A Speech by General Hancock. At the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims, celebrated in New York, Major General W.S. Hancock made a speech. The

The Army and Navy of the United States -From whatever quarter the blow may come, they will be swift to vindicate, against foreign enemies, the honor which their arms have wrested from domestic General Hancock said: It is a matter of sincere gratification to me that I am enabled to be present at this celebration of the anniversary of the Landing of the Pilgrims. No events in our history have a stronger interest to me than those which inspired that band of colonists to seek an asylum on our shores, and those which resulted from their movements after which resulted from their movements after they landed on Plymouth Rock and thus established the birthday of New England, on the 22d day of December, 1620. Miles Standish and his men soon impressed upon the page of history that character for the soldiers of New England, which to the present day, as we have lately had abundant evidence to confirm, has proven characteristic of that people. Loving the pursuits of peace rather than the turmoil of war, they nevertheless are ever ready to engage in a cause which they deem just, for the honor of the country, and for the great interests of civilization.

During the great rebellion, which now appears to be practically ended, no soldiers fought with mere constancy, courage, or fought with mere constancy, courage, or earnestness of purpose, than those of New England. And since the war has closed, none have been more ready than they to put aside their arms, and resume the pursuits of civil life. With that people war is not a passion, but is resorted to by them as a final arbitrament, only when reason and all other honorable means have failed.

In view of the recent reduction of our armies, the present indications are that our country will soon not be in a state of preparation for hostilities of magnitude, so far as the organization of troops on a war foot-ing is concerned; but it must not be forgotten that we have armies among the people, whose members are ready at their country call to put on the armor they have just laid aside, and that we have officers and soldiers aside, and that we have officers and soldiers who have had more experience in modern warfare than those of any other nation.

So long as New England has such men as Terry, Barlow, Miles, Potter, Stannard, Mower and Ames, and many other young Generals of like great merit and renown, ahe need not fear that during their generation her troops may not be ably led. The presence of such men in battle will be a power which cannot fail to inspire their power which cannot fail to inspire their troops with ambition and to insure victory to their arms. As this characteristic was, for the most part, lost to us in the last great contest, particularly in its earliest days, I desire to impress upon you the importance of cherishing such men for the future honor and glory of the country.

Much credit has been given the army, and praises without stint have been accorded by had many Generals, among whom the honor has been divided, and whose fame will live in more enduring forms than in wreaths of laurel; but during the period of our greatest perils we have had but one Minister of War, and during his administration substantial victories crowned our arms; one who has been unequaled in furnishing the means of war and placing them in the hands of our Generals; one who rivaled Carnot in all that is accorded to him for preparation, and one who never faltered, however dark the hour And shall we not also honor him? I know him to be generous and mindful of faithful services. Among the people I predict an increasing tide of popularity in his favor, and that he will be one of those whom the country will most delight to honor. I offer the following sentiment:

Ethern M. Survices Survey of Way.

Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War-A model for a War Minister in momentous times; wise, firm, fruitful of resources, patriotic and incorruptible. To him a nation's gratitude is due.

HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.-The 30th anniversary of this Society was celebrated on Sunday evening, in Rev. Dr. Wylie's church, Broad street, below Spruce. The annual report was read. It states that the year of the Society ends with and in-cludes Dec. 15, 1865, during which time the missionaries made to the abodes of those missionaries made to the abodes of those needing assistance 2,423 visits, affording relief and instruction to 1,249 families, distributing among them, 1,045 orders for coal (above 400 tons), 448 orders for groceries, 43 pair of shoes, and 200 articles of clothing, new and old. Of those who applied for aid, 41 proved unworthy of it, and 13 could not be found.

Eighty-eight religious meetings were held at various places, and were more or less in-teresting in their character. Forty-five temperance meetings were also held, and thirty persons were persuaded to sign the pledge. sign the piecge.

Twenty-four copies of the Holy Scriptures were furnished to as many persons desiring to obtain them. Thirty-five hundred pages of religious tracts were distributed, and 20 children were placed in Sabbath Schools. Employment, temporary and permanent, was secured for two hundred adults, and good and permanent homes in the country were obtained for 9 children, and a home in

EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE

other articles requiring a sieve. STATE AND COUNTY Rights for Sale.

It is one of the most useful inventions for domestic use ever offered to the public. The flour is sifted in one-quarter the time (and much better than by any other process) by putting the flour, in the top of the Sifter, then, by turning the crank; the flour passes through the sieve with great rapidity. Clean, very fine and light. This Sifter has no India rubber rollers to grind up the dirt, such as bugs, worms, files, dc., but slits all articles and leaves the dirt remaining in the sieve; the Sifter is made of tin, is very neat and easy to keep clean. It is the only Sifter now in use that gives SATISFACTION. Every Sifter is warrant ed to give satisfaction. Be sure and ask for Spencer's Patent Tin Sifter.
