MADISON COURT HOUSE DESTROYED. WABHINGTON, May 1, 1864.—Letters from Culpeper and Brandy Station, dated this morning, repeat the familiar phrase of 'all quiet along the ines of the Army of the Potomac.'

An order from the War Department to-day authorizes all Government horses about town in possession of civilians to be seized by the patrol grand, as it is the intention to prohibit the Government horses from being used in the army except for Government business. All passes of officers and soldiers about the city are strictly scrutinized, and many arrests are being made.

for Government business. All passes of officers and soldiers about the city are strictly scrutinized, and many arrests are being made.

The information from the Army of the Potomac received to night is that the troops that went to Madison Court House on Thursday burned the town to seles. It is not known whether this was done by orders or not.

Gen. Burnside visited Gen. Weade last night, and spent some hours in his quarters.

Describers who came in yesterday report that Lee's army is eighty thousand strong, with twenty-two thousand effective cavalry. All were in good condition with ten days' supplies distributed to them, and that the railroad trains are running night and day, bringing more.

THE RED RIVER EXPEDITION.

THE RED RIVER EXPEDITION. CAIRO, April 29.—The steamer Mississippi, from New Orleans on the 23rd and Memphis on the 27th, arrived here to day

The steamer Empire. from the Red River, brought down General Lexand Captain Ning, on brieness connected with the organization of their Major Connelly, of the First New Hampshire Major Connelly, of the First New Hampshire Cavalry, was badly injured by a kick from a horse, but it was hought that he would recover.

Lieutenant Snow, who was reported to have been killed, is allyt, but a prisoner.

Passengers by the Empire stated that the impression prevailed that the rebels would avoid a general engagement, but it was possible that the constant picket firing might result in a battle at any moment.

noment. Prisoners, deserters and o hers who were present during the recent battles, say that the rebel loss at Pleasant Hill and Sabine Cross Roads cannot fall far short of 7,000, and it may reach 10,000 milled, wounded and taken prisoners.

There were three and half feet of water on the Red River Falls, and six and a half feet from Alex-

Red River raise, and see an analysis and ria down.

The New Orleans Era publishes a rumor that Gen. Steele has taken possession of Shreveport and thrown up fortifications.

FROW NORTH CAROLINA. The Newbern Times of the 27th inst., says that on Friday last, April 22d, a large rebel force appeared in front of Little Washington, but their lines were deserted. and it issaid a vigorous stampede towards Richmond commenced.

A military gentlemen direct from Newbern, 27th inst., furnishes the following additional particulars from North Carolina: lars from North Carolina:

It appears that the rebel ram Roanoke, which sunk some of our best gunboats, and which assisted so materially in capturing Plymouth, was injued in the fight, but as soon as she is repaired, which will not take long, the enemy say that they will assert their authority over the rivers and sounds of North Carolina, including all the towns now in our possession. They expect to act in connection with their other ram on the Neuse River, which is reported ready to move down on Newbern.

The Newbern Times of the 27th inst. contains the following additional particulars of the capture of Plymouth: lars from North Carolina:

following additional particulars of the capture of Plymouth:

'The rebel force was under the command of Brigadier-General Hoke, and was much larger than we supposed. It must have amounted to at least twenty thousand men. The rebel cavalry was under the command of Brigadier-General Ransom. The first attack was made on Fort Gray, which was situated about one mile from town, on the Roanoke River. The rebel battery which commanded this fort, it is said, was planted on Polk's Island, about a mile distant.

'On Wednesday morning the rebels prepared to storm our works in Plymouth. They accordingly massed their forces and precipitated them upon Fort Wessels, Battery Worth, Fort Gray, and Fort Williams. These places were taken in detail, and after several repulses, were finally captured. But even then, it is said that General Wessels still held out, and fought the rebels in the streets of Plymouth, throwing up rifle-pits for the prolection of his men, and was only overpowered by sheer force of numbers, being nearly 20 rebels to one Federal soldier.

"It is alse said that General Wessels pulled off his coat and went into the work himself with the most indomitable energy, throwing hand-gronades. On the surrender of the place the colored soldiers and Second Loyal North Carolina stampeded for the awamps. Most of the negroes, we regret to hear, are said to have been massacred. The conduct of the rebel soldiery or the officers, or both, is said to have been barbarous in the extreme, and that they even went so far as to threaten personal violence to the gallant old soldier who had command for so nobly punishing them. It is reported that the rebel loss was between sixteen hundred and two thousand killed and wounded, while our loss was comparatively small. All honor to the heroes of Plymouth!

"The sword, sash and belt presented to General Wessels by his veteran brigade were not captured. They were deposited by him with General Peck for safe keeping, and are here in Newbern. Some twenty colored soldiers, recruited at Plymouth, a

FROM ARKANSAS.

St. Louis, April 30.—Advices from Camden, Arkansas, say that General Steele's army is there. Thayer joined General Steele at Elkin's Ferry, on the Little Miscorri, where the rebels were driven from their l'ine of breastworks commanding the bottom. The enemy next stood at Prairie d'Anna, which they fortified with a line of rifle pits and epaulments for barbette guns, a mile and a half long. General Steele flanked their position, and Price skedaddled, after a brisk fight, towards Washington. Other skirmshes occurred during the march, but our total loss is less than two hundred. Price supposed that Steele was going to Shreveport via Washington, and moved his command from Camden to Washington.

After the fight at Prairie d'Anna, Steele pursued the rebels a few miles towards Washington and then suddenly turned and pushed for Oamden. Price discovered his mistake and started for Camden slates of the start of the senging in our front and Dockery in our rear with cavalry, Steele came out victor and entered the enemy's fortifications unopposed.

Camden is strongly fertified with nine forts, and all the approaches are well guarded. It can be held against a largely superior force.

Alarge rebel transport was captured 30 miles

A large rebel transport was captured 30 miles below Camden. It was understood that reinforcements and supplies were going overland from Little Rock to General Steele, he not being able to draw either from General Banks. Steele's force is fully twenty thousand strong and can whip Kirby Smith should he attack him. No fears are entertained of Gen. Steele's safety.

THE FORT PILLOW MASSACRE. THE FORT PILLUW MASSAURE.

The following letter has just been received by MrBlow, of Missouri, respecting the treatment of our soldiers after the surrender of Fort Pillow:
UNITED STATES STEAMER SILVER CLOUD, MISSISSIPPI RIVER, April 22d, 1964—5ir. Since you oid the favor of recommending my appointment last August, I have been on daty aboard this boot.

ment last August, I have been on duty aboard this beat.

I now write you with reference to the Fort Pillow massacre. I write because most of our in the retailation which our Government may deal out to the rebels when the fact of the merciless butchery is fully established.

Our bost arrived at the fort about 7.30 A. M., on Wednesday, the 13th, the day after the rebels captould see them, for two hours, a flug of truce from the rebel General Chalmers was received by us, arrangement with Gen. Chalmers for the parolling of our wounded and the burial of our dead, the attended to bury our dead.

I found many of the dead lying close along by

at the fort and I was sent out with a burial party to bury our dead.

I found many of the dead lying close along by the water'sedge, where they had evidently sought safety; they could not offer any resistance from the places where they were, in holes and cavities along the banks; most of them had two wounds.
I saw several colored soldiers of the 6th United States Artillery, with their eyes punched out with bayonets; many of them were shot twice and bayoneted also. All those along the bank of the river were colored. The number of the colored near the river was about seventy. Geing up into the fort.
Whether bodies partially consumed by fire.
say way there were several companies of rebels in could have pulled them out of the fire had they chosen to do so.
One of the wounded negroes told me that he

chosen to do so.

One of the wounded negroes told me that he had not one a thing, and when the rebels drove had not one at hing, and when the rebels drove their guns and cried out that they surrendered; but the rebels kept on shooting them down until they had hot all but a few. This is what they all say they claim that our men would not surrender, and they claim that our men would not surrender, and they claim that our men would not coatrol their men. I had seeme go to the surrendered or not. This is a filmsy excuse, for after our colored treops had been driven from the fort, and they were surounded by the rebels on all sides, it is apparen

A Commence of the second of th

that they would do what all say they did, throw down their arms and beg for mercy.

I huried but very few white men; the whole number buried by my party and the party from the gunboat New Ern was about one hundred.

The rebeis and burned some of the white dead.

I can make affidavit to the above in necessary.

Hoping that the above may be of some service and that a desire to be of service will be considered sufficient excuse for writing to you, I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, May 1, 1864.—Messis. Wade and Gooch, who were deputed to visit Fort Pillow and investigate the alleged atrocities committed upon our troops by the rebels after their surrender, returned to Washington yesterday. They took some fifty depositions of efficers and men who were present, many of whom are now in hospitals suffering from their wounds. The Committee have abundant evidence to show that all statements herefore made of inhumanities and frightful atrocities are more than true. It is proven that after the surrender, men, women and children all colored, were shot, bayoneted and burned. It appears from the evidence that the massacre was premeditated, orders to the following the depart rious consideration respecting the mode of retalia-tion to be adopted. He finds himself much em-barrassed to know how to treat this troublesome Secretary Chase returned from Philadelphia

Secretary Chase returned from Philadelphia yesterday.

The committee to investigate matters in the Tressury Department will proceed at once to business.

A special order, issued by the War Department this morning, requires all enlisted men now in this city on detailed duty to report forthwith to their regiments in the field, unless they can produce from the proper medical authority certificates of physical inability, and are unable to perform duties in the field.

James M. Hood, editor of the Chattanoga Gartte, is in Washington as the representative of the James M. Hood, editor of the Chattanoega Garette, is in Washingtonas the representative of the loyal citizens of lower East Tennessee, to urge apon the Government a modification of the order discontinuing the issuance or sale of rations to citizens at points south of Nashville, Tenn. The loyal people protest against the policy of sending them to the rear, as a most ungrateful return for their many sacrifices for the Government during the war.

Mar. Hood believes that if the people were paid for the provisions which they gladly tendered to our soldiers upon their advent into that portion of the country, they would be able then to purchase food at home, or remove to the rear with the dignity of free citizens. instead of being subjected to the humiliation of begging from the Government, when in fact the Government is their debtor. DRY GOODS.

EXTRACT FROM THE NEW YORK WORLD, April 23, 1564—"The proposed increase of duties on Imported Goods, has had a very extraordinary effect upon the trade of this city. It has largely increased the withdrawal of bonded goods from the Custom House—of course, added to the receipts for duties, but the most marked effect has been shown in retail trade, and all the large dry goods and fancy stores have been thronged, for the last two days, by a number of eager retail purchasers, and prices have generally been marked up twenty five per cent."

Without re erence to the course adopted by others, and prefering an active trade to exorbitant profits, we are now selling from a large stock of Desirable Goods, purchased prior to the late advance in Exchange or the proposed increase of duty, at a moderate advance.
