Whatever be the wish of Marshal O'Donnell and his colleagues, they can hardly afford to disregard the very strong expression of opinion which the news of the capture of the Covadonga has elicited. We may expect, therefore, to find that whoever may be appointed to succeed Admiral Pareja will be instructed to press for satisfaction with be instructed to press for satisfaction with the whole power at his disposal. It matters not now that the original cause of quarrel against the Chileans had no solid founda-tion, and could not be supported by any reasonable argument. The dispute has passed out of its primary phase, and the Spanish government have now cast upon hem the duty of vindicating the national honor, which has been conpromised by a defeat of the Spanish arms. So this unhappy matter stands.

OITY BULLETIN.

CORONER'S INQUEST .- Coroner Taylor yesterday afternoon held an inquest on the body of Captain Joseph H. Cox, of the British brig Theodorus, who died from the effects of stabs inflicted by Morris Abrams, one of the crew, on Tuesday morning last. A number of witnesses were examined, but no facts, beyond those already published in the BULLETIN, were elicited. The testi-mony showed that Abrams had deserted in company with two others; that the three were taken to the vessel on Tuesday morning by Constable Crawford, that on the way to the wharf Abrams wanted to see the British Consul, and said something about put-ting a bullet through the captain; that when he got on board he refused to work, and Captain Cox threatened to put him in irons; that he then drew a knife and made a dash at the captain; that the latter ran and was pursued by Abrams and his fellow-deserters; that Abrams struck the captain, and Cox commenced to bleed, exclaiming, "I am stabbed!" that James Hatfield, the mate, seized Abrams and forced him back against the rail, when the knife was dropped overboard. One witness testified positively to having seen Abrams stab the Captain, and ine verdict of the jury was that death was caused by a stab inflicted by Abrams. The murderer was then committed to prison. He is an Irishman, about 30 years of age and shipped at St. Johns, N. B., on the 29th

FIRE IN THE SIXTEENTH WARD-SPOKE FACTORY DESTROYED. - This morning, about three o'clock, a fire broke out in the Philadelphia Spoke and Hub Works, located on New Market street above Laurel, in the Sixteenth Ward. The building was frame, with an imitation rough cast front, and was two stories in height. It belonged to the Harmony Methodist congregation, and was formerly used as a church. At the time of the fire the structure was occupied by Eldredge & Buckley, for the manufacture of spokes, hubs and fellies. There was considerable machinery in the lower part of the building.

The flames originated in the boiler room, in the south-eastern portion of the building and spread rapidly throughout the entire structure.

The building and its contents were almost entirely destroyed. The machinery, which was in the lower part of the factory, was considerably damaged by water. There considerably damaged by water. There was not much stock or material on hand, as the manufactured articles were sent away eyery day.

Messrs, Eldredge & Buckley are insured for $3,000 in the Royal and Etna Insurance Companies. This will fully cover their loss. On the building there is an insurance of $1,600 in the Fire Association, and $1,000 in the Royal, which will also cover the loss. The fire originated accidentally.

A WELL-MERITED COMPLIMENT.-Mrs. Anna C. Benson, President of the Ladies' First Union Association, has been the recipient of a beautiful silver tea service, as a testimonial in appreciation of her untiring efforts, to alleviate the sufferings of the disabled soldiers and their impoverished families, as well as the widows and orphans of those who have fallen in defence of the We are glad to learn that there are those who give practical demonstration of their approval of the noble conduct of woman in this glorious cause. Mrs. Benson's unwearied attention to the sick and wounded soldiers can only meet its reward in another and a better world, where she may join those brave patriots whose dying hours were soothed by her gentle tenderness.

SWINDLING & SOLDIER .- Nathan Williams and William Redding, both colored, were before Ald. Moore this morning upon the charge of conspiracy to defraud a soldier. Williams professes to be a fortune teller, and was to tell the soldier three numbers by which he could make a strike in a lottery. The soldier was to pay $25, and handed over a hundred dollar bill. Williams, it is alleged, started out to get the note changed, but did not return. Redding is alleged to have been an accomplice in the transaction. Both were committed in default of $1,000 bail to answer.

The accused, it is alleged, broke into the shop accused, it is alleged, broke into she shap of Mr. Haldel, on Lombard street, early yesterday morning. The boots and shoes were recovered by the detectives in a house in Radcliff avenue, where the prisoners were taken into custody. They were com-

Stewart, Eighth and Chestnut street, or Collins West, the Treasurer, No. 302 South Second street, will receive donations for this praiseworthy object.

THE CIRCUS ROBBERY .- A young man who gave his name as John Brown, was before Alderman Beitler yesterday afternoon charged with having been concerned in the larceny of a safe containing $1,120 75, from the circus building at Tenth and Callowhill streets. A little girl, a witness in the case, identified the prisoner as one of the party seen carrying the safe away. Brown was committed to answer.

SOLDIERS' MEETING.—The mass meeting of soldiers and sailors in fayor of an equali zation of bounty, will be held this evening in front of Independence Hall. The stand for the speakers was put up this morning.

WANAMAKER & BROWN, CLOTHIERS.-We well remember, some years since, of visiting the famous hard ware store of Erastus Corning & Co., at Albany, N. Y. There it was, a plain brown brick building, not so pretentious by far as some of its neighbors, pretentious by far as some of its neighbors, and of all others the very one we should not have looked for, as the store of the great merchant, but when we stepped inside and saw how the goods were piled and crowded in every inch of space, we forgot all about the plain brown front outside, and then realized that the extent of a firm's business could not be determined by the outside apcould not be determined by the outside ap-pearance of the store. The Clothing House of Wanamaker & Brown, at S. E. corner of Sixth and Market streets, popularly known as Oak Hall, brings the above incident forcibly before us; though occupying rather an old building, and not so grand in appearance as many others built more recently, yet a as many others built more recently, yet a close inspection of its immense sale and manufacturing rooms convince us that Wanamaker & Brown do the clothing business on the Corning plan. The entire six story building is like one vast bee hive, and those who take a pride in the prosperity of manufactures in our city, cannot help being gratified on visiting this great establisement, and witnessing its admirable management and ex-nessing its admirable managemen and ex-cellent system in the manufacture of fine cellent system in the manufacture of fine clothing, to place it in reach of the customer at the lowest prices. The upper rooms of the building are used to examine and sponge the goods, all of which pass the closest inspection before going to the cutters, and in the fourth story the work is cut and given out the hands, and here, also, the wholesale department is located. All the other floors are used as salesrooms, and every nook and corner is literally "crammed" with articles of Clothing for Men, Youth and Children, embracing everything from the richest custom-made-work to the simplest fabric of men's wear. On the first floor the custom department is in full operation, with a fine ment of uncut goods, where those who pre-fer can be measured, and have their clothing made to order.

The inducements presented by this house and which command for it such a large trade, are well worthy of more than a passing thought wire. thought, viz:

 Its facilities to get goods at first hands
 Its high character for reliability. 3. Its superior workmanship.
4. Its enormous stock and great variety.

ing such a house as this. A DESTRUCTIVE PARTY. - Alderman Shoemaker had before him this morning two young men, named John Haas and Henry Ross, charged with malicious mis-chief. It is alleged that on Wednesday night last they went to a lager beer saloon at Germantown road and Otis street, as-saulted the proprietor, broke the windows, smashed the glasses, and destroyed things in general in the saloon. They were com-mitted in default of $1,000 bail. SUICIDE.-Mrs. Sarah Stevenson, aged about fifty years, residing at No. 2313 Lombard street, committed suicide last evening by hanging herself. She had recently lost by death a daughter and an interesting little grandchild, and is supposed to have com-mitted the act of self-destruction in a fit of SINGULAR FREAK—A cotemporary says it recently noticed a large gull or fish hawk polsing himself, and oscillating with his grand wings outstretched over and near the roof of a house. We stood and watched him for a few moments, for he seemed to be perfectly fascinated with the smoke or odor of the chimney, and apparently laved himself in it with the greatest pleasure. Presently, as we gazed, he lifted simself gradually to some two or three hundred yards more of altitude, and then, after one slow circle, darted like an arrow at the roof. He must, of course' have dashed himself to death, but whether he went into the chimney, or broke himself upon the roof, we could not see. It is needless to observe that the coal, from which the fire was made that made the smoke, was made from coal sold by W. W. Alter, No. 957 N. Ninth street. Possibly it may have been ordered at Alter's branch office, at the corner of Sixth and Spring Gar den streets.

New Jersey Matters.

THE WATER WORKS QUESTION .- Henry M. Birkinbine, Esq., who was employed by the Committee of Council to survey the Water Works and report on the value thereof, has just finished his labors and made a lengthy report. By his estimate, the total cost of the works, after being put in complete running order, sufficiently ca-pacious to furnish a city containing fifty thousand inhabitants with a bountiful supply of water, will be $292,858 15. This will be the actual debt incurred in the purchase and improvements of the works, the interest on which, at six per cent., is $17,571 48; making a total the first year of $310,429 63, while the receipts from the $310,429 63, while the receipts from the works for the past year are set down at $16,000, being $1,571 48 less than enough to pay the interest. It is believed that the income can be greatly increased, which must inevitably be the case. It is clear that these works should belong to the city, for there are many disadvantages which the people now experience, which would then people now experience, which would then be remedied; but, as shere is a diversity of opinion concerning the expediency of running the city into debt to any greater extent it would be a wise policy for Council to submit it to a vote of the people at the next municipal election, and thus settle the matter at the ballot-box.

CAMDEN CITY HALL.—The dilapidated condition of the old one-and-a-half-story building on the north side of Federal street, above Fourth, occupied as the council cham-ber—with its two little pens, where the Mayor and Clerk of Councils "hold forth," is truly a disgrace to the city. It would have answered very well when Camden had only three or four hundred citizens, but uow, as it embraces a population of upwards of eighteen thousand, it is perfectly inadequate. The character of a city loses nothing in providing convenient and fine public buildings for the safety of records and the transaction of business connected with mu-nicipal government. At the present moment Camden is behindhand in all those essential improvements which go to give it public importance. Even the city jail is destitute of room, for often it is so filled that prisoners have to be removed to the county jail, in many instances those who have been arrested for petty offences.

> EXTRAORDINARY RESURRECTION.-Four days after the rebels fired on Fort Sumter a son of Mrs. Duncan, of Mecca, Ohio, enlisted for the war. He joined a Western regiment, and after being in several battles, was reported killed at the battle of Stone River. His body was brought home and interred. Afterwards intelligence was brought to the parents by returned Union prisoners that their son was not dead, but in a rebel prison in Georgia. Other prisoners, returning from there last spring, brought the sad news of his death to the sorely distressed family. When the war closed an opportunity was offered to penetrate the rebel lines. Mr. Duncan sent down and had his son brought home again and buried. Having had him home again and buried. Having had him buried twice, as was supposed, it was natural that they should be reconciled to their loss; but a few days ago their son Bob, in spite of wounds, and deaths, and funerals, came "marching home," and is now enjoying the hospitality of the parental roof. His case is a strange one, but it is only one of many of the same kind which the history of the war reveals. the war reveals.

> BLOODY WORK IN MISSISSIPPI.-In Covington county, Mississippi, a few days since, a party of deserters, headed by James Broom, John Rayburn and Felix Rayburn, went to the residence of Alexander Magrew, and concealed themselves in his crib, await ing his return from church, with the inten-tion of waylaying and killing him. Mr. Magrew did not return as they expected, and they then set fire to his house and left. Magrew returned home next morning, collected a few friends, and started in pursuit. He overtook them in the evening, and in attempting to arrest them killed Felix Ray-burn and captured John Rayburn. The others made their escape. A few days afterward, having learned that James Broom was one of the incendiaries, Magrew and his friends proceeded to his residence to arrest him. As soon as Broom saw his house was surrounded, he got his gun and shot at the crowd, killing George Watt. Magrew's party fired and killed Broom.
