The Troubles in Spain.

The progress of the great Spanish revolu-tion, headed by General Prim, against the Cabinet, the throne and dynasty of Queen Isabella, is reported to the last moment of advices from Europe. The very latest des-patch is dated in Madrid on the 11th of January, about midnight. It states that the Queen's army, marching in three columns, had compelled the insurgents to quit their position in the mountains, and that they were endeavoring to retreat into Portugal Ministers had requested permission to arraign General Prim; but we are not informed that he had been arrested. Generals Milans de Bosch, Novilas and Contreras were allied with Prim, and there is no doubt that they had an enthusiastic support from a great force of the military, as well as from the entire population of some of the provinces. These facts were made evident by the official alarm which existed in Madrid, martial law having been proclaimed, all political associations and clubs having been dissolved, and even the royal children being shut up in the palace. The main strength of the revolt was to be found, previous to the latest despatch, at three points, viz.: in the neigh-borhood of Madrid, in the west on the Portuguese frontier, and in the east in the district lying between 'Toledo, Valencia and the Andalusian frontier. Prim remained in the east, and even yet there is no authoritative news of his defeat. General Concha, who had been replaced by Marshal Serrano, arrived in Madrid on the 9th of January. In Barcelona the troops had been attacked by the populace and fired on the people in return, killing some of them. The most intelligent writers attribute the exciting causes of the movement to the wretched impoverishment of the Spanish people and the demo-ralization produced all over the country by the intrigues of the politicians and clergy and the writings of a strictly party press. England and France were inclined to sym-pathize with the royal cause; but the journals of both countries draw attention to the dangerous effects of these serious spasmodic military revolutions in the neighbor-ing kingdom. Marshal O'Donnell will take his revenge on Prim should he fall into his hands.

A FILLE DE REGIMENT .- The officers of the 18th Illinois regiment held a meeting at Camp Butler, Ill., on the 8th inst., for the purpose of contributing means for the sup-port of Jennie Irvin, an orphan girl, whose father, a veteran soldier of the regiment, was killed while on his way to Springfield to be discharged. The officers pledged themselves to "protect, educate and main-tain" this child of the regiment until she arrives at lawful age.

CHIEF JUSTICE TURNER, of Nevada, is now at New York, and in a speech on Thursday evening, he called attention to the fact that the State within five years has secured thirty-five thousand population, thirty-six millions of wealth, and seven thirty-six millions of wealth, and seven daily papers, besides building nine cities and the finest roads in the world. He spoke of her wealth, and mentioned, as a significant circumstances, the fact that out of Virginia City goes daily now a ton of silver bullion. silver bullion.

Consecration of Bishop Kerfoot—Inter esting Ceremonies.

The ceremonies of consecration of the Rev. John Barrett Kerfoot, D. D., President of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., as Bishop of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, were held on Thursday in Trinity Church, Pitts-burgh, Rev. C. E. Swope, A. M., Rector. It was expected that at least twelve or fifteen Bishopes would participate in the

It was expected that at least twelve or fifteen Bishops would participate in the ceremonies, but it was not possible for all to be present who had expressed their inten-tion of doing so, in some cases, in conse-quence of official business requiring their attention elsewhere. Much disappointment was felt over the absence of the Right Rev. Bishop Stevens, of Philadelphia, who was quite ill so much so as to require madical quite ill, so much so, as to require medical attendance. The following Bishops, however, were present on the occasion-Right Rev. John Henry Hopkins, D.D., LL. D. -Right Bishop of Vermont, and presiding member of the House of Bishops; Right Rev. Charles Pettit McIlvaine, DD., D. C. L., Bishop of Ohio; Yight Rev. William Rollinson Whit-

The presence of so many prelates arrayed in their elegant and costly canonical vestments was an imposing sight. They were seated within the chancel, the Right Rev. Dr.

Hopkins, occupying a prominent place as consecrating Bishop. At his right sat the Right Rev. Dr. McIlvaine, Right Rev. Dr. Whittingham and the Right Rev. Dr. Talbot, andon his left the Right Rev. Dr. Coxe, Right Rev. Dr. Williams, Right Rev. Dr. Clarkson. The Bishop elect was robed in a plain rochet and occupied a seat immediately in front of the chancel, between the Rev. Dr. Page, of Allegheny, and the Rev. C. E. Swope, or

Pittsburgh. On an adjacent chair were laid the canonical vestments of the new prelate. They are made of the finest mate-rial-black satin, with white flowing sleeves, and black satin cuffs. We learn ext. The only ministry ordained by Christ was the Apostles. They were never to fail, and He promised to abide with them until the end. He stated what churches were committed to the care of the Apostles, showed how they labored in building them up in God's glory, and argued from the fact of their divine appointment and the char-acter of their work—that when the Apostles died, it was necessary successors should be appointed in their stead. He passed to consider the subtle operations of Romanism, and called upon the Church to fortify the Master's ground. The Church must not forget its scriptural origin—this must be its ambition It owed it to the country and to God to widen and deepen its power for good. This new diocese would make its own re-cord. What would be its character? He cord. What would be its character? He counseled it to be steadfast in the faithfight down all heresy, and keep aloft the banner of Emmanuel. The Rev. Bishop then closed with an address to the Rev. Doctor Kerfoot, in which he took occasion to allude to the brief period he had filled the office of a Bishop, on which account he refrained from giving counsel, but he spoke very tenderly to him of the vast responsibilities he himself felt, and believed that the Bishop elect would soon regard it, in a far different light than he could have before conceived. He cordially welcomed him to the office of prelate of Christ, and invoked the blessing of Almighty God upon his Episcopal labors. The Consecration Service then com-menced the Bishon-sleet being presented menced, the Bishop-elect being presented by Bishops Whitingham and Williams. The testimonials were read by Rev. Messrs. Ten Broeck, Pa., Rev. Dr. Passmore, Wis., and Rev. Mr. Edwards, Md. The Bishop was robed by Rev. Dr. Page and Rev. Mr. Swope, of Pittsburgh. At the conclusion of the Consecration, which was in accordance with the imposing ritual of the Episcopal Church, the congregation was dismissed by the Senior Bishop with the Apostolic Benediction.

The music on this occasion was admirably performed. In was conducted by Pro-fessor Edmund A. Mattson, formerly of Boston and now the organist of Trinity Boston and now the organist of Trinity Church, Pittsburgh. The choir consisted of well-trained male voices, the singers being divided into two well-balanced parts and the service being rendered in a correct antiphonal style.
