NATIONAL BANK OF GERMANTOWN, PHILADELPHIA.

As a fleeting of the Directors of this Bank, held January 15, 1866, the following resolutions were unanimous. It allowed, that the Directors of the National Bank of Germantown, in view of the voluntary withdrawal of CHARLES MAGARGE, Esq., from the Presidency of this institution, take this method of expressing their regret that motives exclusively of personal interest have determined him to retire from the position which he has filled with so much advantage to the interest of the Bank, and so much credit and honor to himself. Ever courteous and affable in his intercourse with the members of the Board individually, he has presided over its financial dispositions in periods of great mometary embarrassment, with signal ability and success: he retires from this Board as an officer distinguished for sagacity, energy, and unvarying integrity, and bears with him the bigh esteem and respect of those so long and satisfactorily associated with him.

Exolved, That the Directors of this Bank regard the circumstance that Mr. Magarge retains his seat at their Board with great satisfaction; they interpret it as an evidence that the cordial relations hitherto existing will be maintained, as an earnest of future advantages to inure to the institution by reason of his long and varied experience in financial combinations.

Exolved, That the foregoing resolutions be published, and that the Secretary be requested to transmit a copy of the same to Mr. Magarge.

GEORGE V. BROOKS. Art-Notes. Edmund Lewis has recently completed two large pictures in his own familiar vein, either of which would illuminate a room by the body of light in it. One represents the Valley of the Wyoming: through the midst of the composition strays the brimming Susquehanna, with prosperous fields swelling up from its borders on every hand and lifting into hills; an island lies in the middle of the picture, rounded like the back of a camel, and shaggy with the deepest foliage: two fine streams of light blue smoke wander off from it and dissolve in the hot air, giving the only indication of human presence. The sky is full of the flat cirro-cumuli of summer. Everything basks in the deepest, most grateful peace. The other picture is more stimulating: in the left foreground, from a pallette loaded with every gorgeous color, the artist has painted a grove of ancient trees hung with all the decorations of the American autumn. Their fantastic boughs curl through masses of the riches hues, and shed rainbow drops upon the ground beneath. Just beyond spreads the broad Allegheny, quiet as a lake, and holding in its depths the misty heavens of October; on its further side rise ranges of abrupt hills, mantled with the wilderness down to the water's edge, and detaining among their higher ledges the drifts of morning cloud, which drag upward through the dewy defiles in every caprice of form and pearly change of color. This picture Mr. Lewis calls 'Morning on the Alleghany." Over both compositions the glowing hand of the artist has moved with all the graceful ease of long practice, setting on every inch of the ample cloth the precise touch that was needed then and there. Mr. Lewis certainly paints with masterly facility, but we think he has arrived at the point where an artist should begin to examine himself with some apprehension. It is, perhaps, time to fear, when we are able to repeat, with perfect ease and skill, some one master-idea whose inception dates back to a moment of enthusiasm long ago. It is by laying himself open to new enthusiasms, and not by exhausting with endless repetition the established and fovorite idea, that a landscape-artist keeps his eye alert to the continual confidences of nature. We have ventured just to say this, in the kindest spirit and in the serene knowledge that nobody reads the didactic half of a paragraph. It would take much harder Lewis holds in the ranks of his admirers.

words to shake the fortunate position Mr. Mr. George C. Lambdin is still enamored of the camp, and finds with singular adaptability those phases of soldier-life which touch upon his own region of sentiment and romance. In two small color-poems he has just been uttering a slightly new reading of an old thought. First, Mr. Lambdin's own pair of lovers-those perennial young persons, still young and still enamored—straythrough arching boughs, with every air of being well at home and thoroughly comfortable; then, in the companion-picture, the better half of that soft pair is far away, quite sunk beneath the horizon, and the youth is seen alone in camp, sitting near his tent-door, in Booth's first attitude as Hamlet. His inward feelings have soaked quite through, and made two shades deeper the ordinary army-blue he wears. Aladdin's palace was incomplete without the roc's egg.

and this small picture, graceful as it is, just life alone will be the limit of his sojourn this morning. Strong hopes of her recovery needs one more Tennysonian touch; the eflective warrior should have in his hand a blue-and-gold edition of the "Princess," open at the song, "Thy voice is heard through rolling drums."

JEFF. DAVIS.

HIS FRIENDS IN TROUBLE.

All Employes of the Government and Others Formerly in the Rebel Service Ordered from Fortress Monroe and Its Precincts.

They Are Marched Away Under Guard.

[Correspondence of the N. Y. Herald.] FORTRESS MONROE, January 15, 1866. A new and perhaps the most exciting fea ture in the Jeff. Davis rescue excitement thus far has just presented itself, and a regular bombshell it has proved to be—a solid shot, spherical case, schrapnel and grape and canister combined. It is not to be wondered at. Its effects have come home to the bosoms and hearts of many unanticipative of, and therefore wholly un prepared for, this dropping in among them of such an explosive projectile. Casting aside metaphorical mysticism and coming down to plain matter of fact, the whole story sums itself up briefly in this: Major General Miles, commanding the fort and district, yesterday received an order from the Secretary of War, directing the immediate discharge of all government employes formerly in the rebel service, and to see to it that they speedily render themselves invisi-ble hereabout. The order went a step further than this. Against all persons in private business or employ, or found in any capacity within the precincts of the point, who had done the confederacy service in the days of its struggling revolt, this ban of ofostracism was likewise directed. Of course the first thing was to find how many would come under this order. While the heads of the Engineer, Ordnance, Quartermaster and Commissary Departments were making out their list of employes once in the rebel service, and making their own verbal explanations to the commanding general, stores, shops, boarding and lodging houses were being searched for quondam bearers of Confederate muskets and wearers of Confederate gray.

Among all the departments about twentyof these came from the Ordnance Department. At the head of this gang was a clerk in one of the workshops, a defiant youngster, who has made himself very connicuous by devoted persistence in wearing his rebel uniform. Among the throng was also a son of the Rev. Dr. Chivis, Post Chaplain here for a good many years past. He was in the Tredegar Iron Works at Richmond during the early part of the war and a member of the Tredegar Guard. But, for all this, his father says that he never fired a gun against a Union soldier, and is as firmly loyal to-day as the most loyal man in the country. Included in the list is, I am told, one obtaining his situation here by a special written applica-tion of Lieutenant General Grant. It is likely the order may prove severe and un-iust upon some; but it made no exceptions, and had to be carried out to the letter. Some are married and have families here It is upon this class especially the order proves the hardest. Most are young men, and they assume a careless indifference at being sent away.

Not particularly comforting or flattering was the mode of departure meted out to was the mode of departure meter out to these whilom shining lights of the con-fideracy. A mounted guard from the fort acted as their escort. They were marched together across Mill Crock bridge, and hence to Hampton, from which place they are to find their way to remote regions elsewhere with the utmost possible despatch. The search outside the government department workshops was not very remu-nerative. A store—where Arnold, one of Lincoln assassination conspirators, was for merly employed—it was thought would suffer in its clerical force by this order; but it so happens that the store has recently changed proprietors, and its present clerks are all loyal. Only two were gathered up outside. One of these was the agent of the National Express, opening his office here only a few days since. This gentleman oined in the march to Hampton; but sub equently took steamer to Richmond, where he was doubtless going to report to the ex-rebel General Johnston, President of his company, for instructions in the premises. An order supplementary to the one above mentioned has been issued. This latter order prohibits the employment within the s grounds in future of any one serving the rebels in any capacity during the war, and also forbids allowing any such to land here.

described have been issued. Foremost the politic and palpable object is to throw addi-tional hindrance in the way to carrying to successful end the alleged plot to rescue Jeff. Davis from prison. If such plot exists the easy way to carry it out is through help from within the Fortress, through the aid of traitors in the camp. To weed out all such possible traitors in or about the fort was the obvious design of the first order, and that of the second to prevent any future footbold being gained here by any future foothold being gained here by any part of the conspirators. It is not unlikely that before the thing is through with there will be more weeding still to be done, and most thorough searching of records and ante-cedents. As the case stands those who would rescue Davis must bravely face the music, and submit themselves a sacrifice as cheerfully as that far-famed band at the renowned gates at Thebes. There has been no let up yet in search of all vessels coming into port, and watching their movements after their arrival. It still continues an unremunerative undertaking at least as regards finding any one upon whom sufficient suspicion can attach warranting an arrest.

This rumor of a plot to rescue Jeff Davis. had, I am told, its origin in Washington. No one here feels the slightest apprehension of danger from the probable carrying out of any such plot. I very much fear that if Jeff Davis has to stay in prison until he is rescued through successful storming of the fort by his friends, the limit of his natural Washington, Jan. 16, 1866.—Gen, Miles, commanding at Fortress Monroe, has re-ceived orders to remove the present com-mander of the arsenal at that place. His having employed a number of late rebels as laborers in the arsenal gave rise to a suspi-cion that an attempt to liberate Jeff. Davis was premeditated and has cause his remov-al. No overt act is alleged to have been SNOWBALLING TO BE STOPPED .- Snowballing is a very fine amusement for juve-niles, but to be pelted in the face, and to have one's hat caved in by balls of ice, is not so pleasant. Those who enjoy themselves by sleigh-riding seem to come in for a large share of snowballing. At almost every cor ner they receive a perfect shower of balls, and on North Broad street the annoying practice is carried on very extensively. New Jersey Matters.

An Interesting Occasion.—The annual festival of the Infant department of the Sabbath School of the First Presbyterian Church, in Camden, under the direction of Church, in Camden, under the direction of Mrs. H. M. Stites, was held in the lecture room of said church, a day or two since. The following was the order: Prayer by Peter L. Vorhees, Esq., the efficient super-intendent of the school; singing by the children; address by J. K. F. Stites; singing; address by the pastor, Rev. V. D. Reed, D. D.; presentation of books, &c., to each child connected with the school. The room was well filled with children, and many of their parents, as well as other spectators were parents, as well as other spectators were present. All seemed well pleased, and enjoyed the occasion. A beautiful tree, adorned with flags and cornucopias, was a great feature in the affair. These occasions are always looked forward to with pleasure by the children of the school, and are sources of benefit to them. This school is in a flourishing condition, and numbers more than one hundred children. The entire school of the church, in both branches, is ably managed, and of them the congrega-tion has need to be proud.

DREADFUL ACCIDENT.—At a late hour yesterday afternoon a little girl, aged about five years, daughter of a Mr. Bozarth residing on Fourth street below Mickle, while playing in the basement kitchen, had her clothes take fire, and when she was discovered she was so terribly burned that she died in a few hours. Her little body was roasted into a complete crisp, and her head had swolen to twice its original size. The child's mother was also lying very low at the time of the accident. The fire was communicated to her clothing from some rags, which a little boy about her own age was burning. They were alone in the kitchen, and what was singular neither of them made any noise or called for help.

NEW RAILROAD TRAIN.—Through the instrumentality of Judge Yorke, Treasurer of the West Jersey Railroad, the Camden and Amboy Company have added another train to run between Camden and Trenton, forming a close connection with the lines on the West Jersey road. This will afford travelers from South Jersey an opportunity to visit Trenton and return the same day.

ENJOYING IT .- The levers of fun and sleigh-riding were out last evening in full force, and many were the parties that went into the country to enjoy the sport of "merry bells and gliding o'er the snow.'

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, Ga., Jan. 5, 1866. Jos. PARKER, SECRETARY AMERICAN Union Commission—Dear Sir—Sad, heavy hearts on Lookout Mountain look to you for relief, as starvation must visit some families here unless help is extended. The family of the blind man, Mr. Lowry; the namily of the lame man, Mr. Camp; the family of the sick man, Mr. Conger; the amily of Dr. Jackson, the writer, formerly for six years a Missionary of the American Sunday School Union, of whom Rev. R. B. Westbrook, of New York city, former Secretary of the Union, can give information, or Rev. Thomas McCallis, Presbyterian pastorlat Chattanooga, must suffer, as money to buy the necessaries of life is not obtaina-The destruction of the winter's crops by the army, together with the loss of oxen mules, &c.; and all efforts to obtain means to support my family having failed, I see no prospect of relief, unless God, to whom I continually look, cause your society to afford some timely aid. Can money be sent to purchase food for the families named above. Yours respectfully, Dr. C. C. Jackson.

P. S.—If I can once more obtain a footing by which I can contribute to the stream of benevolence, I feel assured that I shall pour into the stream far more than I would now wish drawn from it. Letters may be directed to Dr. C.C.Jackson, Chattanooga, Tennessee care of Scott & McCorkle. Samuel Work, Esq., Treasurer A. U. C. No. 36 South Third street. Stores can be sent to Joseph Parker, Secretary, 1210 Chestnut street.

A SHORT METHOD WITH FREE TRADERS. -Mr. D. J. Morrell, says the New York Tribune, is an extensive producer of iron at Johnstown, Pa., whom The Evening Post saw fit to have a tilt with. Mr. Morrell turns upon his assailant, and says in substance: "The question of protection is purely a laber question, since the cost of a ton of a laber question, since the cost of a ton or iron is almost entirely made up of the labor which produces it. I can make iron as cheap as my British rivals, if you will sup-ply me with labor at the prices they pay; but since I have to pay more than double, but since I have to pay more than double, while the cost of transporting my iron to the great seaboard cities is about the same as that of bringing British iron from the producers to the same markets, I can't make iron without protection so long as I must pay $2 per day for labor for which my British rival pays less than $1. When you say Free Trade, then you mean either that I shall not make iron at all, or that my workmen shall receive no higher wages than those employed by my British rivals; which is it?" It seems to us that Mr. Morrell-though a business man purely, and not a logician by trade—puts his op-ponents into a dilemma wherefrom they can with dificulty extricate themselves. THE WOOLEN MANUFACTURE.—The report of the Secretary of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers states that returns were received up to the 25th of October of 917 woolen mills, with 4,100 sets of cards and a weekly consumption of scoured wool of 2,225,545 pounds, of which 1,619,038 pounds was domestic; 613,497 pounds, or 291 per cent. foreign wool; 550 pounds scoured wool is the weekly average per set. Of 624 woolen mills no statement has been received. From the official report of the United States Tax Commissioners, the woolen goods manufactured in the United States for the year ending June 30, 1865, was

AMUSEMENTS.

THE CHESTNUT .- "The Red Rover" was received with uproarious applause last evening, and it passed off in a very dashing manner. Mordaunt, Young, Foster and Dailey acted with the greatest spirit, and the scenery and effects were really splendid. It will be repeated to-night with "The Sleeping Beauty." To-morrow evening Mr. Richard Smith, the scenic artist, has his benefit. has his benefit.

THE ARCH.—"Fortunio" will be repeated this evening, with a comedy and a farce. THE WALNUT.-Mrs. John Wood appears this evening in "London Assurance" and in "Jenny Lind."

AMERICAN THEATRE, -The Circus troupe, with the Bedouin Arabs, still draw good houses.

THE SPHYNX.—No doubt can exist but that the best novelty in the way of "phenomenal magic" which Mr. Heller is nightly displaying to wondering crowds at Concert Hall is the Sphynx. Undoubtedly it is a decided puzzler to those whe see it. A head without a body; in other words, a bust can very easily be placed upon a table. But when the table aforesaid has its legs uncovered, its face so shallow as to contain no drawer of any reasonable dimensions, and is sufficiently removed from the curno drawer of any reasonable dimensions, and is sufficiently removed from the curtain behind it to make it well-nigh impossible that any body can be attached to the head, it positively becomes a modern miracle that the aforesaid head can open its eyes, yawn, speak, take its glass of sherry, smoke its cigar and, in other words, disport and entertain itself and its audience, as if it belonged to the rational complement of body, arms, hands, legs and feet. Indeed, where the several portions of this spectral head's remaining members may be is a serious question; also, how Heller contrived serious question; also, how Heller contrived to capture this head; moreover in what manner he managed to make it speak; again, where the sherry it swallows really goes, are questions which may puzzle the acutest observers.

ASSEMBLY BUILDING.—Blitz is still riumphant at Tenth and Chestnut streets. He gives day performances on Wednesday and Saturday, in addition to his evening entertainments.

Facts and Fancies.

The Richmond Times gets off a pretty hard one on the well-known modesty of the hard one on the well-known modesty of the F. F. V's when it says, with becoming solemnity: "General Lee, yesterday afternoon, yielded to the vehement demand of his admiring friends, and delivered a short address, which was characterized by that modesty and chaste sentiment that is ever graceful to the feelings of a Virginia auditory." We admit that the Virginians were considerably chased, during the war, but where does the modesty come in? where does the modesty come in?

The Boston Board of Aldermen have adopted an order prohibiting horse railroad companies from removing snow from the tracks within the limits of the city, without first obtaining permission of the superin-tendent of streets and the committee on paving. We are not much troubled with our railway companies in that way. Ketchum, Son & Co. have taken down

Soldiers' Families:

To the Editor of the Evening Bulletin:— It would be a great convenience to many that I am aiding, to have some grocery stores in the northern, north-eastern and north-western sections of our city, where they could get their orders put up near where they reside. One in the neighborhood of Fairmount, one on or near Broad street, about Green or Coates, one on Second street near Frankford road, and one in Port Richmond and West Philadelphia.

Let respectable grocers from these quarters send me their names, with the prices which they will charge soldiers' widows and rphans, and I will send orders to them which I will redeem every week on being presented.

AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC is now ready for delivery gratis, by the Druggists, to all who call for it.

Among the problems of high science which the Doctor presents in it, is the startling assertion that the friction of the tides upon its surface, retards the earth's revolution upon its axis, or holds it back with a of six thousand millions of horse powers. Hence it is easy to see that with-out some counter force, the globe must rotate slower and slower, until its revolutions wholly cease. Then with perpetual night upon one side, and a degree of cold far below any now known, we should have on the other a "fervent heat" from the sun, which would melt the rocks and make the run like water. But we need feel no alarm. He shows a counter poise which nearly balances this resistance, and will maintain, substantially, the present munda tion, through ages upon ages yet to come. MONEY RECOVERED. Seven thousand dollars of the money recently stolen from the house of Mr. William Earhart, of Blairsville, Indiana county, Pa., has been recovered. It was found by a son of Mr. John Stitt, hid under a loose board in the stable of Mr. Alexander Graff, in the Mr. E's residence. The 7-30 bonds and greenbacks are still missing.

VIRGINIA OYSTER TRADE.—The recent cold spell put a complete embargo on the oyster trade, and York river oysters suddenly went up from one to two dollars per gallon, which latter price a prime article now readily commands. A few more days of mild weather like yesterday must open river navigation and bring down prices.— Pickmond Times.
