XXXVIIITH CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION. CLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

SENATE.—Mr. Hale (N. H.) introduced a bill to amend the act to promote the efficiency of the mayy, which provides that no officer shall be retired under the age of sixty-two, and whose name shall not have been borne upon the Navy Register forty-five years after he had arrived at the age of sixteen. Referred to the Naval Committee.

Mr. Ten Eyck (N. J.) reported from the Committee of the Judiciary a bill chan ing and defining the boundaries of the Eastern and Western Judiciary Districts of Virginia, and making the two districts coextensive with the States of Virginia and West Virginia, the latter of which shall hold six sessions annually—at Clarksburg on the 2th days of March and August, at Wheeling on the 6th days of April and September, and at Charleston on the 19th days of April and September, and at Charleston on the 19th days of April and September.

Mr. Wilson (Mass.) introduced the following joint resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Finance:

Resolved, That the sum of $25,000,000 be and the mittee on Finance:

Resolvea, That the sum of $25,000,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not other wise appropriated, for arming, equipping, clothing, subsisting, transporting and paying volunteers that may be received by the President for any time not less than one hundred days after their muster into the service by regiments.

days after their muster into the service by regiments.

Mr. Wilson (Mass.) introduced a bill to increase the number of cadets in the army, and for other purposes."

It provides that the number of cadets at the Military School shall not exceed 400. The President may appoint, in addition to the number of cadets heretofore authorized by law, two cadets for each State represented in Congress; who shall be actual residents of the States for which they may be appointed. All appointments of cadets not otherwise provided for by law, shall be made from the military forces of the United States regulars and volunteers; but no person shall be appointed a cadet under the provisions of this section who shall not have served honorably for the period of twelve morths; Provided, That the total number of cadets appointed in any year shall not exceed 150. No person to be admitted as a cadet at the Military Academy who shall be less than seventeen, or more than twenty years of age on the first of July in the year of his admission, except such persons as are provided for from the regular and volunteer forces as above mentioned. No person to be hereafter admitted as a cadet until he shall have passed a full and satisfactory examination in the branches prescribed. Boards of examination are to be appointed, &c. keferred to the Committee on Military Alairs.

On motion of Mr. Collamer (Vermont), the Con motion of Mr. Coliamer (Vermont), the House bill establishing a money order system was called up, and after amendments passed. He also called up the Senate bill in relation to franked matter. It permits all communications, of whatsoever origin, to be received by the heads of the Executive Lepartments and chief of bureaus, who are entitled to the franking privilege, without being endorsed "official business." but with the name of the writer thereon. name of the writer thereon.

oeing endorsed "official business." but with the name of the writer thereon. The bill was passed.

The bill was passed.

The bill for the relief of the State of Missonri was called up by Mr. Doolittle as unfinished business, and made the special order for Molday next.

Mr. Therman (Ohio) called up the special order, the House bill to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof.

Mr. Sherman explained that this bill repeals the act of the last Congress, though nearly all the provisions of that bill are contained in this one. The amendments are mainly as to the defails to give efficiency to the measure. The chief differences are first—that the bill of last year required banks aut orized under the act to redeem their own notes at their own counters, but this bill names certain chief cities where the notes of the different banks are to be redeemed in addition. The second charge was in regard to taxation, there having been some doubts as to whether the banks were to be liable to both the Government and State tax. In the bill that matter is clearly defined.

The third and four it changes are in regard to the that matter is clearly defined.

The third and four it changes are in regard to the State bar ks, improving the system by which the old banks may come in under the law, and rendering it e stockholders individually liable to an extent equal to the amount of their stock. The fifth change is a regards interest, but the Sentite Committee proposed to strike out the uniform rate of 7 per cent, as established in the House bill, and leave it much the same as in the old bill. The sixth change provides for the receipt of 5 per cent. Sunds of the United States as a basis of circulation, to be kept always at a margin of ten per cent. on their market value. The seventh change allows the issue of noies of a less denomination than five dollars, to the extent of one- fifth of their entire issue—such notes to be recalled when specie payments are ressumed.

less denomination than five dollars, to the extent of one, fifth of their entire issue—such notes to be recalled when specie payments are resumed. The Senate proceeded to act on the amendments reported by the Finance Committee.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, the clause of the bill providing for the admission of the Bank of Commerce, New York, was stricken out and amended so as to read:

'Except that the shareholders of any banking association, having not less than $5,000,000 of capital stock actually paid in and a surplus of 20 per cent, on hand, shall be liable only in the amount invested in their shares as long as said surplus find shall remain undiminished.

Mr. Sherman explained that this amendment was only meant to apply to the Bank of Commerce in New York city. It was important that this wealthy corporation should be alrowed to come in under the provisions of the bill, as it had extended many favors to the government. Under the provisions of the bill as it came from the House, it would be excluded, and it was proposed to strike out the House clause and insert the amendment he had offered.

Mr. Headerson (Mo.) opposed the whole bank.

which described, and it was proposed to strike out the House-clause and insert the amendment he had offered.

Mr. Headerson (Mo.) opposed the whole banking system proposed by the oill. He considered it nothing but the revival of an exploded idea. The time would come when we would see the error of the present legislation. He opposed the conferring of more power upon the wealthy Bank of Commerce, of New York, than it now possessed, as it had already received a remuneration for all the favors it had done the government.

The Senate committee's amendment, at lking out the clause in the House bill allowing a State tax on the capital stock of banks organized under this act, and providing that in lieu of all other tax every association shall pay to the Irassurer of the United States, in the months of January and July, a duty of one balf of one per centum each hall year from and after the first day of January 1864, upon the average amount of its notes in circulation, and a duty of one quarter of one per centum each half year upon the average amount of its deposits, and a duty of one quarter of one per centum each half year as aforesaid, on the average amount of its capital stock beyond the amount invested in United States bonds, was debated at some length by Messers. Chandler and Henderson in opposition, and Messers Sherman and Fessender in support of it. Without action, the Senate at the occasion of the presenter in the oclock adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, having the Internal Revenue bill under consideration, Mr. Stevens moved an amendment to tax the salaries of members of Congress ten per cent., which was voted down by a large majority.

Many other amendments, among them one excluding dividends of savings institutions from cluding dividends. Many other amendments, among them one excluding dividends of savings institutions from taxation, were rejected.
