REVENUE OFFICERS IN THE SOUTH .-- A communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, in response to the Senate's reso-lution of the 13th inst., states that the records of the Department do not show that any persons have been appointed to any office not authorized by the existing law, but admits that persons have been appointed to office who have not subscribed to the oath referred to under the customs and revenue laws in the lately insurgent States, but that no salaries had been paid, with one exception. The Secretary says he sought for persons for such offices who could take he eath litterally; but failing to find them he selected those who gave no aid to the rebellion, until the Government of the United States had failed to give them the protection to which they were entitled. He believed that very few persons not belong-ing to one of these two classes are holding positions under this department, and that in most of the Southern States nearly every man fit for a Revenue officer was at some time either engaged in hostilities against the Government of the United States, or holding State or Confederate office, either willingly or unwillingly. He acted upon the presumption that Congress would anodity the oath and not subject the South to the humiliation or the revenue content. to the humiliation, or the revenue system to the odium which would result from the employment of Northern men as tax gatherers. He suggests the absolute necessity of immediate action upon the subject, As valuable services have been rendered, no payments have yet been made for such services, and the safety and efficiency of the revenue system in the South depend upon such a modification.

EFFECT OF MESMERISM.

An Amusing Scene in Court.

QUARTER SESSIONS—Judge Allison.—In the case of A. J. Riley, charged with being accessory to the burning of a stable at Manayunk, the jury rendered a verdict of guilty.

The jurors for the first period of the term To-day was set apart for desertion cases Among those heard this morning was one which created no little merriment. "Professor" Pinkham was charged with deserting his wife. The defendant who is a man of about fifty years of age was in the dock, and when his wife, a lady of about 40 years of age, came forward to be examined, the professor complained that he had no counsel nor money to engage one. He requested the court to assign a member of the bar to take charge of the case. Judge Allison did so. When the wife commenced her testimony, the husband desired to come out of the dock, and be allowed to take a seat near his wife, so that he might be enabled to hear what was said. Mrs. Pinkham at once objected to this, and upon Judge Allison inquiring the reason, she replied: "He is a mesmerizer, and I will not be safe with him near me!"

Judge Allison-Oh, never mind that; we will take care that he does you no harm."

The defendant was then allowed to come forward and take a chair near his wife. She testified that she was married about a year ago at Chicago, after an acquaintance of about one week. Her husband was, she said, originally a carpenter-joiner, but of late years he had become a said, originally a carpenter-joiner, but of late years he had become a "Nazarene," and traveled through the country lecturing on "Phrenology, Anthropology, Magnetism, Clairvoyance and Ethical Science as applied to the Moral, Social and Intellectual Improvement of the Human Family. They resided together for a short time in New York, where the Professor deserted his wife. She followed him to Massachusetts. followed him to Massachusetts, New Hampshire and finally to Philadelphia, and had him arrested while delivering a lecture at the Assembly Building.

During the examination Mrs. Finkham produced a large bundle of papers, to which she frequently referred. From the pile she produced one of the Professor's circulars setting forth the movits of his levels and the produced one of the Professor's circulars. culars, setting forth the merits of his lecture and the benefit to be derived by those attending. The Professor himself was armed with a bundle of equal size, and he too referred to his papers while prompting his attorney on the cross-examination.

It being evident from the testimony that the wise had no domicil in Philadelphia, Judge Allison informed her that she had no Judge Allison informed her that she had no case, and that, therefore, her husband must be discharged. At the same time he recommended the parties to reconcile their difficulties and live together. Mrs. Pinkham expressed her willingness to follow this advice, provided her husband would support her. Both parties now approach

The scene pro-duced considerable merriment among the spectators. Finally, the parties reached the Square, and here Mrs. Pinkham took the arm of her husband. In answer the defendants deny ever receiving anything for the check from Graham & Co.; that the check was given to Graham & Co., without any consideration or value received therefor for the convenience and accommodation of Graham d Co., and upon their promise and agreemen to indemnify the defendants, and the latter are further informed and believe that the plaintiffs have not paid or advanced the amount of said check to said Graham

Edward B. Ketchum, Mr. Van Loan and other witnesses were examined as to the check, when the case was adjourned to this morning.

A WARNING TO YOUNG MEN.-The Jack. son (Mich.) Citizen tells a good story of a young man in that city who had been in the habit of visiting the residence of a widowed lady, who had a daughter "passing fair," The young man was assiduous in his attentions, and was a constant visitor, This no-tice awoke in the young lady's heart the tender passion, and in her dreams she imagined that she should become the wife of her Adonis. Matters kept on in the same old way. The young man continued his marked attentions, and people began to whisper among themselves: "A match, whisper among themselves: "A match, sure!" while knowing ones, with a solemn toss of the head; would remark, "What did I tell you? The young man went out to his supposed charmer's house the other evening, for the purpose of taking tea. During the meal, the mother of the girl asked, "When are you and — to be married?" The young man leaned back in the chair and coolly remarked that he had no idea of marrying anybody and that he had no idea of marrying anybody, and that he and the daughter were only friends. He said he supposed she understood it so all the time. The young lady said not a word, but rose up and seized the teapot, which was filled with hot tea, took off the lid, and threw its boiling contents into his face, scalding him severely and leaving an ugly mark. She then furiously ordered him out of her sight. "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." is an old saying, and this young man can attest to its truth.

SCARCITY OF HOUSES.—New England seems to be suffering like Philadelphia, if we may judge from the following: But few have been built in New England during the past four years of war and high prices, and the result is a general scarcity, which has become so pressing that the pro-curement of a decent domicil by the home less is almost an impossibility. During the past spring and summer hundreds of heads of families made pilgrimages into the suburbs in the vain hope of obtaining a residence by lease or purchase, but in most cases they were doomed to disappointment. We do not believe that within a range of twenty miles of Boston there are more than fifty houses for sale or rent, and to obtain even these it would be necessary to pay a large advance upon former prices. This scarcity will, by the next spring, become so severe as to require the erection of a large number of dwellings, even if the present high cost of building should continue to heavest.

CITY BULLETIN.

SALOON.—The building of the Union Volun-teer Refreshment Saloon was disposed of yesterday at auction, operations having been closed on the 1st inst. The proceeds of the sale are to be devoted to the erection of a monument over the remains of about sixty soldiers who died in the hospital attached to the saloon during the war. This is very commendable. From the time of the opening of the saloon on the 17th of May 1861, until its final closing on the first of the present month, the Committee have labored ardently and faithfully for the entertainment of the base fellower. tertainment of the brave fellows who were on their way to figt for the Union. At all times of the night and day this work was performed from purely patriotic motives, and an earnest desire to afford comfort to the soldiers who were about to risk their lives for their country, or who were re-turning after many hard-fought battles. The Committee certainly deserve the thanks of the community for the satisfactory manner in which the duties have been performed, and the thousands of men who were provided with meals by the ladies and gen-tlemen will ever hold them in grateful re-

EALSE ALARM.—This morning about 24 o'clock an alarm of fire was sounded from box No. 17, located at the United States Arsenal at Gray's Ferry. The fire department of the First and Second District responded promptly to the alarm, but no fire could be found. The firemen were justly indignant at having been called out upon such a cold night and when the roads were in such a rough condition, without any cause. The watchman at the Arsenal states that he gave the alarm at the Arsena states that he gave the alarm at the request of a man wearing a police uniform, with belt and club, but no badge. The policemen on that and adjoin-ing beats were brought before the watch-man, but he could not identify any of them. The affair is under investigation by Fire Marshal Blackburn and Capt. John Craig, the commandant at the Arsenal.

A DASTARDLY ACT.-An attempt was made a night or two since to throw from the track, the through train which leaves the city at 53 o'clock P. M. for Germantown. A rail braced with ties was placed across the track on a curve just below Wayne Station. A young man, residing at Nicetown, who was returning home from his work, observed the obstruction and attempted to remove it but was stoned and compelled to flee for his life. He ran down the road to a telegraph station over the Reading Railroad, where he obtained a lantern with which he succeeded in stop ping the train, which came thundering along a few minutes afterwards. The timely discovery of this dastardly act no doubt prevented a frightful loss of life.

FIRE.—About eleven o'clock last night slight fire occurred at the Victoria Coal Oil works, at Washington and Twentieth streets, belonging to Logan & Lloyd. It seems that while Edward McDermott, a seems that while Edward McDermott, a night distiller, was at work some oil escaped from the still and blazed up. For a short time a serious conflagration was threatened, but Mr. McDermott through great exertions and by throwing dirt and mud upon the flames, succeeded in ex-tinguishing them. He was slightly burned in his efforts to subdue the fire. A policeman who observed the threatening aspect of the fire gave the alarm, but fortunately the services of the firemen were not re

THE WATER DEPARTMENT.-The bill making the annual appropriation to the Water Department, falled to get through City Councils last evening, owing to a disagreement between the two Chambers in regard to certain members. The commit-tee of Conference, to which the matter was referred, agreed upon the bill this morning. The total amount of the appropriation is $349,075. This is a decrease of about $20,000 from the last annual appropriation and a reduction of $39,200 from the original esti-mates. The revenue of the department has increased $64,000 over the receipts of last

STRANGE STORY.-A few nights ago, says STRANGE STORY.—A lew nignts ago, says the New Albany (Ind.) Commercial, a widow lady who lives at the Shoals, in Martin county, was applied to at night by a soldier, who desired to stop over night. She was loth to admit him, but finally consented with the understanding that she should lock him into his own room, and keep the lock him into his own room, and keep the lock with marking. During the night she key until morning. During the night she was aroused by three ruffians, who demanded $300, which she had received from a son who had but lately been discharged from the army, and, in the event of her refusal, threatened to burn her dwelling. She promised to get the money and bring it down to the villains, at the door, where they agreed to wait for it, and went immediately o the stranger's room, roused him, and told the situation of things, and asked his advice. He told her to take the money down vice. He told her to take the money down as agreed on, light a lamp that he might see through the door, and, as she gave the money, to step out of the way, so that he could get a fair shot at the recipients. She obeyed instructions, and immediately after getting hold of the money the fellow fell, while the other two, before they could recover from their astonishment, were served in like manner, and the whole three were thus bagged. On examination, one of the parties proved to be a brother-in-law of he parties proved to be a hrother-in-law the widow, and the others near neighbors.

After chatting a short time he excused himself on the plea of needing air, feeling faint, &c., and walked out towards stables. In a short time after he was attacked as stated, and carried into the house. At last accounts he was slightly improving in his condition, although still unable to communicate intelligibly.
