They t tion of Chinch great alarm at 1 entertained of t rison there, but proved groundless. The prime mover in the affair is General Prim, and he has with him a number of other prominent officers. They represent the Progresista or Liberal party in the nation and the army. The insurgents were joined by other bodies of military, and though they were pursued by the government troops, they had not, up to the last accounts, suffered any serious reverse. Prim was last heard of in the mountains of Toledo. There had been rumors of disasters to him, but they do not seem to be wellfounded. Throughout the kingdom there was excitement and uneasiness. Madrid was under martial law, or as they express it, in a state of siege. The railroad communication had been cut to the Southward, and there were fears of a complete blockade of the capital. At Barcelona there had been a popular disturbance, but the people were dispersed by the military. The state of siege had been extended over Aragon. These are the principal points that reach us through the very confused and unsatisfactory reports that are allowed to be made public in the Spanish papers. While we do not suppose that the insursection will become very general or extensive, it is evidently causing a great deal of alarm. The revolt does not appear to be against Queen Isabella, but against her present ministers. Still there is a party-now inconsiderable in numbers-that dream of deposing the present Bourbon dynasty and uniting the kingdom with Portugal, under Dom Luis, who is an enlightened and liberal sovereign, and whose queen is a daughter of the king of Italy. Without supposing that there is much chance of this being accomplished, and without regarding the present outbreak as of a very formidable character, we are justified in saying that the news from Spain will be, for some time time to come, of a very interesting character.

vember, to join the Mediterranean squadron. These rumors are happily set at rest by a etter which we publish to-day, from which we learn that she arrived at Lisbon on the 24th of December, after a short passage from Fayal.

OUR COURT ROOMS AND OUR JUDGES.

In our advertising columns will be found a call, signed by a number of members of the bar, for a meeting to be held in the Supreme Court Room tomorrow at noon, to take into consideration the subjects of additional Court accommodations, additional judges, and better compensation for the judiciary of Philadelphia. The lamentable death of Mr. Dillon said that the education in Judge Thompson is, no doubt, the immediate cause of this movement. His life was shortened by over-work in the small, ill-ventilated room where his court was held. This simple fact is argument enough in favor of new court rooms and more judges. That our judiciary are entitled to larger salaries than they now receive is also a patent fact. No men of whom so much legal knowledge is expected and of whom so be fostered, and the system of cramming only way to use it well, is by sus the Southern steamship lines with the whole business influence of the city; and if this enterprise, with all the elements of success, is destined to fail, then it might as well be at once admitted that the glory of Philadelphia is departing.

CITY COUNCILS AND THE HIGH SCHOOL.

In Common Council, yesterday, a debate took place upon the subject of the Central High School, which demonstrated the fact that there are strong doubts entertained in that body as to the utility of the institution and the propriety of continuing to maintain it. The discussion arose upon a motion to strike out from the appropriation to the Board of Controllers of Public Schools the sum of $27,000 set apart for the support of the Central High School. The motion was lost, principally, as we infer, because of the summary mode proposed of giving the institution its quietus, and not because of any special partiality for

In the course of the discussion Mr. Simpson said he believed that a majority of the citizens were in favor of abolishing the school. We tax the people, he said, to give them an equal system of education, but only about four per cent. of the pupils can be educated in the High School. Of those educated there, at least seventy per cent. were drones upon the community. He was in favor of encouraging the Grammar Schools, by raising the standard of education. Mr. Creswell said the High School costs a great deal more than it should for the benefit derived from it. He was in favor of raising the standard of education in the Grammar Schools and abolishing the High Schools. Mr. Hancock believed that we should compel every child to attend school until a certain age. He thought the $27,000 asked for the High School would be of more service if appropriated to educate those who now never go to school. The city should give a fair English education and nothing else. Mr. Billington was in favor of education, but he doubted the propriety of maintaining a college out of the money of the taxpayers. A good English education is all that can be expected from the public schools.

the public schools was becoming so. superior to that obtained in the private schools, that the rich were monopolizing the schools and keeping out the poor. Mr. Hetzell said the High School only gave the boys a smattering of learning, while it failed to give them an education of a practical character. He was in favor of abolishing the High School, because the grammar schools would then
