[CONCLUDED.]

"Young gentleman," said Rosalie's father, addressing her. lover, "It does, indeed, appear that I have hitherto underrated you." After again surveying the youth, who now, clad in handsome and fashionable attire, presented the most elegant figure imaginable the old gentleman added: "Your appearance is that of one who will do credit to our family, and, therefore, I will no longer reject your aut for my daughter's hand." With exstatic joy did the young man now bless the good sense of his Rosalie in directing him to the only place where, for a moderate sum, he could pro-[CONCLUDED.] only place where, for a moderate sum, he could pro only place where, for a mouetace, or a concessor a handsome suit, namely:

EVENING BULLETIN. WEDNESDAY. MARCH 14, 1866.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

The political campaign of 1866 opens with a brilliant victory for the Republican party. New Hampshire, which used to be one of the mainstays of the old-fashioned Democracy, has re-elected her faithful Governor, and chosen a new Legislature, largely Republican. Whatever hopes the copperheads may have had of dissension among the Union men, in consequence of the difference of opinion between the President and the majority in Congress, must be destroyed by this and other signs of the times. The people of the States always loyal mean to stand by the principles for which they fought the late war, and they will sustain their representatives in all proper measures for securing the fruits of their victory. Let the Union men of Pennsyivania take new courage from the victory of their brethren in New Hampshire. We have a good while to work in, but it is not too early yet to organize, for our candidate, the gallant Geary.

GOING BATHER TOO FAR.

The conduct of England and of its Canadian dependencies towards the United States, during the rebellion, was so unfriendly and infamous that the American people care but little to what extent they are annoyed and distressed by the Fenian demonstration now in progress upon our own soil. We are perfectly willing that the Fenians shall talk as much as they please and de- Some are dangerously near to combusnounce England and the Saxons in the most peppery of town meeting resolves: but we are not content that our government shall be involved in the movement in any way, even by implication. On Saturday next, the birthday of St. Patrick, is to be celebrated, in New York, by a grand Fenian procession. Nobody questions the right of the Fenians to parade on St. Patrick's or any other day; but we see it stated that Colonel O'Mahoney has ordered out a regiment of New York State militia (composed of Irishmen) to take part in the demonstration, and we greatly question the propriety of any such step. The members of the 99th regiment have the right to parade as much as they please upon their own private account; but when they turn out as a State military organization, wearing uniforms furnished by the State, and carrying muskets from the State arsenal, we submit that it is carrying things a little too far for them to appear thus in a Fenian demonstration. The people of the United States care very little how much private individuals annoy England or Canada; but they want no breaches of an honorable neutrality and no involving of the State or National Governments in Fenian movements either by direct act or by implication.

CONGRESSMAN BANKS. The military career of Nathaniel P. Banks was a failure. Returned to his proper sphere, he is the same brilliant, wise, patriotic statesman that possessed the admiration and confidence of the whole country, before he committed the blunder of aspiring to be a general. In the House of Representatives at Washington, yesterday, he delivered a speech in Committee of the Whole, that seems to have created a more genuine sensation of cordial and unanimous approbation, than any that has been heard in the capitol during the session. The question was on an appropriation for the American department in the Paris Exposition of 1867. There was an unexpected opposition to it from Mr. Washburne, of Illinois. Mr. Banks, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, then rose, and apparently without preparation, spoke with an eloquence and patriotic fervor that seem to have thrilled his auditors. His hour having expired he sat down, but he was urged to go on, and he did go on in the same exalted strain, and when he concluded the members would listen to no one else, and the committee rose. The telegraphic report of the speech, imperfect as it must be, is still sufficient to show what a noble effort of oratory it must have been, and we hope none of our readers will neglect to peruse it carefuly. It may stimulate our national pride, perhaps; but it will help to reconcile us to the sacrifices made to secure our present position among the nations of the earth. The speech, reported in full, will, we hope, be extensively circulated in Europe. It will make a great impression there, and we believe that it, and similar productions, will do more for the vindication of Republican principles, and especially of the Monroe doctrine, than diplomacy, or even war, could ever do. We con-

of General Banks. CLEANING THE STREETS. Messrs. Bickley, Smith & Hill have commenced a work that deserves to rank with the heaviest of the labors of Hercules. The streets of Philadelphia are covered with the dirt which has been accumulating for five or six months, and to say that most of them are dirty, very dirty, is to use very mild language in stating a very disgusting fact. The scavengers have commenced work under the contract recently made by Mayor McMichael, and very properly they are first turning their attention to the more obscure streets and lanes where dirt gathers more rapidly than in more reputable parts of the city, and where pestilence is most prone to breed and develop itself. Some of the streets in the Fourth and Fifth Wards are in a frightfully filthy condition, and for two or three days men have been busy plying scraper and broom in getting rid of the vast deposits of dirt. We hope the worst of the dirt may be got out of the streets before warm weather is upon us to distil miasma and pestilence from filthy pavements and reeking kennels.

DOWN WITH THE CITY BAILROAD FARES. Gold and horse feed have gone down; horses have declined in price, and every item of expenditure of the city railroad companies has been very much reduced. They are earning enormous dividends on a capital great part of which is fictitious. They have almost the monopoly of our streets; they make them intolerable with briny slush in the worst winter weather, and they refuse to put the pavements in repair in the spring, yet they charge forty per cent. more for a ride in their cars than the New York companies do. In New York the fare is fixed at five cents by law, and the roads are very profitable. Well informed persons believe that, in the present condi-tion of prices of all things, our roads would earn more at five cents than at seven cents a fare. Will not Councils, so as to make sure of a rousing triumph or the Legislature, or the Board of Presidents themselves, determine that the fare hereafter shall be fixed at five cents?

PANICIN A SCHOOL HOUSE. There was a panic in a public school house, in the upper part of the city, yesterday, caused by the overturning of a stove and a consequent alarm of fire. While some of our public school houses are noble structures, well fitted to the purposes to which they are applied, too many of them are entirely unfit for use. tible property, such as stables and carpenter shops, and in the case of one in the Twelfth Ward, children occupy rooms upon the first, second and third floors, where a portion of the building is immediately over a stable. The probable consequences of a fire breaking out there would be terrible. There should be a reform in such cases as we have referred to.

Slow of Belief. "We are slow to believe in the efficacy of new reme dies which are offered to the public, but the frequent testimony of clergymen and others of our acquaintance has convinced us that Dr. Colton, whose office is at Cooper Institute, has at last found a means of extracting teeth absolutely without pain."—N. Y. Evangelie. geliat.
Dr. Colton's Philadelphia office is at 737 Walnut street, where the Nitrons Oxide is always fresh, and teeth are extracted without pain or no pay.
