EVENING BULLETIN

FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1864.

TRIPLE-SHEET BULLETIN. To-morrow we shall issue another triplesheet, so as to be able to accommodate all our advertisers and at the same time have sufficient space for news and reading matter. As the edition will be a very large one, business men will do well to avail themselves of it for advertising.

THE NATIONAL TAX BILL.

The country is to be congratulated on the progress Congress is making with the Tax bill. The indignation of all loval men at the dilatory movements of the House of Representatives during the past two months has not been without wholesome effect, and we hope that the House will need no further "spur to prick the sides of its intent." Within a week the bill should become a law, let come what may, and in case imperfections are discovered, they can be remedied hereafter. The currency can never be settled, nor can the national credit be retained, without a full popular appreciation of the fact that revenue enough is to be received to keep the government from sinking into hopeless bankruptcy. The people have every disposition to pay the tax, to use government currency, and to subscribe to national loans to any amount. They do not object to Secretary Chase's borrowing all the money he needs, but they do most emphatically wish to see where the interest is to come from. The question of National banks or State banks is comparatively unimportant beside that of maintaining the credit of the government bonds and notes by taxation sufficient to pay the interest and to aid in the ordinary governmental expenses, and outside of strictly financial circles it excites far less feeling than is supposed. The great question is as to the sustaining of the financial arm of the republic. Loyal men do not split hairs about it, though Copperheads and their dupes do so. Loyal men are willing to aid the government through the instrumentality of the National banks or through any other means which are financially sound.

In the meanwhile let Congress hasten the passage of the Tax bill; for that once settled, we have no fears for the credit of the republic or for the further fluctuation in values which now unsettles honest trade, as well as the speculations of the gold and stock gamblers who have overspread the land like seventeen-year locusts.

THE GREAT CENTRAL FAIR BUILDING.

Logan Square is undergoing a metamorphosis. It is the busiest scene to be found in Philadelphia, and it is worth a long walk to see the rapidity with which the buildings for the Central Fair are going up upon the grounds heretofore devoted to promenaders, pea-fowls, deer and squirrels. In location and in the extent and general arrangement of the buildings the Great Central Fair will have very decided advantages over the New York Fair. The Union Square and the Tenth Street buildings combined are not nearly as large and commodious as the Logan Square buildings will be. Nor are they as handsome nor as convenient, nor in any way so well adapted to the purposes of a great exhibition.

building s is to have a grand pavilion in the centre, and long buildings over the principal wide walks. Some of these will be 500 fee's long, and others 200 feet. Sufficient Progress has been made in these to give an idea of the general effect when completed. The long and spacious corridors, in which the treasures of the Fair are to be stored, will astonish those who have only seen the New York buildings, no part of which exhibits any such effect. When finished, painted, decorated, hung with flags, and filled with people, these buildings will present surprisingly beautiful vistas. The picture gallery is to be in a separate building, in which every precaution will be taken to save the works of art from injury. This department promises to be extremely interesting, as the art-treasures of many of our rich private galleries will be loaned to the Fair, besides which there will be contribu-

the fund. There is a vast deal of work to be done in Logan Square, but the indications are that it will all be well done and in good season for the opening on the day appointed. From the universal preparation of articles, and the large gifts already received, there seems to be no doubt whatever that the buildings, extensive as they are, will not be any too great for their purpose. The prospect is that the Fair will surpass that of New York in magnitude and beauty, and we trust, also, it will surpass it in success.

merit, which will be sold for the benefit of

QUEEN VICTORIA:

It appears that the English people and their newspapers were a little too quick in jumping to the conclusion that their Queen was about to give up the seclusion to which she has confined herself since her widowhood, and take her former; conspicuous place in the fashionable world. So general had this idea become, that she has found it necessary to have it corrected in the most conspicuous manner. In the London Times of April 6th, in large bold type, appeared the following notice, which is spoken of half-sneeringly by some of the papers as "The Queen's Allocution;"

"An erroneous idea seems generally to prevail, and has latterly found frequent expression in the newspapers, that the Queen is about to resume the place in society which she occupied before her great affliction; that is, that she is about again to hold levees and drawing-rooms in person, and to appear as before at Court balls, concerts, &c. This idea cannot be too explicitly contradicted.

"The Queen heartily appreciates the desire of her subjects to see her, and whatever she can do to gratify them in this loyal and affectionate wish she will do. Whenever any real object is to be attained by her appearing on public occasions, any national interest to be promoted, or anything to be encouraged which s for the good of her people, her Majesty will not shrink, as she has not shrunk, from any personal sacrifice or exertion, however painful "But there are other and higher duties than those of mere representation which are now thrown upon the Queen, alone and unassistedduties which she cannot neglect without injury to the public service, which weigh unceasingly upon her, overwhelming her with work and

"The Queen has labored conscientiously to discharge these duties till her health and strength, already shaken by the utter and everabiding desolation which has taken the place of her former happiness, have been seriously im-

"To call upon her to undergo, in addition, the fatigue of those mere State ceremonies which can be equally well performed by other members of her family, is to ask her to run the risk of entirely disabling herself for the discharge of those other duties which cannot be neglected without serious injury to the public interests.

The Queen will, however, do what she can in the manner least trying to her health, strength, and spirits—to meet the loyal wishes of her subjects, to afford that support and countenance to society, and to give that encouragement to trade which is desired of her.
"More the Queen cannot do; and more the kindness and good feeling of her people will surely not exact from her."

Such an appeal as this to the feelings of the people should be sufficient to quiet all clamor. But it has not altogether had that effect. There is still a good deal of murmuring at the protracted mourning of the Queen, particularly from the trades people and their organs; for the shop-keepers find their business suffer from the want of the former court ceremonials and displays. They are not satisfied to have the royal entertainments given by deputy; for they believe that the Queen's personal presence at them would make them far more brilliant than they can be under the Prince and Princess of Wales. It is a good thing for us in this country that there is no one individual whose personal habits or tastes can exercise any damaging influence on business. Mrs. Lincoln's mourning has not affected the retail trade even in Washington. But it is a different matter in London, where the West End retail dealers look to the sovereign to take the lead in fashionable extravagance. To such an extent do they carry this, that they fret about the Queen's mourning for her husband.

Miss Anna E. Dickinson lectured on "Reconstruction" last evening, at the Academy of Music, before a large and deeply interested audience. Her eloquent words were devoted to the proof of the fact that the Union can never be reconstructed until slavery is utterly abolished, no more to blight and curse the land, or to trammel its glorious progress. She aiso eulogized, in glowing terms, the colored regiments of the Union army, in connection with her hearty praises of all the Union soldiers, and demanded justice for the black heroes, with vehement eloquence.

GRAY'S PATENT MOLDED COLLARS

Have now been before the public for nearly a year They are universally pronounced the nesteet and best fitting collars extant. The upper edge presents a perfect curve, free from the angles noticed in all other collars.

The cravat causes no puckers on the inside of the turn-down collar—they are AS SMOOTH IN. SIDE AS OUTSIDE—and therefore perfectly free and easy to the neck. The Garotte Ocliar has a smooth and evenly Lished edge on Both Sides.

These Collars are not simply flat pieces of paper ent in the form of a Collar, but are MOLDED AND HAPED TO FIT THE NECK. They are made in "Novelty" (er turn-down style); in every half size from 12 to 17 inches and in . Eureka', (or Garotte,) from 13 to 17 inches; and packed in "solid sizes" in neathine cartons, containing 100 each; also in smaller ones of 10 each—the latter a very handy package for Travelers, Army and Navy Officers. *EVERY COLLAR is stamped 'Gray's Patent Molded Collar." Sold by all Dealers in Men's Furnishing Goods.

We have learned not to be astonished at anything. Years of experience and a correspondence extending throughout all nationalities of the habitable globe have turned theories into facts and established a basis from which we need not err. We are not surprised at such facts as the following-although the persons who write them are. We know the persons and circumstances, hence feel at liberty to endorses their statement:

feel at liberty to endorses their statement:

'New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 24, 1663.

Drar Sir.—I have been afflicted many years with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. Physicians and medicines failed to relieve me. While visiting some friends in New York who were using Plantation Bitters they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine glassful after dinner. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I have not done for years I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters.

Respectfully,

JUDITH RUSSEL."

 I have been in the arrive hospitals for fourteen months—speechless and nearly dead. At Alton, Ill., they gave me a bottle of Plantation Bitters.  Three bottles, restored my speech and cured me.  C. A. FLAUTE."

The following is from the Manager of the Unio Home School for the Children of Volunteers:

"HAVEMEYER MANSION, Ffty-seventh, stree; NEW YORE, August 2, 1863.

Dr. Drake: Your wonderful Plantation Bitters have been given to some of our little children suffering from weakness and weak lungs with most happy effect. One little girl, in particular, with pains in her head, loss of appetite, and daily wasting consumption, on whom all medical shill had been exhausted, has been entirely restored. We commenced with but a teaspoonful of Ritters a day. Her appetite and strength rapidly increased, and she is now well.

Respectfully, MRS. O. M. DEVOE." ome School for the Children of Volunteers:

ice * * I owe much to you, for I verily be-lieve the Plantation Bitters have saved my life. REV. W. H. WAGGONER, Madrid, N.Y.''

"" * * I have given the Plantation Bitters to hundreds of our disabled soldiers with the most astonishing effects. G. W. D. ANDREWS, Superintendent Soldiers' Home, Cincinnati, O." "" * * The Piantation Bitters have cured me of liver complaint, of which I was laid up prostrate and had to abandon my business.

H. B. KINGSLEY, Cleveland, O."

* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the kidneys and urinary organs that has distressed me for years. It acts like a charm.

C. O. MOURE,

Agent for Celgate & Co.. 254 Broadway."
