THE CONNECTING RAILRAD.

To the Editor of the R. eming Barbin. I have read with pleasure the remarks of your correspondent (Civis, 'r. lative f' the 'c') necting it they are added in the part the Pennsylvania Railread Company is emacting in this scheme of iniquity, and mourn with him at the bare thought, 'that a blowso fa'll to the prosperty of our city should be even attempted by one of its most favored corporations.' But I desire to correct 'Civis' in a very important particular, viz: his impression that the few who have stepped into the breach to arrest the monstrous injury attempted to be inflicted—through all time—upon our city, 'have abandoned the contest, deeming it hopeless against the combined power of three gigantic corporations arrayed against them.' This is a mistake, a great mistake: the 'few' have increased in number, and so far from even thinking of abandoning the contest, we are watching the movements of our wily adversary, ready at a moment's notice to bring down upon him the public indig-ation his conducts or fichly merits. I speak individually—for in reality we have only one man to contend with and he, by the larity of our citzens interested in 'chis' corporation, and perhaps the city authorities, too, have allowed him such sway as to cause him to think (very erroneously, as the sequel will prove,) he is omnipotent, or from their shrinking from this duty, causing him to despite their capacity. The heads of the other roads are reasonable men, who, in their desire for a through line, do not desire the mutilation of the city, as they know there is no necessity for it. The object can be fully obtained by pa-sing round, instead of through, the heart of the city.

John G. Saxe is very ill from the effects of injuries received by a railroad accident last winter.

Gen. Neal Dow is likewise very ill from the effects of his long incarceration.

The man-ol-war's-man murdered in Boston on Sunday morning has been identified as John Tobin. Deceased was twenty six years of age, and was formerly a seaman on board the United States frigate Niggars. CITY URI INANUES.
