CIOSE OF THE BALTIMORE FAIR.

Says the Baltimore Sun of the 2d: Saturday afternoon and Saturday night the Maryland Institute was literally crowded with ladies and gentlemen, all eager to have a last sight of the Fair. The ladies at the various tables, and those in charge of "The New England Kitchen" appeared to be in high glee at the wonderful rapidity with which they were accumulating greenbacks. At seven o'clock in the evening the sales, by anction, of the various articles, left unsold on the tables, commenced. Messrs. Soper, Cannon, Andreon, Thomas and Bennet, regular auctioneers, together with a number of amateur auctioneers, were busily engaged in various parts of the hall, disposing of the articles, and the cries of "going, gone," and the spirited bidding by the audience, all combined to make the time pass pleasantly away. A large amount of articles were disposed of, but there still remains a number on hand unsold, which will be disposed of according to future acotice, to be given by the committee of arrangements. The amount of money realized by the Fair cannot be ascertained for several days. Speeches by Governor Bradford and several other gentlemon, and the "Star Spangled Banner" by the band, were the closing features of the first Christian and Sanitary Fair held in Baltimore.

The New Assembly Rooms were crowded on more.

The New Assembly Rooms were crowded on Saturday night, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, and the audience, by their loud applause, expressed much delight in their admiration of the beautiful living pictures which were presented for the last time. In addition to the programme two tableaux were given by special request. Every costume and scene was of the most faithful and appropriate character. These pleasing entertainments have been attended with great success, and will contribute largely to the proceeds of the Fair.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN—WHAT THE REBELS
THINK OF HIS RE-ELECTION.

[From the Chattanooga Daily Gazette]
Mr. EDITOR: A few days ago I fell in company with a prominent rebel citizen of Chattanooga county, Ga.
The conversation turned upon the probabilities of Lincoln's re-election to the Presidency of the United States; whereupon he remarked with considerable warmth:

Cinitia States; whereign he remarked what considerable warmth:

'If Lincoln is re-elected we may just as well give up the game, for we can in that case have no hope that the peace men of the United States wou'd be able to control the country. Our ALL IS STAKED UPON THE ISSUE; for it is an absolute impossibility for us to hold out another four years. God grant that our fears be not realized. For my own part, I would sooner see the sun plucked from his orbit than to see old Abe re-elected. If we have to return to the hated Union, I would rather submit to any other man than Lincoln."

Thus it appears that the rebs are awaiting the 'sissue' with a faint hope that the good people of the United States will be foolish enough to elect a Copperhead to the Presidency.
