Mr. Morrill (Me.) from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported a bill to regulate the elective franchise in the District. It is the same as recently presented, with the provision requiring the elector to be able to read the Constitution in the English langnage and to write his name stricken out. At one o'clock the Senate went into Executive session, and soon after adjourned till Monday.

House.—A message was received from the President of the United States enclosing a letter from Messrs. Evans and Chaffee Senators elect from Colorado, together with accompanying documents on the subject of the organization of that State. The President has declined to issue his proclamation declaring the admission of Colorado as a State into the Union, and submitting the subject for the further action of Congress. The message and documents were referred to the Committee on Territories.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill to extend suffrage to the negroes of the District of Columbia, by striking from all laws and ordinances the word "white."

Mr. Davis (N. Y.) said thai under certain restrictions he was not opposed to extend-ing the elective franchise in the District of Columbia, but he remembered that in 1860 the number of colored persons in the District was 14,000, and in 1862, after the passage of the emancipation act, refugees came hither from Virginia and Maryland, until nearly thirty-five thousand were incorporated with the community. This accession was from the fields and plantations generated with the community of the community. rally, who had known little or nothing of civilization excepting the lash of the master. He therefore submitted whether it was generous, wise and expedient that such a large number of new residents should pos-sess the right of unqualified suffrage. In his honest judgment it would be improper. his honest judgment it would be improper to confer this right until intelligence shall be enforced or inspired in this class. He believed the black man was entitled to citizenship, and therefore entitled to protection; and it was right to extend the shield of the government over him as over the proudest grandee of the land. But citizenship was thing and the right of suffrage another Under all these circumstances he was un-willing that unrestricted suffrage should be given to the black man, as proposed by the nding bill. Mr. Chanler (N. Y.) expressed his views upon the subject. Suffrage once established here, the principle must hereafter include all the negro race throughout the United States. This is a white man's government and the attempt of Congress to govern the people of the District of Columbia by such radical measures as those now pending was contrary to the Constitution of the United States and the spirit of the Designation of the United States and the spirit of the Designation of the United States and the spirit of the Designation of the United States and the spirit of the Designation of the United States and the spirit of the Declaration o of the Land Office at Springfield, Illinois.

American Independence. The American sovereign his the white working man, who acknowledges no master; but the bill proposed to give suffrage and a part in the gov-ernment to the subjects of the dead King Cotton, who was buried by the white volun-teer forces. The Union is the emblem of teer forces. The Union is the emblem of the triumph of the white race, and should never be surrendered to the black. The arrogant majority of the House by this bill were enacting the same outrage which alienated the colonies from the mother country, and nullifying the express will of the people of the District of Columbia, who had so emphatically declared against negro had so emphatically declared against negro suffrage. He had not yet heard the ques-tion answered what gain it would be to the people of the United States to extend the elective franchise to the negro here or elsewhere. There was no particular necessity for extending it at this particular time in the District and he appropriated from the this District, and he apprehended from the passage of the bill injurious effects on immigration, as well as the prosperity of the ountry.

Mr. Bingham noticed a remark of Mr. Chanler, that those only are entitled to liberty who themselves strike the blow, and said a blush of shame should have come on the gentleman's cheek when he uttered it. It should not be fergotten that General McClellan, when commanding our armies McClellan, when commanding our armies in Virginia, issued a proclamation notifying the insurgents that if any of their slaves should rise in revolt, and struck for their liberty, he would crush them with his iron hand and his whole military force, and in view of this fact, the gentleman reproached the negroes because they did not strike for their freedom, traitors being on one side of them and McClellan on the other. them, and McClellan on the other.

Mr. Chanler replied that his argument was not to show that negroes were incapa-ble of the bloodiest deeds, but that no re-cord of the black race showed their capacity for self-government, and that they never struck a blow for freedom and maintained it. Mr. Bingham, in reply, said the negro was the only race that ever hewed its way out of chattle slavery to liberty without the aid of any other. When the revolt in this countries in the state of the slavery to be a superior of the slavery to be a superior of the slavery to be slavery to be superior of the slavery to be slavery to be superior of the slavery to be slavery to try broke cut the blacks numbered only onesixth of the entire people, but notwithstanding they had for generations been kept in the sad and miserable condition of slavery, when the words "liberty and emancipawhen the words "hiberty and emancipation" ran along the line, the race as one man responded, and 130,000 of them arrayed themselves under the banner of the republic, fought bravely and firmly, and helped to secure the final victory. He also alluded to the process of the process of the process in Hartingon. to the success of the negroes in Hayti, now represented near this government.

Mr. Chanler, in conclusion, argued that negroes are a race to be kept under. They listened to McClellan's proclamation and crouched. They were unwilling to assert their independence at the risk of their lives.

Grinnell (Iowa) noticed the remark of Mr. Chanler, that the negroes were as helpless as when they were in the wilds of Africa. Now, this was a slander, for they had maintained themselves and borne their masters on their backs for a century.

Mr. Grinnell alluded to the military service of the blacks during the late war, and their capacity for improvement, citing in the latter view the authority of Jefferson, Dr. Rush and Edward Everett. As to his own State of Iowa, out of the 950 subject to military duty, 750 went into the army. He declared that no ancient or modern nation, either for defence or conquest, had enlisted so large a per cent of the race. He cited An drew Johnson as the man to lead the col ored race to the promised Cauaan, and he (Mr. Grinnell) would give him a ballot to defend him against the Pharaohs. He said while he was a resident of New York he was accosted handreds of times by white meudi-cants, while in the District of Columbia he had never been approached for alms by a black pauper.

In advocating the pending bill, he contended that the negroes had earned the right of ballot by their use of the bullet during SEC. 8 prescribes punishment for sub- the late war. The blacks throughout the contest were faithful, while many whites in this District sympathized with the rebellion, and hundreds of them went south to assist n it. He would never leave as a heritage to his children the shame that he preferre white rebel to a loyal black man. By passing this bill the House would inaugurate the policy that justice is the best safe-rate the policy that justice is the best sate-guard to civil society.

The House, without taking any question, adjourned till Monday.

"I transmit berewith a communication addressed to me by Messrs. John Evans and J. B. Chaffee, as United States Senators elect from the State of Colorado, together with the accompanying documents. Under authority of the act of Congress approved the 21st day of March, 1864, the people of Colorado, through a convention, formed a con stitution making provision for a State government, which, when submitted to the qualified voters of the territory, was rejected. In the summer of 1865, a second convention was called by the Executive Committee of the several political parties in the territory, which assembled at Denver on the 8th day of August, 1865. On the 12th of that month this convention adopted a State constitution, which was submitted to the people on the 5th of September, 1865. and ratified by a majority of 155 of the qualified voters. The proceedings in the second instance for the formation of a State government having been different in time and mode from those specified in the act of March 21st, 1864, I have declined to issue the proclamation for which provision is made in the fifth section of the law, and therefore submit the question for the coasultation and further action of Congress.
