THE COMMITTEE in the Department of LOOKING GLASSES, PICTURE FRAMES, &c., &c., earnestly invite the co-operation and contributions of all interested in this branch throughout the United States. It has now become such a prominent feature in manufactures and trade, and its fabrics enter so largely into the luxuries and even the necessities of life, that its importance should be fully sustained by the liberal assistance and hearty encouragement of all directly or indirectly connected with the business. Such a really beautiful, peculiar and profitable display could be made, as would entitle this branch to great consideration, and the reaponses already received to a circular forwarded to other cities, are so favorable as to lead the committee to cities, are so favorable as to lead the committee to cities, are so favorable as to lead the committee to hope for very large donations.

Hardly a plea need be urged for the noble object of the Sanitary Commission, for which the Great Central Fair is to be held. The wide-spread benevelent operations and extraordinary assistance rendered our brave soldiers in almost every position, by the Commission, are now "household words," and to enable them to continue these operations, and to render them even more effective, under greater expenses and more pressing demand. words. I and to enable them to continue these operations, and to render them even more effective, under greater expenses and more pressing demand, is the purpose in view in the Fair.

It would be difficult to make any specification of the articles which may be contributed; but, anything manufactured or sold, in any way appertaining to to is branch, would be most acceptable. Looking-glasses, framed or unframed, frames for glarses, victure, portrait or photograph frame, gilt or stained, tables of every character, brackets, cornices, or gilded ornaments. The productions, also, of those who manufacture only for the trade, in the shape of moulding, oyals, frames ready for the glider, in a word, everything which is convertible into cash for the treasury of the Commission. Donations in money may be handed to any gentleman of the Committee, at any time.

As much time and labor is required of the Committee, in the collection and urrangement of the arlicles—at peedy response to this call is desirable. As early in May as possible, contributions should be placed at their disposal. Mark Goods "Great Central Fair, Philadelphia," and send by any Railroad, or Express. Contributions in the city, if the chairman is advised, will be premptly obtained. Send Receipts and bills of Lading also to his address.

The labors and achievements of this great na-

The Sanitary Commission was recognized by the Government authorities at an early stage of this war, and has silently but faithfully and most efficiently, continued its labors from that time to the present. resent. Thoroughly charitable in its spirit, compact in its organization, and systematic and practical in its workings, established especially for the benefit of our own sick and wounded soldiers, at the same time it extends aid to those of either army, recognizing them all as brethren and citizens of a common country.

Its field or labor embraces the whole theatre of the war from New Orleans and Texas along the Mississippi valley, across the bloody plains of Tennessee and Virginia, to Anuetam and Gettysburg, and every other battle-field on the Atlantic coast.

Such vast operations require correspondingly vast resources to sustain them, and the approaching Fair is intended to aid in providing and maintaining these resources.

We appeal to you confidently for liberal contributions, under the belief that all who are following their accustomed business pursuits in security at home will esteem it a privilege to do all in their power to alleviate the sufferings of those who are noby sacrificing their ease, and risking life itself in behalt of their country. We will also receive thankfully small donations from any in your employ, earnestly requesting that you will encourage them and others over whom your influence extends to contribute to this noble charity.
