The war correspondents have not made prominent a great number of literary men, though there were several hundreds of them. Two of the list seem to have made a very fair reputation. Mr. B. F. Taylor, of Chicago, a gentleman on the grave side of forty; and among the Eastern correspondents, George Alfred Townsend, originally of this city, but at present identified with New York Mr. Townsend seems to have pleased the people of the western cities very much, with a lecture which he has been delivering, entitled "The Recreations of our Special Correspondent." Our Exchanges come to us with flattering comments, and the youth of the speaker seems to have made his eloquence more effective. A hundred dollars a night and expenses is some recompense even for the hard work of war-correspond-

On a late trip of the steamer Gen. Lytle, between Louisville and Cincinnati, Pietra Calliero, a fruit dealer from Nashville, met with a sudden and singular death. THE SPANISH-CHILIAN WAR.

The Situation Unchanged---The New President of Peru Deposed and Colonel Prado Proclaimed Dictator---War Between Peru and Spain Inevitable---Affairs in Panama and the Interior of Colombia.

[From to-day's New York Herald.]

Later South and Central American news of interest is furnished in our Panama and Callao letters by the steamship Henry Chauncey, which arrived here yesterday, from Aspinwall on the 13th inst. The Chauncey brought to this port over eight hundred and eighty-five thousand dollars in specie. There had been another revolution in Peru, even almost before the late one tion in Peru, even almost before the late one which deposed President Pezet was concluded. Gen. Canseco, leader of the anti-Pezet army, and who, on the flight of the latter from the country, assumed the Presidential office, was himself in turn, before he was snugly seated in the Executive chair, ousted at a meeting held in the public square of Lima, and Col. Prado, another revolutionary chief was declared. another revolutionary chief, was declared President. The ostensible motive of this last revolution, which happily appears to have been consummated without any bloodshed, was the desire on the part of the Peru-viansito co-operate with Chili against the Spaniards, and a fear that Chuseco's government would not gratify their wishes in this respect. It is thought that Peru will now give the Chilians important military and naval aid. Much damage to property had resulted from a late heavy swell in the harbor of Callao.

No material change in the hostile positions towards each other other of the Chilians and Spaniards had taken place up to Nov. 18, the date of our latest advices. The Spanish admiral continued his blockade of the principal old Chilian ports; but the new ones that had been opened by the government. ment, at which no duties were exacted become tolerably well established, and a large business was being transacted at them —so that neither the country nor shippers experienced much inconvenience from the sing of the others. The Spanish admiral thad not bombarded any of the Chilian towns, and it was thought that he had given up the idea of doing so. In the meantime the government of Chili was actively, but secretly, pushing on its war preparations, and wherever on the coast small parties of wherever on the coast small parties of Spaniards had attempted landings they invariably met armed forces and were driven back to their boats. The other South American republics, as well as those of Central America, were comparatively quiet. General Mosquera, the President elect of Columbia, is expected to arrive on the Isthmus in the latter part of this month, on his way to the capital, and apprehensions are entertained that his arrival may be the signal for an outbreak of his partisans in

He has again taken charge of his old business, at No. 804 Chestnu: street. Major McCalla's hat store is supplied profusely with the latest styles of hats and caps, and his mili-tary friends will find him especially attentive to their interests.
