recommended that local committees or associations should be formed in every portion of Pennsylva-nia, Delaware and New Jersey, with a view of organizing the industry of their respective neighborhoods, so as to secure contributions for the Committees of Ladies have also been organized o co operate with those of the gentlemen in soliciting contributions.

A list of all these Committees will be shortly published and distributed. In the meantime those who are disposed to aid us, or who may desire any further information on the subject, are requested to address CHARLES J. STILLE, Corresponding Secretary of the Executive Committee of the Great Central Fair, 1307 CHESTNUT Street.

OFFICE OF THE GREAT CENTRAL FAIR

SANITARY COMMISSION, PHILADELPHIA, 1307 CHESTNUT STREET,

The Committee on Finance and Donations of the Great Central Fair, appeal for contributions in money, to those of their fellow-citizens who do not propose sending to the Fair the products of their skill and industry. By far the larger portion of he money received on the occasion of the Fairs held for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission in Cincinnati, Boston, and Brooklyn, was derived from direct donations in cash, and not from the proceeds of the sale of articles exposed. What he Sanitary Commission needs relief to the sick and wounded soldiers is money, in large amounts and from all sources. We call, then, upon all bankers, corporations, capitalists, persons living upon incomes, professional or otherwise; in short, upon all who will not be represented in he Fair by their productions, to imitate the example of those who will, and to contribute liberally in MONEY for this great object. In New York, although their Fair is not to be held for two weeks, contributions of more than $200,000 in cash have been already received, a single department of trade. that of dry goods, having made up more than half that sum. Brooklyn and Cincinnati have each contributed as much in money, and certainly the wealth, liberality and patriotism of Philadelphia can hardly be considered as less conspicuous than that of these communities. Contributions will he thankfully received by any of the members of
