FAIR—SPEECH OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

Baltimore, April 18.—The inauguration exercises of the great Fair at Maryland Institute tosight were very imposing. The display was exceedingly fine, and the immense building was exceedingly fine, and the immense fine the United States to the effect that English extense of the Ecderal army.

Lord Clanricarde had moved in the House of Lords for the Correspondence in reference to the removal of British consuls from the Onificers in the Ecderal army.

Lord Clanricarde had moved in the House of Lords for the words, vso called? were inserted before was agreed to.

Lord House of the words, vso called? were ins

fariable.
All honor to the brave patriots who had wrought the change, and to the noble women who aided them. When this war began scarcely one individual supposed it would have saided till now. All thought it would have saided, in some way, in a much shorter time. Very few at that time thought the institution of slavery would be, very much affected by it; but these expectations were not realized, and here we are flunghter], and slavery has been somewhat affected! [Great laughter.] Bo true is it, my friends, that "man proposes and God disposes."

Bo true is it, my friends, that "man proposes and God disposes."

The world, he said, had long been in want of a sorrect definition of the world freedom. Whilst all professed to advocate liberty, there was in the minds of many, a very opposite view of what liberty was. With one man liberty implied to work for himself, and do as he pleased with the proceeds of his labor. With others, liberty meant so do as you pleased with other men and their labor. One of these two conflicting ideas would have to give way to the other. He thought, from some occurrences which had only lately taken place in Maryland, her people were about to desarmine which of these views of freedom would control her destiny.

exmine which of these yiews of freedom would control her destiny.

The President passed on to refer to a matter which he said he supposed was just now deeply sgitating the minds of the people all over the country. He alluded to the occurrence which is reported to have taken place at Fort Pillow, on the Mississippi river—the massacre of several hundred colored soldiers by the Confederates. Many sup-posed that the Government did not intend to do its posed that the Government via a via these colored daily in regard to the protection of these colored soldiers. He desired to say that all such were solders. He desired to say that all such were mistakes.

When the question of employing colored men as soldiers was left to the Government, it rested very much with himself whether he would make soldiers of them or not. He pondered the matter carefully, and when he became convinced that it was a duty to so employ them he did not hesistate to do so. He stood before the American people responsible for the act, responsible before the Christian werld; responsible for it he should stand in the eyes of the historian; responsible for it he stood before God, and he did not shrink from the decision he had made, for he believed it was right; but when the Government determined to make soldiers of these colored people he thought it only just that they should have the same protection as the white seldiers (applause), and he hesitated not to declare that the Government would do so, and would protect them to the utmost of its power. Whenever a clear, well authenticated case should be made out, retribution should follow.

retribution should follow. It had hitherto been difficult accertain with that certainty which should govern a decision in a matter so serious, but in the affair at Fort Pillow he thought they were likely to find a clear case. The Government has no direct evidence to confirm the reports in existence relative to the massacre, but he himself feared that the facts related were true. When the Government does know the facts from official sources, and they substantiate the reports, retribution will surely be given. [Great applause] But, how shouls that retribution be administered was a question still to be settled. Would it be just to take the lives of prisoners in Washington, in Fort Delaware, or elsewhere in retailation for acts in which they had not a share! Would it be right to take the prisoner captured, say at Vicksburg, in which they had not a share? Would it be right to take the prisoner captured, say at Vicksburg, and shoot him for acts of which he was not guilty, and which it will probably be found were the ordering of eally a few individuals, or possibly of only one man? The President reiterated that the Government would not fall to visit retribution when the facts were clearly proven. Throughout his remarks, he was warmly applauded, especially of his enunciation of a determination to visit retribution for the barbarous deeds of the rebels.

FROM WASHINGTON. WASHINGTON, April 18th, 1864 —The Senate actific Railroad Committee have agreed to report the following amendments to the act of 1862: Instead of Gevernment bonds, the coupons of bonds issued by companies, in sums of one thousand dollars each, at six per cent., will be paid by the flovernment without charge for the first year, and for mineteen years interest will be guaranteed at the Government without charge for the first year, and for ainsteen years interest will be guarantied at the same rate, such payments to constitute the first mortgage upon the road and its equipments. Upon an equal footing with the bonds, the Company will be allowed to issue twenty-four thousand dollars per mile; one the Eastern section, and on two mountain sections ninety-six thousand dollars per mile; on intermediate space forty-eight thousand dollars per mile, and west of Sierra Nevada twenty-four thousand dollars per mile. About eighty-five to one hundred millions will be needed and the annual interest will be about five million dollars. The forfeiture clause will be separated. The road will be nearly two thousand miles long. The War Committee to day resolved to send Senator Wade, of Ohio, and Representative Goech, of Massachusetts, to Cairo and Fort Pillow, to take testimony upon the recent massacre at the latter point. The committee were at the War Department this morning to consult with the Secretary of War. The sub committee will leave tomorrow, and will be accompanied by a stenographer.

In order to correct an erroneous impression, it is proper to say that the President's order of March last requires the amounts for men raised by voluntary enlistments to be made up to the 15th of April and the draft to commence as soon thereafter as practicable. No authority is given for the assertion that it will now positively take place on the first of May. There are more or less necessary and real-

There was 2 full attendance at the Union or Republican caucus to night at the capitol, the object being to arrange and expedite the business of the House. It was greed to take up the Internal Revenue Tax Bill at noon te-morrow, and continue its consideration until the hour of recess. No unnecessary, debate is to be indulged, but a fair opportunity is to be afferded for explanation of amendments according to the rules. In the evening the ordinary business will be taken up. All who attended the caucus were unanimously in favor of passing the Tax bill at the earliest pracuestle time, as well as all others of a public character; in other words to industriously apply themsalves to the important measures before them.

The bill, which receasly passed the House, to establish postal communication between the United States and Brazil, is likely to meet the approval of the Senate. No subsides are intended, and the amount to be expended is net to exceed $150,000, and the service is to be thrown open to competition The carefully collected facts and figures produced by Mr. Alley (Mass.), in his hour speech upon the subject, abowing wherein, by our neglect, we have lost immense revenues, while Great Britain has very largely benefited by its postal policy viewed in a commercial connection, secured to the measure afar larger degree of support than, considering the present deranged condition of the country, was anticipated.

All the prisoners (vacepting Jim Mace and Tra-Sa) pleaded guilty, and no evidence being offered by the prosecution in their case, they were acquitted. The Chairman then ordered Tom King, Heenan and the rest of the puglists to enter into their recognizances of £100 to keep the peace to all her Majesty's subjects for twelve months. Heenan appeared very ill.

NORTHERN CENTRAL BAILWAY. A committee appointed at the annual meeting of the Stockholders of this Company, to consider cer-

A committee appointed at the annual meeting of the Stockholders of this Company, to consider certain expenditures for the improvement of the road, suggested in the annual report of the managers, made a report to a recent meeting of the Stockholders. This report states that the Committee ware satisfied that the improvements suggested will be highly advantageous to the Company. It is of the first importance that the requisite facilities should be furnished for the accommodation of business as it offers. With a single track and the present equipment this cannot be done.

"The road and the reilling stock are now strained to their utmost capacity in the effort to meet the demanda upon them but the local interests cannot be provided for as they should be. This at present is owing in a great degree to the fact that the Government has first to be supplied with transpertation, and its wants are such as to exclude from the road a large amount of business which would otherwise be very stantageously done. But the committee entertain the belief that even if the read was not thus used by the Government, the amount of business not incess new offering would be fully equal to the utmost capacity of the Company with their present facilities. The sections of the country which contribute to your road are now being developed to an extent and with a rapidity which renders a large increase of your facilities an imperative necessity, if you would keep pace with such improvements. Within a few months the Philadelphia ann Erie Railroad will doubtless be opened to the Lakes. Your road is the trunk of that road, as also of the Williameport and Elmira, the Lackawanna and Bleomsburg, and the Shamokin Valley. A number of smaller roads come into it at different points through the Valley of the Susquehanna, and at Harrisburg it joins the Pennsylvania Central and itoms the link which connects that road with Baltimore, Washington and the Southeast coast of the Atlantic.

"The mode of meeting the now large and increas in general coast of the Atla forms the link which connects that road with Baltimere, Washington and the Sontheast coast of the Atlantic.

'The mode of meeting the now large and increasing demands upon the road is to construct a double track and procure a supply of rolling stock and materials adequate to these demands. The officers and managers of the Company have fully appreciated the necessity which expected for increasing these facilities. Three medes of raising the requisite funds presented themselves. One was to borrow the money. This was rejected, because of a proper objection to an increase of the debt. Another mode was to sell the stock; but so long as it would not bring its par value, this was objectionable, as well in a financial as a legal point of view. The only mode left was to reterve the ne: profits or earnings, and apply them as realized for that purpose This has been cone, and the improved condition of the road and its stock, with the large business now being done, attest the propriety of this course. But the recent improvement in the market value of the stock has rendered a change in the policy of the Company, both proper and just. The stock holders the privilege of subscribing for it at par, the Company, can secure all the funds it may require fer the proposed enlargement and expansion of its transportation facilities, and the stockholders obtain a large benefit from the advance in the market value above the par. The requisite funds being thus secured it leaves the Board free to use the net profits or earnings of the road in making dividends to the stockholders."

The report of the committee, and the report of the President and the Uirectors were accepted and approved by the stockholders.

MEETING OF THE WORKING WOMEN.

A large meeting of the working women in this city was held at Sansom Street Hall, last evening. The Hall was crowded to excess. Rev. Mr. Talmage was elected President, and Mr. Samuel Sartain, Scoretary. After a prayer by the President, he stated the object of the meeting. Some tea or eleven letters from working women ware then read by Mr. H. W. Warner. They stated the excessively low prices received for hard work from the Arsenal and private persons. The writer of one letter said she received seventy-five cents per dozen for making army hats. She averages about $5 per week by working from 7 A. M. to 11 and 12 P. M.

A letter signed by six women said that by working from twelve to fourteen hours a day they could make from fifty to seventy cents.

Another writer said she had a son in the army, and had to support herself and child. She received $2 16 for. eight pairs of pants. Out of this sne had to pay $3 per month for room rent, and them was treated with coldness, rudeness and contempt by the officials at the Arsenal, with some few exceptions. The veracity of this writer was vonched for by a citizen.

The names of the writers were signed to the letters, but not made, public.

Several ladies and gentlemen present then spoke brighy on the object of the meeting.

Mr. W. Multer presented two petitions, one for Congress and the other for Col. Crosman, but these were, on motion, referred to the Relief Association. MEETING OF THE WORKING WOMEN.
