XXXVIIITH CONGRESS.—FIRST SESSION. GLOSE OF SATURDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Mr. Sumner (Mass.) introduced a bill to provide for the greater efficiency of the civil service of the United States, which provides for a Board of Examination for candidates for all civil offices or promotion in such offices, except in those appointed by the President. The applicants must be citizens, between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five, and shall furnish such testimonials and take such oath of allegiance as the Board may prescribe; the work of applicants to be assigned in accordance with the degree of merit, and vacancies to be filled in precise accordance with such assignment in the decise accordance with such assignment in the de-partment or branch of service for which the examination was made.

Mr. Sumner (Mass.) introduced a resolution requesting the President to communicate to the Senate the opinion of the Attorney-General as to the rights of colored persons in the army and else-rights of colored persons in the army and elsewhere.

The resolution was objected to by Mr. Powell.

Mr. Harding (Ky.) called up the House bill for the relief of settlers on land claims in California.

Mr. Harding and Mr. Conness (Cal.) defended the bill in reply to Mr. Johnson, who contended that the policy of its propositions would be injurious, as it was a direct interference with the action of the Juditiary. The bill was passed.

Mr. Harlan (towa), from the Committee on Public Lands, reported the Senate bill granting lands for railroads in Minnesota, with the House amendments, making the grant directly to the State. It was passed.

The Senate then took up the special order of the day, the National Currency bill.

The amendment of the Senate Committee taxing banks was passed without amendment.

The bill was then reported to the Senate.

The principal amendment of the Senate.

The principal amendment of the Senate.

The principal amendment of the House bill. Inlieu of all other taxes every association shall pay to the forty-first section of the House bill. Inlieu of all other taxes every association shall pay to the Treasurer of the United States, in the mount of January and July, a duty of one-half of one per centum each half year from and after the firs day of January, 1664, upon the average amount of its notes in circulation, find a duty of one-quarter of one per centum each half year upon the average amount of its capital stock beyond the amount invested in United States bonds.

After prescribing the manner of collecting the tax and affixing a penalty of two hundred dollars amount invested in United States bonds.

After prescribing the manner of collecting the tax and affixing a penalty of two hundred dollars for each default of payment, it is Provided, Thanothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the market value of the shares in any of the said a sociations held by any person or body corporate from being included in the valuation of the personal property of such person or corporation in the assessment of all taxes imposed by or under State authority for State, county, municipal, or other purposes, but not at greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such State, and all the remedies provided by State laws for the collection of such taxes shall be applicable thereto; Provided, such taxes shall be applicable thereto; Provided, also, that nothing in this act shall exempt the real estate of associations from either State, county or municipal taxes to the same extent, according to its value, as other real estate is taxed The Senate then adjourned, finding itself without

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. Mr. Clay (Ky.), the subject of the pay of colored troops still being under consideration, said the property of his constituents had been stolen from their pisnts ions; not only negroes, but stock and everything else. Those who are valuable, are taken Tything else. Those who are valuable, are taken futo the military service, while the useless slaves women and children, are supported at the expense of the government, without a particle of law. The government protects its officers in stealing negroes. He knew it to be true, for he had suffered himself, and of this he would quality in a court of justice. He asked for nothing but what the law and the Constitution gavehim, and when these rights were trampled under foot, he would raise his voice against it. against it.

Mr. Eliot said he understood the gentleman from Kentucky to charge that the government officers have stolen negroes. Did the gentleman say that he had yet to learn that any such statements rest on truth?

Mr. Clay answered, I do!

Mr. E.iot—I think the gentleman would find the proper redress by applying to the government.

Mr. Clay repeated—I know it to be true.

Mr. Eliot denied the statement that negroes have stolen by our officers. Mr. Holman resuming, said a large number of contrabands have for months been receiving rations at the hands of the government in this department.

tions at the hands of the government in this department.

Mr. Eliot said they were paying more to the government than they received by service at the fugitive camp, the proceeds going into the treasury.

Mr. Holman knew the contraband men were employed as teamsters, but how were women and children employed?

Mr. Eliot said there were thirty to fifty thousand dollars standing to the credit of the fund.

Mr. Holman asked the gentleman to refer to some particular record. He understood the contrabands were gathered at Arlington, and again inquired how they were employed?

Mr. Eliot replied, some were employed in farming while women were engaged with sewing machine clothing for the soldiers. A part of the money was appropriated to their support, and the balance was in favor of the Government.

Mr. Clay said that thousands of the contrabands are dying in camp of no diseases ever described or imagined. They are rotting in filth.

Mr. Eliot said it had been his warmest wish that the Freedman's. Bureau should be organized, in order to avoid these very difficulties.

Mr. Clay resuming, said, such mortality was the result of your system. You care no more for a negro than you do for a horse. Yeu are purchasing up these negroes with bounties to save your white men. My patience, he said, is worn out. I would up these negroes with bounties to save your white np these negroes with bounties to save your white men. My patience, he said, is wornout. I would rather be a slaveholder than a robber, stealing all over the country. The system inaugurated is worse than the original system of slavery. More money is required to carry it out than it costs to clothe the slaves in the South.

Mr. Holmani, resuming, asked: Are we prepared to place, by solemn legislation, the black man on the same focung with the white soldier? Gentlemen, you have got the questien to meet. He warned gentlemen not to break down the barriers, and resort to such measures as would not promote the patriotism and morals of the army. The rebellion must be put down by the indomitable will of white men.

the patriotism and morals of the army. The rebellion must be put down by the indomitable will of white men.

Mr. Price said General Jackson, who had the reprintion of a statesman and a Democrat, placed whites and blacks on an equality as to pay and rations. No man who knows the history of the country would dare deny the truth of the statement. This teing the fact, were they to be lectured here to day for doing what Jackson did? No. The good sense and patriotism of the people were as prevalent now as during the war of 1812. The blacks are physically equal to the whites, and this was apparent and well known.

Mr. Stevens, (Pa.) did not see any particular reason for excitement. It was the last convulsive three of the struggle he had seen for the last twenty years of those who dominated this nation, which he never expected to see conquered, but hoped to live to see habdued. He did not reproach those gentlemen for this natural convulsive effort to preserve slavery, which he witnessed to day. The question was whether all soldiers who wear the livery of the Union, and march under its banner in common with the army of the Union, and who expose themselves to battle and death, shall be placed on an equality, or whether we are to keep up an unjust distinction. He despised such a distinction between troops in the day of death and bottle.

Why should they not be paid and clothed alike?

Why should they not be paid and clothed alike? Why should they not be paid and clothed alike? Why should they not for an equal reason make a distinction between soldiers of different nationalities? The colored troops have fought as gallantly and died as freely as their white brethren at Fort Wagner and other places. The gentleman (Mr. Holman) will not dere deny it. Universal history shows they have fought as gallantly and bravely as the white men at their side, and yet this infamous and degrading distinction is to be kept up. Let not the nation for a moment sanction it. Let it not go forth as the opinion of this body that the black and red men are not to be treated like ether men who peril their lives in the country's defence.

men who peril their lives in the country's defence.

Mr. Kelly (Pa.) referred to historical facts that the first blood shed in Massachusetts prior to the battle of Lexington was that of Peter Franciscus, a negro man, who headed the Boston mob; and that the first blood during this rebellion, shed in the streets of Baltimore, was that of a negro named Nicholas Biddle, who was a follower of less than five hundred men. This might be a mere coin idence, but certainly here were two facts which became a body of men who believe all men are created free and equal to bear in mind, and which should do something to remove the prejudice which has cursed us within the last three years. The gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Holman, had told the House negroes never should have enlisted. Did he not know we have now one hundred and thirty thousand negrosoldiers to fight the rebels who are in arms against our brothers and friends?

Esuch opposition could come from no other friends?

ESuch opposition could come from 20 other motive. Among other things, Mr. Kelley alluded to the cheers from white soldiers which greeted the colored troops that recently marched through the streets with Burnside's Corps. The rebels marder our black soldiers. They turn to you and cite you as witnesses of the propriety of their conduct. We say the rebels treat them with cruelty, and yet we reture to give them the equality which their services demand. They cannot fight wilhout pay It was a disgrage to deny them their rights, and will blush with shame.

Mr. Patterson (N. H.) said the recent discrete was considered.

our children who shall peruse this page of history will blush with shame.

Mr. Patterson (N. H.) said the record of Masschusetts was so full of patriouc deeds that she could weil afford to leave New Hampshire the little giory that beloags to her. The first man whose blood was shed in this rebellion, in Baltimore, was enlisted in Masschusetts, but he was a native of New Hampshire, and his remains now repose in Alexandria, in his (Mr. Patterson's) district of that State.

The Speaker sustained the objection.

The Senate's amendments to the Army Appropriation bill were all agreed to, with amendments, including the following:

All persons of color who have been or may be mustered into the military service of the United States, shall receive the same uniform, clothing, arms, equipments, camp equipage, rations, medical and hospital attendance, pay and emoluments, other than bounty, as other soldiers in the regular or volunteer forces of the United States of like arm of the service, from and after the 1st of January, 1864; and that every person of color who shall hereafter be mustered into the service shall receive the same amount of bounty as the President shall order in the different States, or parts of States, not exceeding one hundred dollars:

Any colored person enlisted and mustered into service is a volunteer under the call dated October 7th, 1863, for 300,000 men, who was at the time of enlistment enrolled and subject to daft in the State in which he volunteered, shall receive from the United States the same amount of bounty as was paid white soldiers under the said call, not the United States the same amount of bounty as was paid white soldiers under the said call, not exceeding in any case $100. FURTHER FROM EUROPE.

In the House of Commons, on the 14th instant, Colonel Bartellot moved an amendment to Mr. Gladstone's budget, that a part of the surplus money be applied to the relief of the mail tax instead of the sugar duty. He disclaimed any party object, but, after debate, in which some of the leading Conservatives supported the amendment, it was lost by two hundred and forty-eight majority, and the House agreed to Mr. Gladstone's propositions.
The London Morning Herald says that the game was altogether in the hands of the Conservatives.

They were safe for a majority had they chosen so; but, upon the highest grounds of political faith and disinterested statesmanship, Mr. D'Israeli and his adherents forbore, and the Ministers were rescued.
