He spoke cheeringly of the prospects of our armies and the Union, and complimented Maryland on her near approach to freedom fram human siavery. He spoke of the blessings of a republican government, handed down to us by Washington and our revolutionary fathers, and of the vital importance of maintaining that government and its unity, at every hazard and every sacrifice. He deployed the shedding of blood, but better suffer now than suffer ten thousand times more hereafter from horrors of internal strife consequent upon the destruction of the Union.

At the conclusion there were cheers for him, for Mr. Lincoln and for the Foreign Ministers and their friends. The distinguished visitors left between the and eleven o'clock and returned to their hotels, and will leave for Washington to morrow.

The Senate Post Office Committee had under consideration to day the House bill to construct a railroad bridge over the Ohio river, at the Falls of Ohio; the bridge to be built so as not to interrupt the navigation of said river. Some of the Committee are opposed to the bill, believing it unwise to grant such privileges. It was finally postponed until next meeting.

The order of Gen. Meade about the Pennsylvania Reserves being mustered out on the expiration of three years from the time they entered into the United States rervice, meets with a hearty response from our gallant Pennsylvania soldiers. Now that victory is about to be achieved they are keen for the fight, and none of them would think of giving trouble.

This morning Stanhope Gaweckie and Mary

This morning Stanhope Gaweckie and Mary Gaweckie, refugees from Augusta, Georgia, presented themselves at the Provost Marstal's office and were released on taking the oath of allegiance. Gaweckie states that on the 15th of last month the rebel authorities issued an order: prohibiting citizens from riding on the railroads from various points in the South leading to Richmond, in order to facilitate the moving of troops, which were being hurried up to Richmond in large numbers. At the time Gaweckie left Augusta, Georgia, which was some two weeks since, there were no troops stationed at that point, those that had been quartered there having been withdrawn a faw days previously and sent to Richmond. In Richmond the refugees saw large bodies of troops on their way to reinforce General Lee, and the arrival of every train at that place increases the number of his army. of his army.
It is said by members of the Executive Com-

A peution signed by eighty members of the Convention, in favor of Alexander McCluur for chairman of the State Central Committee was presented.

The Committee on Address made a report. The address sets forth that the honor and glory of the peop e are sufficient reasons for urging the relection of President Lincoln, whose administration has presented all the powers and resources of the Government in their strongest light, it is necessary for the successful prosecution of the war that there should be no change in the administration at Washington, for any such change would involve a change of measures and of military and civil labors, which could only result in ruin the contrary, Fredent Lincolples which he has upheled, and the pays a high tribute to the influence of the national credit and navioral cause of the contrary, Fredent Lincolples which he has upheled, and the pays a high tribute to the influence of the president that his success in the next campaign will not be a triumph of party merely, but the triumph of a great principle.

The recolutions are five in number. The first endorses the policy of the Kational Administration in the prosecution of the war and punishment of ratiors - a policy which, if carned out, will result in the triumph of the arms and powers of Governor Curtin, who deserves the respect of all logal men, and who is entitled to credit as a just and tried officer who has sustained the honor of Fennsylvania and its dignity. The third resolution endogrees the respect of all logal men, and who is entitled to credit as a just and tried officer who has sustained the honor of Fennsylvania and its dignity. The hird resolution returns thanks our brave soldiers in the field, who have sacoffed the comforts of home for the motern thanks our brave soldiers in the field, who have sacoffed the comforts of home for the motern thanks our brave soldiers in the field, who have sacoff the principles of our Government. Therefore the principles of our Government. Therefore the principles of our Government. The r which our gallant soldiers have fought for Union, treedom and equality. He closed amicst iond cheers.

Colonel A. K. McClure pledged himself to sugtain Lincoln at Balthmore. I should be faithless to my trust if I failed to do so after you have pointed to him without a dissenting voice as the bulwark of the nation now rocking in the throes of civil war, with traitors all over the land in its darkest hour. He has accomplished that which must make the page of our history brighter than the acts of any other Administration. He has strack the death-blow to slavery, that bloody menster, that his made widows and orphans of our wives and children; made motherless our matrons, and the national cemeteries of our brave brothers. He demonstrated that slavery and liberty cannot live together; that the former is the enemy of a free republic. (Immense cheering.)

The true Union men will be side by side with us in this great contest; but bear in mind that all the power of our common enemies will be brought to bear against Abraham Lincoln. Bear in mind that we need our energies, and must make the defeat of the peace men overwhelming, such as will forever, put this republic beyond the rock of slavery. Beware of the enemy's wiles. They will twine their snaky coils aroundevery man in the country. They will resort to every low and dastard lie to blacken and ruin our common country. Let us preserve our republic, to hand down to our posterity unstanded by treachery to human fredom. [Cheers.]

William B. Mann was loudly called. He said: I trust we will all return to our homes with the renewed det rimination to re-elect Abraham Lincoln. I can say that when 'the votes are counted in Philadelphia the result will cheer the heart of every true Pennsylvanian. We pledge you ten thousand majority in our city. [Tremendous cheers]

thousand majority in our city. [Tremendous cheers ]

Wayne McVeigh said the American people could not be led by any man, but new at the end of three years of fire and crimson, of heart throes and civil war, this awkward, unlettered, ungainly man, the scoff of Europess tyrants and traitors at home, has, come out the choice of his people. Gettysburg was greater under God than Marathon. We are here again to take care, if need be, by our lives, that Government for the fireful state by the reopies has not fail. In the future, the Emancipation Proclamation will be regarded as the greatest consummation of irredom, In that day some lack near will be remembered with gleaming hayonel hack then will be remembered with gleaming hayonel increased flacking eyes, as having helped to preserve our liberty, while some white men will be remem-our fellow countryman. The tail of the control of the control of all states; the hearts of the Copperheads are behind the bayonets of the legions of the rebellion. [Cheers: I This war is to be won by loyal votes, and when it is shaved the announcement will be made to the Southern traitors that we never failed in the purpose we entimine and three years ago. [Cheers: I This war is to be won in the early spring, while our braves are lying still in death along the silent marshes of Anticiam, of Lookout Mountain, and hundreds of battle fields, let us tell the South, as you went under Abraham Lincoln, by the grace God, you shall come back under Abraham Lincoln, I Immense theering.] They will understand this when the mucketry of General Grant's hall be heard before Hichmond.

Hichmond.

Linn Bartholomew said that the Copperheads now entertain the hope that our arms may be defeated; that General Grunt may be hurled back from Elchmond for no other purpose than to advance the interests of George B. McClellan, whom they wish to carry to the Presidential chair; but, by the help of God, we will be on our guard for them. We will sustain our President, in victory or defect, until the glarbous old day hall be planted item. We will sustain our President, in victory or defeat, until the glorious old flag shall be planted in triumph all over the Union, from the Lakes to the Guit, with Abraham Lincoln as our National standard-rearer, chosen by the overwhelming voice of his people. [Cheers]

Hon. James H. Oumphell, of Schuylkill, said the Keystone had always been the touchstone of the Union. She had elected all our Presidens; the had furnished six hundred thensaid soldiers for the Union; she nominated and elected Abraham Lincoln, and if now, with her three millions, she goes for his re-election, that will be the death atrole to rebellion.

After eleven o'clock the immense crowd dispersed with cheers icr Abraham Lincoln and Governor Cartin.
