Homeopathy, and he urged that "the greatest good of the greatest number" demanded the freedom of thought and investigation into medical truth which is afforded under the Homeopathetic system. After speaking of the opposition encountered from the partisans of the allopathic system, he said: The Homeopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania acts under the same authority, equal in a amount and originating from the self-same source, with that vested in the other medical corporations. And the Degree of Doctor of Medicine here conferred is as truly valid as that of any other Medical College in the country. And in addition to the knowledge of the Science and Art of Medicine in general, which our diploma certifies to as amply as any other, it proves that its holder possesses also a competent knowledge of the principles and practice of Homeopathic Medicine. Since Medicine is to be taught and practised principally for the benefit of the people, it becomes the interest, right and duty of each individual citizen to inquire into the comparative merits of the various Medical Systems, and to choose between them for himself. And in this most important respect we differ from those of the Old School, who contend for what they consider the exclusive privileges and vested rights of an established craft, and who hold that the people have no right to inquire into the myste ries of Medical Science: that they themselves have all the right to command in the premises, and that the people have only the right to obey—the sole privilege of implicit, unquestioning submission.

The Professor maintained that the Allopathic principle was aristocratic, but that revolutions never go backwards, and that the Homocopathic system would succeed. In the army and navy the practitioners of this school would yet be admitted, though so far they had been kept out and insulted by the domineering Allopathists. Address-ing the graduating class, he said: Upon the banner under which you now enter the con-test, you see inscribed: The Law of the Similars; The Single Remedy; and the Minimum Dose. This was the banner unfurled by Hah-Under this banner his di have gained unparalleled success. And this same banner, if you but follow it faithfully, will most assuredly lead you to victory over disease, and to triumph over your opponents. The Profe position of the Republic of the United States sa the home of free thought and free political action. He said: As a Republic, we shall finally see our example followed by the other nations; see them consign the shackles of the slaves, the crowns of the ty rants and the badges of the privileged classes to the museum of antiquities, there to keep company with the silver shrines of Ephesus and the mummies of Egypt!

And as Homceopathists, as the representatives of the Republican principle medical world, we shall finally see added to these antiquarian curiosities, the emetics and cathartics, the diuretics and tonics, the iron pills and the blister plaster, the lancet and the cupping glasses, which were the follies and the bane of former generations. And we shall see the people themselves, enlightened by the followers of Hahnemann, emancipated from their medica tyrants and oppressors, and rejoicing in the beneficent results of their newly chosen tlemen:-In order that you may well and bravely accomplish your part in this glorious work, see to it that you are not alglorious work, see to it that you are not allured by the decaying grandeur of the Old School, or misled by short-sighted or pretending friends of Homeopathy to degrade our noble system, by attempting to render it acceptable to the opponents of liberty and progress. See to it that you do not undermine the cause you seek to serve, by subjecting it to fatal compromise of its fundamental principles! Such are the duties you assume to-day inties which you owe to the honor of the profession of which you now become members, and duties which you owe also to the People, by whose agents you are honored as physicians. And just in proportion as you faithfully discharge these duties, will the people still further honor and confirm the acts of their agents here to-day. And while thus becoming, in the iterests of humanity, the beneficent, practical defenders of the School which represents Republicanism in Medicine, you will be none the less devoted to the welfare and prosperity of this great Republic itself. May you ever prove watchful and zealous in the use of all proper means to preserve the glorious-institutions of this Land of Liberty. May you ever be found ready to meet and disarm the enemies of our common country.

The first sentence in the "Organon of the Healing Art," is: "The first and sole duty of the Physician is to heal the sick." And upon the full understanding and appreciation of this single sentence depend the further understanding and correct application of principles as important, as little under-stood and as liable to be misrepresented, as were the principles involved in that first sentence of the Bill of Rights, "all men are created free and equal." Seek then to preserve unstained the Hahnemannian standard of Homœopathy; as this nation has proudly redeemed the glory of its flag. Support then, the one as you do the other. with faithful adherence to the principles which each represents. Emblems of political as of medical liberty, they mutually strengthen each other. For where all the institutions are free, undisturbed by privileged classes, there will a free government best succeed; and where the govern ment is free, there true medical liberty and progress will most surely flourish.

And as you will not allow a single star to be plucked from your National flag—so neither will you permit either of the legends emblazoned upon your medical standard to he obscured or effaced. But as you strive to add new stars to the national galaxy, so will you also seek to render these funda-mental principles more universal in their adoption, and more glorious in their application; as you prove faithful to these great principles, so will you prosper in your newly acquired profession; and as you are thus faithful and prosperous, so will you become benefactors of the people, whose cation; as you prove faithful to these great principles, so will you prosper in your newly acquired profession; and as you are thus faithful and prosperous, so will you trusts you accept and whose honors you And now, in my own name and in the name of my colleagues, let me bid you,—as taithful followers of the illustrious founder f Homocopathy,-an affectionate farewell.

THE BROAD STREET RAILROAD .- A meeting of the Committee on Law, was held, last evening, in the Select Council Chamber, to hear parties for and against the proposed improvement of Broad Street, and the re-moval of the tracks from that thoroughfare. Mr. Geo. L. Busby, who represented the Corn Exchange Association, spoke at length in opposition to the measure. During his remarks he gave the following statement of he number of cars which have passed over the road, on Broad street, during three Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, 1,500 cars, each carrying nine tons, making a total of 13,500 tons. Reading Railroad,2,252 eight-wheeled cars, carrying 18,000 tons of merchandise, and 12,667 cars, carrying 66,365 tons of coal. Pennsylvania Railroad, 3,199 eight-wheeled cars, carrying 25,000 tons of merchandise; besides some 25,000 tons carried in cars be-longing to the West Chester, Germantown & Norristown Railroads, making an aggregate for three months of 145,000 tons, or

Mr. McMurtrie said that those who had invested their money in the railway on North Broad street, authorized by the Le-gislature, would ask of Councils to refund the amount expended if this bill should

Mr. Howard appeared on behalf of those who have petitioned for the passage of the bill. He contended that Broad street should be freed from railroads, and an opportunity afforded persons to improve it, by the erec tion of costly buildings, &c. The improvements north and south of the tracks is an evidence of what Broad street would be come if the bill now before the committee should become a law. He said that a large majority of the owners of property on the street are in favor of the removal of the

THE WESTERN MARCH OF BUSINESS-HENKELS'S NEW FURNITURE WAREROOMS. -Not many years since the two mansions nearest the northwestern corner of Thir teenth and Chestnut streets, belonging to the Fotteral estate, were regarded as among the most splendid private residences in the city. A change has, however, come over these fine mansions, which is attributable to the western advance of business along the fashionable thoroughfare. Mr. George J. Henkels, the extensive manufacturer of fine furniture, has taken possession of these I two spacious buildings, and has thrown them into one. He has, with a surprising degree of unique taste, so arranged the various apartments on each floor as to give a better effect than if each floor was thrown into a single bare apartment, and the graceful arches which intersect the rooms give a peculiarly graceful look to the entire establishment. On a visit vesterday, we found the finishing touches yesterday, we found the miniming touches in the way of painting, glazing, decoration, &c., being given, under the personal supervision of Mr. Henkels, and everything in a state of forwardness for the grand opening. Owing to the improvements made, the display of furniture will be unusually fine, and buyers will have especial facilities for judging of the fitness of certain kinds of furniture for their parlors, reception rooms, bed rooms, dining rooms, &c. Mr. Henkels has won a very high reputation as a manufacturer of the best and most tashionable furniture in increase his fame largely. We learn that during the summer he will probably erect on the lot in the rear of his establishment, a four-story building, expressly for the display of sets of furniture. Rooms will be fitted up so as to show off different styles of articles, and the purchaser can then judge how they will accord with apartments of various sizes and adornments. No building improvement has recently been made in the city which reflects greater credit on its projector than that of Mr. Henkels.

THE SPRING GARDEN NIGHT SCHOOL, under the Institute, which has been in successful operation for several years past, at the Northeast corner of Broad and Spring Garden Streets, under the patronage of James D. Whetham, Esq., and the Young Men's Institute, closed for the season, last evening, having been in session since the 1st of November last. During the term, eighty young men and boys have received instruc-tion at this School, five evening's in each week, under the tuition of E. M. Huntington, Principal, assisted by Professor Beal, of the High School, who has devoted one evening of each week in giving instruction in Drawing. The uniform snd punctual attendance of the scholars, denotes the interest and eagerness of the vouths of this vicinity to profit and improve the opportu-nities so liberally and generously afforded by the persons above named. The closing exercises were attended by numerous friends of the cause, and eloquent and per-tinent speeches were made by James D. Whetham, Esq., William Welsh, Esq., President of the Young Men's Institute, Samuel Wright, Esq., William T. Aldrich, Esq., Professor Beal, George W. Gorton, Esq., and Professor E. M. Huntington.

APPRENTICES' EVENING SCHOOL.-The Apprentices' Evening School, held at the Spring Garden Institute, closed its sessions for the winter last evening. Interesting reports from the Principal, E. M. Huntington, and J. B. Beale, of the Central High School, Professor of Drawing, were presented and read and were highly satisfactory. Excellent addresses were made by James D. Whetham, Esq., its honored patron, Wm. Welsh, Esq., President of the Young Men's Institute of this city, and several other gentleman. The prominent topics of the addresses to the lads and apprentices were to make a good use of time; always to have the profoundest regard for truth; to discard in every particular the low and vulgar habit of profanity; not to indulge in the filthy habits of using tobacco in any of its forms, or any species of intemperance; and always to have and manifest an exalted regard for parents, especially mothers; if these particulars were carried out no young man could scarcely fail to make his mark in the world, and as he came on the stage of action, he would become a highly honorable and RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS. - Deborah MacAndrews was arraigned before Ald. Beitler yesterday afternoon, charged with receiving stolen goods. It seems that a barrel of vinegar and one of syrup molasses, stolen from the store of Perry & Co., South Front street, were recovered by Detective Lamon at the house of the accused. The prisoner, in defence, states that she pur-chased one barrel from a man who is now in prison, and the other she bought at the place where she has been in the habit of dealing. She was bound over for trial.
