O., [From the N. Y. Tribune, of April 16.] A tertible disaster occurred in the harbor yester-day afternoon. The U. S. war steamer Ohenango, Commander Fillebrown, sailed from the Navy Yard for Hampton Roads. She was to have an-chored at the buoy at Sandy Hook until to day, when she would have been jouned by the double-turreted iron-clad Onondera, which she was to have convoyed South. But her career was cut short by a fearful disaster. About 4 P. M., when off Fort Richmond, and going ahead under easy steam, without the slight-est suspicion of danger, her port boiler exploded with a loud repor, tearing up her decks and play-ir g have among the unfortunate engineers and firmen. One poor fellow was blown overboard and thirty-two others, including three of the engineers were most horribly scalded. One of the men, whose name we could not learn, was instantly killed. As soon as the disaster be-came known the United States reveaue cutter Brown hastened to the relief of the Chenango. After ascertaining from Capt. Fillebrown the na-ture of the accident, the commander of the Bronx headed for Quarantine, and speedily brought off several physicians to take charge of the sufferers. The U. S. steam transport Tilley, Capt. Bourne, from Alerandria, coming up the Bay, witnessed in erosing a great deal of good. The little tug Rose, which was near at hand, likewise ren-dered all the aid in her power. The Tillie and tug and the cutter Bronx, took the disabled vessel in tow and brought ker to the Navy Yard. news of the surrender of Fort Pillow and the brutal conduct of the rebels immediately afterwards, which bids fair to be amply retaliated in that quarter in due time. The Star says according to General Sherman's report, our loss was 50 white troops killed and 100 wounded, and 300 black troops mur. dered in cold blood after the surrender. Fort Pillow is an isolated post of no value whatever to the defence of Columbus, and utterly untenable by the rebels, who have no doubt left that vicinity ere this, having been disappointed, with considerable loss, in the object of their raid thither, which was the capture of Columbus, whence they were promptly and severely repulsed, with to us. We are satisfied that due investigation will show that the loss of Fort Pillow was simply the result of a mistake of a local commander, who occupied it against direct orders, a coningency incident to all wars. The rebels, according to the official despatch received here last evening, effected nothing at Paducah, losing a soldier killed and wounded for every horse they succeeded in stealing, and doing us no other damage than by a few thefts. It is believed that Forrest's raiders will next appear in the vicinity of Memphis where they can effect no more than they did at Columbus and Paducah, and stand a very fair chance, indeed, of finding themselves surrounded by
