XXXIXTH CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION. CLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S PROGREDINGS.

SENATE.—The Chair announced that the bill to protect all persons in the United States in the enjoyment of their civil rights and to furnish the means of their vindication was before the Council of the tion was before the Senate.

The question was upon the adoption of Mr. Trumbull's amendment, to insert after the enacting clause the words "that all persons of African descent born in this country

Mr. Saulsbury (Del.) called for the yeas and nays.

Mr. Van Winkle (W. Va.) spoke against the amendment. He did not think it wise or constitutional to adopt it.

Mr. Trumbull withdrew the amendment above stated, and offered, instead, the following: "That all persons born in the United States, not subject to any foreign Power, are hereby declared to be citizens of the United States, without any distinction

Mr. Guthrie (Ky.) inquired if Mr. Trum-bull intended to naturalize Indians? Mr. Trumbull—We deal with Indians by treaty and not by law, unless in reference to those who are incorporated into the United States, and are subject to taxation.

Mr. Cowan (Pa.) called attention to the

Mr. Trumbull said the children of Chinese parents born in this country were citizens. If this were not true, there were many counties in Pennsylvania so inhabited with Germans that there must be very few citi-Mr. Cowan said it must be remembered that a German is not a Chinaman. [Laugh-Mr. Lane (Kansas) said there were In-dians in Kansas who owned lands, but were not citizens. Mr. Henderson (Mo.) asked Mr. Lane in he did not a year ago say the best race of men he ever saw was a mixture of negroes and Indians in Kansas?

Mr. Lane said the mixed race lived south of Kansas. He still adhered to the assertion quoted by Mr. Henderson.

Mr. Cowan denied that it was the intention of the framers of this government to provide for the naturalization of Asiatics. Speaking of the mesits of the bill, Mr. Cowan said the second section of the constitutional amendment gave no authority to pass such a measure. The amendment was intended simply to strike the shackles from the slave. The second clause only contemplated legislation to do this. The bill under plated legislation to do this. The bill under consideration, he said, repealed some of the laws of Pennsylvania, and rendered judges of the State Courts liable to prosecution.

Mr. Stewart inquired of Mr. Cowan if the Fugitive Slave Law of 1850 did not provide the same punishment for State judges.

Mr. Cowan replied that it did. He was always opposed to that Fugitive Slave law, however. Mr. Cowan, in the course of his remarks, said the government of the United. remarks, said the government of the United States did not do its duty to the people of the South, immediately before the war. It afforded no protection to Union men in the South, and there was at one time a majority of Union men in every Southern

Mr. Fessenden put the question whether, if a majority of the whole people of the Southern States had been in favor of secession, would that fact have altered the status of the rebellion?

Mr. Cowan said that question was not before him. He would answer it when it came up. He asked Mr. Fessenden what the United States sent an army South

Mr. Fessenden replied, to suppress the rebellion, restore the Union, and certainly to conquer the people,
Mr. Howard (Mich.) called on Mr. Cowan to say whether if one of the ringleaders of the rebellion were on trial for treason, he

(Mr. Cowan) thought it would be a justifiable plea that he only carried out the laws of his State in conseling the treason? Mr. Cowan said certainly not. Mr. Howard asked Mr. Cowan to state where, in his opinion, the crime of treason against the United States commenced? Mr. Cowan said it commenced with making war against the United States where the United States could protect its Mr. Howard inquired if Mr. Cowan meant to say that creason depended on the ability of the United States to make such a war? Mr. Cowan said he would illustrate: Suppose the Michigan State government passed an ordinance of secession taking that State out of the Union, did Mr. Howard think that in obeying that government he (Mr. Howard) would be guilty of treason?

Mr. Howard said he unquestionably would be guilty of treason. In that case it would be for the courts to determine the extent of his guilt and punishment, but there is no doubt that he would be subject to trial for treason. Mr. Sherman (Ohio) introduced a resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Printing, providing for the printing of five thousand copies of the report of the Revenue Commission.

Mr. Howard took the floor on the bill before the Senate. He had recently seen a letter from one of our generals in Texas, in which the writer states that some time ago a Union man was discovered in Texas who was so impudent as to raise the Federal flag over his house after the close of the war. He was waited on by citizens and told that the flag must be hauled down, that while the people of Texas might accept the situa-tion of the defeat, they could not submit to anything of this kind. The man refused to take down the flag, and he paid for his re-fusal with his life. This was the spirit of these same reconstructed rebels of the South-they accepted the situation and that

Mr. Howard said that when the constitutional amendment was before the Judiciary Committee he was a member of that committee, and the second clause of the amendment he knew to be intended for precisely the kind of legislation now before the Senate. He denied that the only effect of the amendment was to relieve the slaves from compulsory service. Such was not the construction intended by the friends of the amendment, nor by the bar of the United States, nor by the liberty-loving people of the United States. Without a law of this kind, he said, the people of the Southern States would have a right to expatriate the freed negro, or to compel him to labor for whatever the states with the said. whatever the old master might choose to pay him, thus reducing him to a state infi-itely worse than slavery. Mr. Lane (Kansas) offered an amendment to the amendment of Mr. Trumbull, to insert after the words "foreign power" the words "tribal authority."

Mr. Johnson, (Md.) said the amendment of Mr. Trumbull proposed to define citizenship. Nobody was more willing than he to admit that, such a definition was desirable. The Dred Scott decision, however, had decided that persons of African descent, whether born in the United States or not could not be citizens under the Constitution, and that decision had not been set aside. It was his opinion that the only way to accomplish the end proposed was by constitutional amendment. Legislation of the kind proposed, he thought, would leave the question still open as before. He doubted the authority of Congress to pass such a bill. The bill, he said, would affect not only colored, but white people. Under it no State could distinguish between the citizens born on its own soil and the citizens of another State or country emigrating to the State. Mr. Johnson proceeded to speak of the details of the bill and to show that its operation would conflict with laws in the State of Maryland and other States, regulating the police affairs of the State.

The Senate, at four o'clock, adjourned.

House.—The House proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore reported by Mr. Delano (Ohio), from the Committee on Claims, namely: That until otherwise ordered, the Committee of Claims be instructed to reject all claims referred to them for examination by citizens of any of the for examination by citizens of any of the for examination by citizens of any of the States lately in rebellion growing out of the destruction or appropriation of or damage to property by the army or navy while engaged in suppressing the rebellion.

Mr. Delano, in supporting the resolution, and that there was no obligation on the part of the government to pay for damages by of the government to pay for damages by the ravages of war. It often became necessary for the army or the navy to destroy the property not only of the guilty whose hands were red with the blood of our loyal citizens, but also that of the innocent. citizens, but also that of the innocent. A clear line of distinction could not be drawn between such classes, and it would be impracticable to determine who are loyal and who are disloyal. This he illustrated by stating the fact that a clause was pending before the committee for six or eight thousand dollars, presented to them by a loyal man. There have heretofore been two favorable reports on the subject. Sixty of the items were for property destroyed when items were for property destroyed when General Buell commanded in the South

States, and are subject to taxation.

Mr. Cowan (Pa.) called attention to the fact that this amendment would naturalize a great number of Chinese children in Calithem there was no evidence to show these sixty persons were loyal men. The claim-ants had clean hands, but had probably made some arrangement to represent the others. But this was not all. If inquiry were made as to the loyalty of individuals, every one could give some evidence of loyalty by the procurement of ex parte affidadavits. These and like considerations had brought the committee to the unanimous conclusion that the effort to discriminate would be an impossibility.

Mr. Niblack (Ind.) of the Committee on Claims, did not concur fully with the condusions of the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Delang), but he believed that no committee could take up in detail. the could take up in detail and examine these claims and make such report as should be made. There ought to be some general law as applicable to all such cases, and not special acts. Besides, the status of the Southern States was yet an open question, and until it was determined by Congress what are their relations, it would be improper for the Committee of Claims to forestall their action. He was under the impression that loyal citizens, as distinguished from rebel in arms, ought to be reimbursed for damages sustained.

Mr. Ward, (N. Y.) a member of the committee, said he was carried reluctantly to the conclusion submitted in the report. He telt that the loyal men of the South, who were faithful around the feith search. were faithful among the faithless, who had risked and suffered all in consequence of their devotion to the Union, were entitled to our warmest sympathies, and should be recompensed as far as possible, pecuniarily, for the losses they had sustained in consequence of their adherence to the old flag. But the amount of those losses, the condition of the sustained in the sustained tion of our finances, and the difficulty which now existed of separating the loyalist from the traitor, admonished him not to open a door that might double our national debt, bring on financial ruin and perhaps repudiation and national disgrace. A result so deplorable all would strive to avoid, and none more so than those noble men to whom none more so than those noble men to whom the national honor is so dear. As one of the committee, he wished it understood that he hoped the decision would not be regarded as final, or bind as a precedent those who should come after us; and he hoped the day was not far distant when the clouds which now gather about us shall have vanished when the difficult work of reconstruction shall be done, when the nation will no longer reel under so gigantic a debt, and when the loyal men of the South shall be clearly ascertained, and that justice shall be

Mr. Thornton (Ill.) of the committee, conin the resolution, but hedid not sores with the reasoning of the report. The Consti-tution provides that private property shall not be taken for public uses without just compensation. What difference was there in taking private property from a loyal citizen in a disloyal State? If they could pay in one case why not in the other? There could be no difference merely growing out of the fact of residence.

Mr. Johnson (Pa.) moved that the resolu-tion be laid upon the table, which was disagreed to—yeas 36, nays 118.

The resolution was then agreed to.

Mr. Ingersoll (Ill.) introduced a bill providing for a ship canal from the Mississippi iver to Lake Michigan, and for other purposes, which was referred to the Committee on Roads and Canals.

Mr. Kasson (Iowa) offered the following, which was referred to the Committee on Reconstruction:

Resolved, That the joint Committee of fifteen on Reconstruction consider the expediency of proposing the following several propositions to each of the States lately in rebellion for adoption by the Legislatures or Conventions thereof, as a fundamental compact between each of said States and the United States, irrepealable without mutual consent: First-No ordinance, regulation or law shall ever be adopted by or have force within the said States which shall cause, intend or permit the secession or with-drawal of said State, or of the citizens thereof, from the Union of these States, o the release of the officers or people of said State from their obedience to the Constitu tion of the United States of America, or from their allegiance to the constitutiona government thereof.

Second—The right to bring and defend such in all the Courts of said State, and to give testimony therein according to the usual course of law, shall be enjoyed on appel terms by all persons resident therein. equal terms by all persons resident therein irrespective of race or color, and all forfeit-ures, penalties and liabilities under any law, in any criminal or other proceeding, the punishment of any crime or misde-meanor, shall be applied to and shall bear upon all persons equally, without distinc-ion of race or color. Third-The right to acquire, hold and dispose of property, real, personal and mixed, shall in said State be enjoyed on equal terms by all naturalized citizens, and by all persons native born, without distinction of race or color.

Fourth—No law, ordinance, or regulation, shall be adopted in the said State re-cognizing or creating any doubt or liability on the part of said State, or any municipal or corporate authority within the jurisdiction thereof, on account of credit, money, materials, supplies, personal service or other consideration whatever, taken by, or furnished to or for the aid of any government or authority, or pretended government, or authority or military as a supplied to the supplied of ment or authority, or pretended govern-ment or authority, or military or naval or civil officer, or pretended officer, heretofore set up or acting in hostility to the govern-ment of the United States, or to be set up or acting hereafter, but all such liabilities shall be void, and no tax shall ever be imposed he yold, and no tax snan ever be imposed, assessed or collected by any authority within the said State on account thereof.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the Senate bill to enlarge the powers of he Freedmen's Bureau. Mr. Eliot (Mass.), from the Committee on Freedmen's Affairs, offered several amendments, and explained them.

Mr. Donnelly (Minn.) suggested an amendment so as to record amendment so as to provide a common school education for all who may apply therefor.

Mr. Eliot said that the original plan was legislation without precedent in any nation, but which was rendered necessary by the result of the rebellion and the liberation of four million of persons, whose unpaid labor had enriched their relentless masters. He entered at large into the history of the Bureau, saying that if it should be with drawn there would be no protection to the reedmen; but he had no fears that this would be done.

The House took a recess till half-past 7 this evening, for the purpose of affording gentlemen an opportunity to speak on the subject of the President's annual message.

Evening Ression.—At half-past seven o'clock Mr, Grinnell (Iowa) called the House to order, when Mr. Hubbell (Olifo) who was entitled to the floor, said there was a probability of being a thin House, in consequence of the President's reception, and in order to give those now present an opportunity to attend it, he moved that the House adjourn. Two members voted in the affirmative and two in the negative.

The Speaker pro tem. (Mr. Grinnell) gave the casting vote in the affirmative, and declared the House adjourned. This evening had especially been set apart for speech-making, nearly seventy gentle-men having made preparation for that pur-

TIN SIFTER AND STRAINER. For Sifting Flour, Meal Buckwheat, Sauce and all other articles requiring a seive.

State and County RIGHTS FOR SALE

It is one of the most useful inventions for domestic use ever offered to the public. The fiour is slifted in one-quarter the time (and much detter than by any other process) by putting the flour in the top of the slifter, then, by turning the crank, the filour passes through the sleve with great rapidity. Clean, very fine and light. This slifter has no India rubber rollers to grind up the dirt, such as bugs, worms, files, c., but slits all articles and leaves the dut, remaining in the sleve; the Slifter is made of tin, is very neat and easy to keep clean. It is the only Slifter now in use that gives SATISFACTION. Every Slifter is warranted. Be sure and say for Spencer's Patent Tin Slifter.
