EVENING BULLETIN TUESDAY, APRIL 12, 1864.

THE KEY NOTE OF THE CO PPERHEADS. The Hon. Alexander Long, of Ohio, has suddenly awoke to find himself famous. He was elected in 1862 over Mr. Gurley, the former Republican member of the House from his district. Until last Saturday he was obscure, and all the Copperheadism in his breast found vent in the utterance of yea or nay as he was called upon to vote against his country. However, " every dog has his day," and Saturday was the appointed period for Mr. Long's flourish. Accordingly, he prepared for the great event . he thought of the Presidential campaign about to open and he consulted his bogus Democratic instincts. He determined to rally every rebel sympathizer in the North to the bogus Democratic standard, by such arguments as could not fail to touch their hearts. In order that every so-called Democrat in the nation should have a fair opportunity to kindle with his views, Mr. Long wrote out his speech in full, and sent it to all the Copperhead journals in the land. From a journal of that stamp we clip the subjoined extract from Mr. Long's pivotal oration.

joined extract from Mr. Long's pivotal oration. He says:

"The very idea upon which this war is founded correction of States—leads to despotism. To preserve a republican form of government under any constitution, under the prevalence of the doctrines now in vogue, is clearly impossible. These convictions of the complete overthrow of our Government are as unwelcome and unpleasant to me as they are to any member of this House. Would to God the facts were such that I could cherish other convictions. I may be denounced as disjoyal and unpatriotic for entertaining them; but it will only be by shallow fools and arrant knaves who do not know or will not admit the difference between recognizing a fact and creating its existence. A man may not desire to die; but nevertheless his belief will not alter the fact of his mortality. I shell not, in these remarks, revive the unpleasant and acrimonious controversy of who is responsible for the death and destruction of our republic. I do not see that any such discussion now would be productive of good. I entertain clear and strong convictions upon that point, convictions that I have no dorbt will be shared in by the imparnal historian of the future. For the present, I am willing to let the past, with all its recollections, rest, providing we can snatch from the common rain some of our old relics of freedom. I do not share in the belief entertained by many of that any peace is attainable upon the basis of party were in power to-day, I have no idea, and restore the Union over thirty-four States. My subject. I believe that there are but two alternatives and these are, either an acknowledgment of natien, or their complete subjugation and extermi prefer the former."

On the utterance of these detestable sentiments, amplified through on the set she time.

On the utterance of these detestable sentiments, amplified through an hour of talk, every sympathizer with rebellion in the House of Representatives either boldly endorsed them or quibbled in such a manner as to show that if quibbled in such a manner as to show that if they dared they would go as far as Mr. Ling. They intend to go into the Presidential campaign on the issues thus made. In the copperhead districts they will use the language of head districts they will use the language of Long fearlessly, and in districts where the war feeling is strong they will cover up their de-signs after the insidious fashion of Fernando Wood. Let loyal men read their speeches in Congress on Saturday and yesterday, and they will be forearmed. The copperhead key note has been struck, and the friends of the Union must meet the issue at once and with every energy of their nature. The result cannot be doubtful; loyalty must triumph and treason and rebellion must be crushed beneath the fearful indignation of an aroused and mighty people.

AN UNUSUAL DISPLAY. To-morrow morning an unusual military display will be witnessed in the streets of Philadelphia. Our citizens, from time to time within the past few months, have had the opportunity of observing and admiring the excellent appearance of colored regiments which had been organized at Camp William Penn, under the auspices of the Supervisory Committee, and considering their limited drill, the precision of their marching and the accuracy of their movements. Satisfactory, however, as were those displays, the one to be offered to the public view to-morrow will be far more gratifying. Twenty-one hundred dark-skinned representatives of loyalty, who have enrolled the or tree. uum, and representing three different regimenta organizations, clothed in the uniform of the Union soldier, with drums beating and colors flying, will leave their camp, and passing through the principal thoroughfares, will receive the hospitality of the Volunteer Refreshment Saloons. Nothing could evince to a greater degree the change which has taken place in public sentiment within a few years or months, than such a parade. The introduction of this element into our service was one of the most important and beneficial innovations conceived by the Administration, and as time elapses and these peculiar organizations are increased in number, the usefulness of the movement becomes more and more apparent. What the final and exact result will be no one can now predict; but that it will tend to the advancement of the cause, and hasten the crushing of the rebellion, no one can doubt.

The commissioned officers of these regiments are men who, having creditably passed through a course of instruction under competent instructors at the military school in this city, have successfully stood a severe examination before a military board, of which one of the best tacticians in the regular army is the President; while the non-commissioned officers are selected from the most intelligent and best proportioned of those whose names are upon the roll. The colored troops who have gone to the field from Philadelphia have received high encomiums for their discipline and bravery, and those of whom we more particularly speak in this article will, we doubt not, equal their comrades who have gone before them.

THE OLD HUMBUG. One would think that the rebels would grow reary of their ancient talk about the "Cavalier" origin of the South and the "Puritan" extraction of the North, yet even at this late date it still flourishes. A certain Major C. L. Bridgewell wishes to represent the State of Arkansas in the rebel Congress. From the safe distance of Atlanta, Georgia, he issues his manifesto to "his constituents" who are now sale within the Union lines, in all probability. He says he was a war man before the war, and that he is of the same mind after three years of strife. He thus proceeds:

strife. He thus proceeds:

"It only neede athe blood of brave and good men to put an impassable barrier between the mixed Latin and cavalier race of the South and the Puritan Roundheads of the North: that barrier, I trust will be formed for ages. United with the North we were hewers of wood and drawers of water, the veriest slaves of pampered Atheistic fanaucism, whose fantastic tricks have made good adpure men blush since they were first inaugurated by the witch-burners of the seventeenth century. Sepanated from this people we can hold up our heads with the best men in the world, and with tories and fanatacs surrounding us on all sides, are prepared to present to history the best and most independent of Governments—the freest and happiest people recorded in the pages of history. I speak of the North as a community, as a whole. The good among them does not invalidate my argument. The lengthened alliance between the North and South has always been and will always be an impossibility. We are different people socially. We are a different race, and obey and honor different laws."

In the long record of Southern insolence and fanaticism we remember nothing more atrocious, impudent and bigoted than the above, yet the copperheads would have the loyal people crouch to the feet of such "Cavaliers," and humbly sue for permission to bask in their smiles! The Presidential campaign is to be fought on that idea by the Peace Democracy, and they hope to win. Are loyal Americans craven enough to vote themselves slaves of the

THE FIRST GRAND PUBLIC CONCERT, by Amateurs, in aid of the Great Central Fair, will be given on Saturday evening in the Musical Fund Hall. The Amphion Band has offered its services, and a large number of gentlemen have volunteered to sing. In addition to solo vocal pieces, there will be several fine operatic choruses, under the direction of Signor Rizzo. MR. CARL GAERTNER will give a classical soirée at the Musical Fund Hall on Friday evening, when he will be assisted by Messrs. Charles H. Jarvis, M. H. Cross, A, Roggenburger, C. M. Schmitz, and a double vocal quartette.

THE PHILADELPHIA SCHOOL OF DESIGN FOR Women.—An effort is now making for the erection of a new and suitable building for this excellent institution, on the lot belonging to it at the corner of Filbert and Merrick streets. The sum of $20,000 is needed, and of this about $10,000 have been subscribed, conditional on raising subscriptions for the full amount. We have so often spoken of the importance of this. institution as an agent for elevating women and educating them in the ornamental and useful arts, that we need add nothing on the subject now. But we trust those of our citizens who are able will contribute liberally to it at present, so that it may be placed on a sure basis and be able to do its work more efficiently than ever.

GRAY'S PATENT MOLDED COLLARS

Have now been before the public for nearly a year. They are universally pronounced the neatest and best fitting collars extant. The upper edge presents a perfect curve, free from the angles noticed in all other collars. The cravat causes no puckers on the inside of the turn-down collar—they are AS SMOOTH IN-SIDE AS OUTSIDE—and therefore perfectly free and easy to the neck. The Garotte Cellar has a smooth and even'y fl. ished edge on Both Sides.

These Collars are not simply flat pieces of paper cut in the form of a Collar, but are MOLDED AND

EHAPED TO PIT THE KECK. They are made in "Movelty" (or turn-down style); in every half size from 12 to 17 inches and in 'Eureka', (or Garotte,) from 13 to 17 inches; and packed in 'solid sizes' in neathlue curtons, containing 100 each; also in smaller ones of 10 each—the latter a very handy package for Travelers, Army and Navy Officers. REVERY COLLAR is stamped 'Gray's Patent Molded Collar." Sold by all Dealers in Men's Furnishing Goods.
