minority.
Voices on the opposition side—Say two hours; one hour is not long enough.
Mr. Schenck (Ohio), elevating his voice, -Pass the resolution; that's the only compromise.

Mr. Voorhees (Ind.). on coming into the hall, wanted to make a proposition, but numerous emphatic objections were inter-posed on the other side of the House. Mr. Washburne (Ill.)—Let him be heard. Mr. Eldridge—Will gentlemen allow anybody to make a proposition? Cries of "No-no!"

Mr. Voorhees called for the reading of the pending resolution, which was read. Intelligence was, at this stage of the pro-ceedings, privately brought from the Senate as to the action of that body on the veto message. A crowd collected near the desk of Mr. Stevens, and all seemed intensely interested in the narration.

Mr. Ross (Ill.) rose to a privileged question, but his voice was drowned in cries of Mr. Voorhees stated that the President had been sustained in the Senate, and this he repeated mid cries of "order"—"order"—from the opposite side of the chamber.

Mr. Voorhees, by general consent, made a proposition. He said he had been here long enough to know there was no amuse ment or profit by remaining here all night. He did not want to stay here, and presumed no other gentleman did, for nothing else but to gratify the asperities and passions of men over party resolutions. In this case an important resolution had been introduced by the gentleman from Pennsylvania. He had read it simply by going to the Clerk's desk. It involved great and fundamental principles. He proposed, but not for any partisan purposes, that the resolution be printed and laid on the desks of members, and that to-morrow his side of the House may have an hour to speak upon it, and that the other side enjoy the same privilege.

Mr. Spaulding (Ohio) thought the proposition unreasonable, and objected to it. Mr. Rogers asked whether the majority would give the minority any timeatall, but was answered by calls "to order."

It was now nearly six o'clock, and the yeas and nays had been called fifteen times

The disposition of the House was to con tinue in session until a vote should be reached on the resolution, but this the minority continued seeking to prevent, unless some time was allowed to debate. Hence for delay, principally to adjourn, either till for delay, principally to adjourn, either till to-morrow or to some other day, and having one-fifth of the house, it was in their power to have the yeas and nays called, which they frequently did. The minority, about seven o'clock, yielded further opposition.

Mr. Stevens (Pa.) being entitled to the floor, gave five minutes of the time to Mr. Eldridge (Wis.), who said that, in view of the large majority on the other side it was the large majority on the other side, it was useless to make further opposition. They threw the responsibility of this measure on the majority.

Mr. Stevens replied, the gentleman accepted the condition just as Jefferson Davis did. [Laughter.] He could not help it. The few in the minority made an excellent fight; they had all had a harmonious even ing party.

Mr. Finck (Ohio) withdrew his motion that the resolution be laid upon the able, and under the operation of the previous question it was passed—yeas 109, nays 40.

Philadelphia and Southern Mail Steam-ship Company.

Last evening, at Sansom Street Hall, a meeting was held of the subscribers and all interested in the establishment of lines of steamships to Southern ports. This meeting was called in reference to the sum of $600,000 having been subscriped to the enterprise, and with the purpose of securing an addition of $400,000 to the capital stock. John Welsh, Esq., was called to the Chair, and George N. Allen was appointed Secre-

Mr. Ed. C. Knight offered the following-Whereas, The establishment of lines of steamships to the principal ports of the Southern States has become essential to the prosperity of Philadelphia; and Whereas, The subscriptions to a fund for that purpose now amounting to near $600,-000 are inadequate for the full development of the enterprise and its successful maintenance, therefore,

Resolved, That we deem it of urgent importance that subscriptions be obtained in-creasing the capital stock of the Philadel-phia and Southern Mail Steamship Company to one million of dollars, and recom-mend that such measures be adopted on the organization of the Company, soon to take place, as will secure that amount. Resolved, That we regard the enterprise as one deeply involving the future success of our business community, and without it of our business community, and without it a large and valuable trade will be lost to us. We therefore urge upon manufacturers, merchants, artisans and owners of real estate to promptly come forward and sustain it with their means and personal co-operation.

Resolved, That we earnestly solicit large subscriptions to the stock by the railroads insurance and other corporate companies of Philadelphia, whose success is dependent on that of our commercial and manufacturing interest, and who are authorized in express terms by the liberal charter recently granted by the Legislature of Pennsylvania to subscribe for and hold any number of shares of the capital stock of the company.

Mr. Cattell seconded the resolutions, and advocated the establishment of a permanent commerce. Philadelphia held one of the best commercial positions in the country, had great and unsurpassable wealth of iron and coal, and had built up an aggregate of manufacturing establishments that would enable her to supply the whole country. In no better mode could $1,000,000 be invested than in developing an interchange of products with the South. Throughout the terrible devastations of the last four years the industry of Philadelphia was undistrible devastations. turbed, and she offered shelter and employment to all. Philadelphia has great natural and acquired facilities. She only needs steam communication with the South and with Europe; and to guarantee the success of the latter, the former must be secured. .We never in the past lacked the means to supply outward freight to the European steamers, but we had not the supplies of Southern produce to complete the cargoes. Every steamer needs a certain portion of heavy cargo, but after having obtained that, it is most profitable to complete the cargo with light freights. To obtain these, even at the present time, Mr. McHenry's stoamers sail partly laden from this port to New York, at an expense of several thousand dollars to obtain the balance of more profitable car-

Mr. Cattell adverted to the fact that it was not now proposed to build luxurious steamers for passenger travel, but comfortable, fast propellers for the standard trade. If the steamers were profitably and rightly managed they must pay; but beyond the mere dollar and cent view, the cost, if any, would be repaid manifold by the enhanced value given to all the industries of Phila-delphia. The field is now open for our enterprise, and there never was such a favoraole opportunity for the extension of Philadelphia commerce.

Mr. Rene Guillou humorously portrayed the advantages to be achieved by the pre-sent enterprise. He felt it should be considered not only a necessity, but a privilege to participate in the subscription. five Southern ports with which it is pro-posed for Philadelphia to communicate, New York has now thirty-five steam propellers.

By the income returns, the profits of our citizens are shown to be but one-third less than those given in New York, thus reveal-ing that our city has abundance of capital to use. The amount of goods that are being constantly transported from Philadelphia to New York, to be transhipped South, is really enormous, and would astonish all if figures could be shown. The West is extending her facilities for manufacturing, so that within twenty years you will find our markets closed in that district. The South alone appears to furnish an opening to balance this loss, and if it is not obtained at present it never will be.

Mr. George N. Allen, Secretary, stated that the subscriptions were about $570,000. He read a letter from William Sellers & Co. increasing their subscription from $5,000 to $10,000, and a letter from Asa Whitney & Sons, increasing their subscription to $10,

Mr. Souder moved that the Committee on Manufactures be increased, which was Mr, Henry Winsor, agent of New York and Boston line of steamers, doubled his original subscription of $5,000. Massey, Collins & Co. doubled theirs, and individually Mr. Massey gave $2,500 more. Mr. Bazin increased his $2,500 to complete the required capital of $600,000. Mr. Allen, on the part of his committee, gave $1,000, and for the Jeweler's Association, $500. James C. Hand & Co. gave $2,000 additional making $5,000.

Several gentlemen adverted in glad terms to the success attending the enterprise, and declared they believed there was the dawn-ing of a brighter day for Philadelphia. After the announcement that on this (Wednesday) evening a meeting would be held to organize the Company, in accordance with the charter, at the Board of Trade Rooms, the meeting adjourned.

Board of Trade.

The first stated meeting of the newly elected Executive Council took place on Monday evening, 19th inst., with a full attendance, President Welsh in the chair. A communication was received from the Department of State at Washington, inclosing the correspondence with France in regard to the Paris Exhibition, and a plan of the building and a view of the ground, which was referred to a committee of five together with a letter from the New York Chamber with a letter from the New York Chamber of Commerce, on the same subject. A resolution was passed recommending the application of the officers of the navy for increase of pay to the favorable consideration of Congress.

On motion of Mr. Fraley, a preamble and On Mr. Fraley, a preamble resolutions were adopted to the effect that, as the funded debt of Pennsylvania is shown to be $37,471,663 36, of which the amount over due is $24,481,056 28, and the State, at a moment of great financial neces sity, imposed a tax upon her own loans, which necessity no longer exists, that the Legislature be therefore requested to remove this great cause of dissatisfaction, by the creation of a new five per cent, loan, pay able at such periods as may suit the financial convenience of the State, and free from State tax, to be issued in exchange for the existing loans of the State, at the pleasure of the holders thereof; and that a committee be appointed to place the matter before the Governor and the Legislature and to sek their coult and the Legislature, and to ask their early and favorable consideration of it. The standing committees for the year were then announced by the Chair as follows: Lights and Harbors—Tatham, Hand and Wetherill. Inland Transportation—Fraley, Buzby, Stokes, Townsend and Sparhawk. River Fronts-Merrick, Souder, Butcher, Grubb, McCammon and Patterson. Finance—Wheeler, Marshall and Campbell. On League Island Navy Yard—Tatham, Buzby, Hand and H. M. Watts. Adjourned.
