HABRISHURG Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1886—SENATE.—The Senate met at three o'clock P. M., two Senators only being absent.—The proceedings were opened with a prayer by the Rev J. Walker Juckson.—The hew members were then sworn into office. Three new members were then sworn into office. Three new Democratic Senators, namely, Messra, Wallace, Glatz and Duncan, offered a protest against being sworn in by Speaker Fleming, who they alleged, instead of holding over from last term, should be re-elected at the opening of the present term before being competent to administer the oath to new members. The Speaker rejected the protest on the ground that the same question had been decided in former years against similar protestants. The Democrats were then sworn in. An Pennsylvania Legislature. te administer the oath to new members. The Speaker rejected the protest, on te groons; that the aame question had been decided in former years against similar protestants. The Democrise were then sworn in. An election was held for Speaker, which resulted in the choice of David Fleming, of Bauphin county, by a vote of 20 against a vote of 11 for William Hopkins, of Washington county. The Speaker was then conducted to the chir, and he delivered the following address, after which the Senate adjourned:

SENATORS:—I am deeply sensible of the high honor you have conferred upon me by this renewed manifestation of your confidence and favor, for which please accept my most sindere accinoviedments. I am aware of the difficulties and responsibilities which belong to the position, and easer upon its which belong to the position, and easer upon its duties not without some mespirings at our subjust to fill it with that success which has characterized the fill it with that success which has characterized the sonate to second my efforts to maintain order and enforce the rules, I should not undertake it. For without these success is impossible. But knowing the material of which the Senate is composed. I feel that I shall be my earnest endeavor courteously, but irmly and impartially to discharge the dutes of the office.

I shall, no doubt, have frequent occasion to draw upon your generous indulgence to balance the errors and shortcomings which, in the hurry of business, may be chargeable to my account; and when such occasions arise, I feel assured that the craits will be doly nonored.

I need not remind this Senate that upon a proper observance of the rules depends the individual comfort of the members, as well as the dignity of the body, and that without order it is impossible properly consider; and despatch; the business brought before us.

body, and that without other in impositions the position of consider; and; despatch; the husiness brought; before us.

In the heat of debate there is often strong temptation to impugn the motives of an opponent, instead of exposing the failagy of his arguments—or the supposed-absurdity of his propositions. The rule which prohibits this is one of the most salutary in the code, for its violation invariably leads to recrimination, anary feelings and disorder. I am happy to know, however, that the members of this Senate have always been as free from the breach of that rule as those of any similar body in the land. It is, therefore, only for the purpose of preserving untarnished the high character which this Senate has uniformly maintained that I remind you at the outset, of the importance of never allowing this floodgate of strife and disorder—to be opened upon us, as we have sometimes, seen it elsewhere.

pose of preserving untarnished the figh character which this Senate has uniformly maintained that I remind you at the outset, of the importance of never allowing this floodgate of, strile and disorder, to opened upon us, as we have sometimes, seen it elsewhere.

Before taking my seat, permit me to congratulate you and the people of this great Commonwealth, whom we unitedly represent pon the happy change in the condition of the country, which has taken place since our last adjournment. Then treason was still defiant, the rebel hosts still confronted the veteran armies of the Union. The horridoprisons of our traitorous fees still inclosed the emacisted and dying bodies of thousands of our brave soldiers, whilst the Rebel chief sat in his besieged capital, issuing his haught, mandate for the murder of our people.

But scarcely had you, Senators who were here last session, reached your homes, "ere the glad news of Lee's surrender was borne upon the wings of the lightning to every corner of the Union, and loy and gladness filled every patriot heart. Then swift upon the heels of this glorious news came the sad tidings of the assassination of the great and good Lincoln. It was the last and crowning act of the drama of hell born rebellion. Joy for a time was turned into mourning. All over the land men sat in mute astonishment, almost paralyzed and sad, as if some dear one had been snatched from their own hearthstones. The people mention of their martyred President, and there, as well as all along the route of the funeral cortege, thousands of patriotic hearts flocked to do honor to the memory of their martyred President, and to drop a tear beside his honored corse.

But his work was done. He has gone to his rest and his reward, and his name is immortal.

Events followed events in such rapid succession that the retrospect seems like the bewilderment of a dream. But now the noise of battle is hushad; the tread of martial hosts mustering for the field of surfe is no more heard in the land. The call for volunteers to fill plate the result of the war. It was commenced by traitors to sever the Union in order to save and perpetuate slavery, which was to be its corner-stone. For more than a year President Lincoln and the Government held out to the rebels the olivebranch of peace; on condition that they would lay down their arms and return to the Union, promising them full enjoyment and even new guarantees for their "peculiar institution." But they spurned the offer. mistaking the magnanicalty of the Government for weakness, thus verifying the heathen proverb, that "whom the Gods wish to destroy, they first make mad." So anxious was the Government and the people of the United States to preserve the Union and save the effusion of blood, that Congress solemnly declared by resolution, and the President proclaimed under the great seal of the mation, that if the rebels would lay down their arms, slavery should not be disturbed. solemnly declared by resolution that if the rebels would lay down their arms, slavery should not be disturbed.

But God, who rules among the nations of the earth, would not ratify this unholy compact, but so left our enemies to follow their own evil councils, and to glory in their shame even unto madness, and so inspired our rulers with wisdom, and our brave soldiers with courage, that greater things, have been done by us, and for us, than the most sanguine dared to expect at the commencement of the struggle. And now, not only is the Union restored, and the Ordinance of Secession repealed, but slavery, that source of all our woes, is forever abolished; not only by proclamation of the Executive, but according to the indisputable terms of the Constitution; itself. And now, indeed, can the great bell of independence truly proclaim "liberty throughout all the land, to all the inabilituals thereof" But this mighty struggle has cost us the lives of many thousands of our bravest and best sons. Many have returned maimed and crippled for life. For these, and the widows and erphans of those who have fallen, our nation must provide. But we owe a debt of gratified to all the brave men who periled their lives in defence of our country which never can be fully paid. The glorious record of heroism which llumes the Pennsylvania page of the history of this war will stand unrivaled by that of any of her sisters. Under the lead of her self-sacrificing and most efficient Governor, our good old Commonwealth has done her whole duty to the nation, and stands now unrivated in resources and with credit still unimpaired.

Let us, then, in the discharge of our duties here, adopt such measures as will tend by economy to lessen the burdens of taxation which this war has induced, taking care to foster and encourage the industrial interests of our people, and by developing the vast resources of this Commonwealth, provide means for the payment of our taxes, and by a wise discrimination seek to equalize the burdens which have been unavoidably the entire nation.

Permit me again to tender you my hearty thanks for the honor you have done me, and to express the hope that we may have a pleasant session, and at its close all be able to say we have done our duty faithfully and successful Some unimportant modifications, were mode in the rules of the House; a committee was appointed to contract for the publication of a Legislative Record: the daily sessions were ordered to continue from 11 o'clock A. New York, January 2d.—Captain Greenman, of the lil fated steamer-Constitution, arrived here to night and gives the following statement:

Left Eavannah December 23d, with a cargo of seven hundred and twenty bales of cotton, a crew of thirty-three men, ten cabin and threesterage passengers, and three men found stowed away after leaving.

On the 28th, at 2 A. M., the ship struct on the outer shoals of Cape Lookout, land in four hours was full of water. An unsuccessful effort was made to get her off, and after remaining on board the wreck until it was hought she would go to pieces the first small boat was launched, which immediately filled and broke 'adrift. The crew at the same time attempted to launch the other boats, but these were stove in by the sea. The ship was breaking up very fast, and the only chance now left was by clinging to pieces of the wreck or cotton bales.

At 4 A. M. on the 27th, the whole side fell in, with a large number of the crew and passengers, who were thrown into the sea. The next sea carried away the forecastle, on which I and several others were standing. I reached a ratt on which were the second mate and steward.

At daylight, on the 28th, we saw two rafts with mea

MINING COMPANIES. PROSPECTUS

CARSON GOLD MINING COMPANY,

NORTH CAROLINA.

The Land of this Company consists of 120 ACRES in Mecklenberg county, North Carolina, 3½ miles from the town of Charlotte, on a branch of Sugar Creek, which stream furnishes gook water power for grinding he ores. This Mine was first opened in 1838 by a man named Carson, who worked it successfully for a num-ber of, years. He died in the town of Charlotte, in 1846, worth over half a million dollars.

Two shafts have been sunk on this property, one of them so feet, the other 50 feet, on different velus averaging from two to three feet. In thickness, which reins still continue on down increasing in width and chness. These shafts are in good order, and ore can richness. These shatts are in good order, and the can be readily taken out at any time. Other veins have been discovered on this property, and tested and proved to be very rich in gold. The ores of this mine are known as the brown ore, and very rich, yielding readily $10 per bushel. This is believed to be one of the best and ost certain mines in the State, on account of the abundance and quality of the ore, and ease in which it is obtained and reduced. This property has been worked by Major Z. A. Grier from 1840 to the breaking out of the war. This Company have purchased this property, and intend to erect machinery and put the nines in immediate operation. The many advantages of this mine over the mines of Colorado and Nevada can hardly be estimated. It is more readily reached, and has abundance of fuel, with cheap labor. It, can be worked all the year, and not, as in the case of Colorado and Nevada, be compelled to lie idle for three or four months in consequence of the severity of the

This mine baving been worked for a long time proved to be a rich paying one. We do not, therefore have to incur the risk there is in an undeveloped proerty, but can count on large and immediate returns n the investments. Having an ore that readily yields $10 per bushel, some estimate can be made of the value of this property. With the present imperfect system of mining in this locality, and absence of pro-per machinery, ten tons of this ore can be taken out daily from every shaft opened. Estimating, say 15 bushels to the ton, the daily yield will be $1,500 from one shart, allowing $300 per day for expenses. The net product will be $1,200 per day; counting 300 working lays to the year, the yearly proceeds will be $360,000, which yield can be largely increased by extending the works. This is considered a very low estimate of the capacity of this mine by experienced miners of that locality. The Assayer of the United States Mint at Charlotte, in speaking of this property, says it has few equals in productiveness in that country, and with proper management and machinery the above pro-duct can be doubled.
