HOUSE.—The Speaker announced the following as the Select Committee on the resolutions of the Legislature of Maine asking for the protection of the Northerstern boundary of that State. Messrs. Rice (Me.), A.ley (Mass.), Cox (Ohio), Hale (Pa.), Patterson (N. H.), Radford (N. Y.), and Driggs (Mich.).

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union on the Internal Revenue bill.

Mr. Holman (Ind.) offered an amendment, which was rejected, proposing a tax of 4 per cent. instead of 2% on the gains, profits or income which shall be derived from the interest upon notes, bonds or securities of the United States.

Mr. Holman offered another amendment that the incomes derived from the interest on notes, bonds or securities of the United States.

Mr. Morrill (Vt.) inquired whether the gentleman desired to check such investments.
Mr. Holman replied that he did not; but if the House did not adopt this principle they would withdraw from taxation millions and millions of the capital of the country.

After further debate, Mr. Holman's amendment was adopted.

Mr. Frank (N. Y.) offered an amendment providing for a tax on incomes exceeding $500 and not more than $10,000 of 5 per centum; on $10,000 and not exceeding $25,000 seven and a half per centum, and over $25,000 ten per centum. In support of this amendment Mr. Frank said that the Committee of Ways and Means have themselves established the principle of graduated laxation in this bill which was in effect an argument in support of his proposition.

Mr. Stevens (Pa.) said this amendment would lay a tax as a punishment on men because they are rich, and he did not know but that there ought to be an indictment against every one who has an income rich, and he did not know but that there ought to be an indictment against every one who has an income over $10,000, and that the tax ought to be from 10 to 100 per centum. The rich man pays according to his riches, but beyond this the tax was as a punishment for a man's thrift.

Mr. Frank repeated that the committee have themselves established the very principle.

Mr. Stevens replied that the committee put the tax on all alike over $600. They made no distinction between one man and another, because of the difference in their relative riches.

After a debate and various unsuccessful attempts to amend Mr. Fisher's amendment the latter was adopted—yeas 73, nays 75. to amend Mr. Fisher's ame adopted—yeas 73, nays 75.

THE SURRENDER OF PLYMOUTH, NORTH CAROLINA.

GALLANTRY OF THE UNION FORCES.

The Inhuman Butcheries of the Rebels.

FORTRESS MONBOE, April 24, 1864.—Plymouth surrendered is the startling and painful announcement I am compelled to make to you in my despatch to-day, which event took everybody by surprise, as it was thought that General Wessels could hold out for a few days at least, until relatorements, which were already on the way, could reach him But the rebel ram which had destroyed the Southfield kept our transports from ascending Reanoke river, and consequently the beleagured garrison at Plymouth was compelled to fight as long as human endurance could stand it, and either be annihilated or surrender at discretion. This newspreached me this morning by cretion. This news reached me this morning by the arrival of the steamer Currituck from Roanoke Island, and through a most reliable source. the arrival of the steamer Currituck from Roanoke Island, and through a mot reliable source.

The first attack was made on the fortifications of Plymou h on the 17th inst., but repulsed, as also anther made on Fort Gray. The momentary repulse kept the enemy at hay, and lasted for nearly twenty four hours. On Tuesday morning the rebit ram made her appearance, to co-operate with the land forces, and succeeded not only in sinking the Southfield, but in killing aptain Flusser. They drove our naval vessels from the river, and consequently this support failed Gen. Wessels in the most tyrig hour of his campaign.

The second attack was made by the enemy on all of our forts surrouncing the town almost simultaneously, and in every assaulthe was driven beck with terrible staggiver. But the reb is seemed determined, and renewed attacks were made and checked, each one still attended with the port description.

made and checked, each one still attended with the most dreadful carnage. From this time until ha f-past ten o' clock on wednesday morning the figutong was almost uninterrupted. On Tuesday or-ners were issued for the evacuation of Fort Wes ing was almost uninterrupted. On Tuesday or oners were issued for the evacuation of Fort Wessels, better known as the Eighty fifth regiment redoubt, situated a short distance from Mill creek. Captain Chapin, the commandant of the fort. had been killed, and, although the stock of ammunition on hand was growing 's small by degrees and brautifully less,' still the heroic little rand kept no an incessant firing on the enemy, every shot telling with fraiful effect. Upon the reception of the order the survivors of the garrison awaited the coming of might, and under its protecting shade silently with diew to the town having first, however, disabled the guns of the fort.

The Union forces concentrated, on the evacuation of Fort Wessels, in Forts Williams, Comfort and a redoubt facing the Roanoke River, below Mill Ureek, and kept up the fight incessantly. The forces of General Wessels, thus being massed and able to handle their artillery more effectively, kept up a regular, steady and galling fire on the rebels. The enemy used thirty-pounder Parrott guns, and other artillery of aboutsimilar calibre.

At nine o'clock on the 22th inst. a most impetuous assault was made by the rebels on Fort petuous assault was made by the rebeis on rort Williams. Our brave boys nobly stood by their guns and repulsed every attempt of the enemy to enter the fortification. In splendid order did the rebel column advance to the assault. enter the fortification. In spiendid order did the rebel column advance to the assault. General Wessels allowed him time to come within easy range of his guns, and then gave the order to fire. Every discharge mowed down the rebel troops by platoons. Still the gaps were instantly filled up and the attack renewed. In this manner the enemy received several severe shocks, and, after a last and still more impetuous charge, which likewise resulted disastrously to him, he withdrew, evidently to repair damage and make ready for another attack.

General Wessels copitulated at half-past ten on the morning of the 20th inst (Wednesday), an hour and a half after the repulse at Fort Williams. At the hour above meationed the Union flag was hauled down on Forts Williams and Comfort as well as on the Mill creek redoubt. The rebels "ad been heavily reinforced during Tuesday night, and the overwhelming forces hurled against our weak and already shattered column was too much to endure, and, being out of ammunition and cut off from a further supply General; Wessels could do no less than surrender, or have all his command annihilated. The garrison of Fort Gray ro doubt fought nobly to the last, but, being cut off from the main command, with but, being cut off from the main command, with out hope of deliverance, had to succumb also. We have no advices from this po-t; but common sense teaches us that the fort could not hold out very long.

The rebel column consisted of no less than five

The rebel column consisted of no less than five brigades of troops, each brigade numbering about three thousand men. There were under the chief command of Major General Hoke, assisted by Generals Ransom and Barton. The majority of these troops were from the far South, as the North Carolinians are not trusted very far while fighting on their own soil.

Our losses are estimated at about one hundred in killed and wounded. Captain Chapin was killed at Fort Wessels, and Captain Horace J. Hodges, Depot Quartermaster, while in the act of communicating with the gunboat Miami, in a cance which he carried in a wagon from Plymonth to Conesby creek, in order to clude the rebel ironclad, was upset and drowned. The loss of tus cflicer will be severely feltand regreted by all who knew him. I have been unable to learn the names of others who lost their lives in the severe battles before Plymouth.

before Plymouth.
Two citizens escaped from Plymouth after the reverse Plymouth.

Two citizens escaped from Plymouth after the rebels had taken possession of the town. Their names are Wm. Atkinson and — Mitchel, loyal men, who carried on business there. They packed their trunks in a wagon, and, after getting clear of the town, they took to the swamps, and during the night they managed to obtain a rowboat moved up in that to the mouth of the river, where they were picked up by one of the Union gunboats patrolling the Sound.

The rebel losses are, beyond the slightest doubt, immensely heavy. When it is considered that every fort around Plymouth was stormed from three to seven times, and each assault repulsed with great slaughter, besides pouring broadside after broadside into the rebel traks from the Miami and Southfield, the casualties among the rebel troops must have been enormous. A rebel surgeon was heard to say that "the damned Yankees had killed and wounded one third of their whole force, and he hoped no mercy would be shown the cursed Yankees." The gunboat Whitehead went on a reconnoissance on Wednesday a short distance above Plymon h, and the officers and crew observed about three hundred rebel troops engaged in burying the dead. From a steeple on the town church, overlooking a large tract of land, it was found that the field of Asa Johnson (about sixty acres) was completely filled with dead and dying rebels. The entire rebel force

Johnson (about sixty acres) was completely filled with dead and dying rebels. The entire rebel force could not have been short of from fifteen to twenty thousand men, of whom one-third are unfit for future service. Inture service.

My informant also acquainted me with the fart that all the negroes found after the surrender were stripped of their clothing and brutally murdered in cold blood. It must be understood that General Wessels had no colored troops at Plymouth, save a few recruits for North Carolina regiments, and the poor, unfortunate blacks thus butchered were merely laborers for the Government. The negroes were formed into line, in a nude state, and fired at by the brutal soldiery, purporting to represent Southern chivalry.

The situation of Plymouth is on the Roanoke river, which forms an angle above its mouth, from the Albemarle Sound, of ninety degrees.

The forts were built ou side of the town, and at the first advance of the rebels on Sunday, the Southfield and Miami, having obtained the range, did good execution, directed by signals.

The rebel ram Albemarle, which is the name of this rebel monster, is quite a formidable craft, nture service. My informant also acquainted me with the fact did good execution, directed by signals.

The rebel ram Aibemarle, which is the name of this rebel moneter, is quite a formidable craft, built on the plan of the Merrimac. Capt. James Spottiswoode Coke, late lieutenant in the United States Navy, commands her, and has a crew of sixty men. Her dimensions are as follows: Length, 152 feet; breadth of beam, 46 feet; depth of hold, 12 feet. She is built of sixteen inch timber, and is said to have a plating of six-inch iron. Others, however, assert that her coat of mail is Trail, land and fastened crosswise. Her engine is a low pressure, English built, with two screws. She is pierced for six guns, viz: one port-hole at the stern and stem, and four on the starboard and port sides. Her armament consists of only two 20-pounder Whitworth guns, revolving on a swivel, which can be fired out of three port-holes.

The enemy is supposed to be moving on Little Was hington, and, aithough we are well prepared there for an attack, hot and bloody work will soon ensue. The motive of the rebels, as stated by some of their officers, for making the onslaught on Plymouth and other posts in North Carolina, is to drive the Union forces out of the State, and transfer the theatre of war from Virgin is to North Carolina; also to check the movement among the disaffected towards resisting the Jeff. Davis tyranny. This, therefore, may be said to be the earnest (ommencement of a vigorous spring campaign.

She possesses one aperture at her fore part for the use of a heavy gun; but her main purpose is to destroy by concussion. She is accompanied by a formidable water battery, securely protected by cotion bales, behind which artillery and smal arms, can be securely used. The name of this satellite is the "Cotton Plant."

It is understood that the rebels have likewise two others, one at Kinston and one at Goldsboro. At the latter point they are known to have organized a complete naval brigade.

swamps of the Chickabor inv to within the Union lines at Williamsburg. For some time there had been but few arrivals of this description at our culposts, and the appearance or this advance gnard of colored refugees is an amost infallible indication of movements on the part of the enemy. From the reports so far received, the rebels are evidently massing troops in all the strong positions to resist an expected advance up the peninsula. The Richmond anthorities are evidently completely puzzled as to the designs of Gen. Grant, and information is being constantly received of the marching and countermarching of troops.

General Fuzhugh Lee has made his appearance in the neighborhood of Charles City Court House, with a cavatry force variously estimated at from those thousard five hundred to six thousand. The greater part of this force is composed of re-enlisted veterans, who have lately returned from recruiting furlough. Many of them have served under Ashby and Jackson. Co onel Robbins also commancs a force in this immediate neighborhood.

Charles City Court House is garrisoned by Pickett's old infantly division, under command of Gen. Elzey, and a regiment of heavy artillery. A force, composed principally of heavy artillery, is stationed at Bromley's Station, on the York river, where they are reported to be engaged in throwing up earthworks. Troops are also concentrating or all the intermediate points between the York and James rivers. James rivers.

Homicide in Marietta.—An affray occurred in Marietta. on Wednesday night, in which a young man by the name of Geo. Wesselman was mortally wounded. It seems that a quarrel originated between two sold ers about a woman, upon which one of them, named Bishop, discharged a pistol at his opponent, and missing him shot Wesselman, who happened to be passing along the street. Wesselman was said to have been married next day.

Capture of a Blockade Runner-Another Sunk.

Decline in Gol' and Stocks in New York.

To-Day's Proceedings in. the Legislature. CAPTURE OF ONE BLOCKADE RUNNER AND

SINKING OF ANOTHER. Washington, April 26 .- The Navy Department has received information of the capture of the schooner Three Brothers, by the U.S. steamer Nita, off the coast of Florida, and the sinking and entire loss of the blockade running schooner Wild Pigeon. It seems that she was discovered by the steamer Hendrick Hudson, who supposed her to be the Electric, a schooner she had boarded the day previously; but she still kept a watch on her, and as the Hudson neared her she saw she was a blockade runner. The Wild Pigeon suddenly luffed directly across the Hudson's bows, and in spite of all that could be done the Hudson struck her directly amidships, staving her whole side in and sinking her in three minutes.

All of the crew came aboard the Hudson except one man, who jumped overboard, and was drowned. But slight damage was done to the Hudson.

The Wild Pigeon was bound to St. Marks, under rebel papers, and had a rebel flag on board.
