A Young Woman Killed—The Murderer in Custody.

[From the Boston Post, of yesterday.] Mary Ellen Kearney, a young woman about 19 years of age, daughter of Patrick about 19 years of age, daughter of Patrick Kearney, living at 93 Tremont street, Rox-bury, was instantly shot dead, Monday-evening, by John Moran. It appears that Moran had been acquainted with Miss Kearney for some time, and had kept com-pany with her, but her father forbid any further intercourse on account of his bad character. In retaliation Moran then circulated reports derogatory to the characcirculated reports derogatory to the character of the young woman. The latter sought Moran at his residence, Cottage place, and while in his room, waiting for him, picked up a letter from the floor, directed to Moron, up a letter from the floor, directed to Moron, the purport of which was that he had been engaged with a companion, named Malloy, in committing a robbery in Philadelphia last fall or summer, by the garroting process, the victim of which soon after died, Malloy retaining the proceeds, and Moran fleeing North. On his return he asked her if she had read the letter, and she said she had, and told him she hoped he was not written of the crime there snoken of Flee nad, and told him she hoped he was not guilty of the crime there spoken of. He did not answer, but snatched the letter from her hands and put it in the fire. He then went out to walk with her, and when in a retired spot he made her takela solemn oath never to reveal the contents of the latter on rain of immediate dooth. He the latter on pain of immediate death. He had a revolver with him, and threatened to shoot her at the time. She took the re-quired oath and returned to her home, but dured oath and returned to her home, but being apprehensive for her safety, she last Sundey evening, knowing that an oath under such circumstances was not binding, revealed the contents of the letter and the threats made by Moran. He prowled about Kearney's house for several days, and on Monday evening made hold to knock at the door. The young woman opened the same, before a word was spoken Moran discharged a pistol, and Mis Kearney staggered to the door of the kitchen and fell to the floor, crying, "Oh! aunt I am killed." She died instantly.

Sunday evening Miss Kearney told her father that she wanted to have an interview with him. Her father (who had noticed that she had looked very low spirited du-ring the day) immediately went into the parlor with her when she told him in substance the following: Lately I had heard that stories had been circulated about me, by John Moran, but for what reason I could not tell, and on last Saturday evening I went to Moran's house to upbraid and expostulate with him for telling the stories. I went to his father's house (John Moran lives with his father) and was shown into the parlor. Moran not being in, as I entered, I noticed an open letter upon the table, which immediately attracted my attention. I picked it up and read it. It was from a man named Malloy. in Philadelphia,—and was addressed to John Moran, telling him that the man they (meaning Moran and himself,) had garroted in Philadelphia hed died from the injuries he had received, and telling the amount of money made by the operation, and also telling Moran to keep dark. While I was read this letter Moran came in, and when he saw that I had the letter in my hand he saked me if I had read it. I told him I had, but I hoped he was not guilty. He snatched the letter from my hand and threw it into the stove, telling me that he would murder me if I eyer revealed what was in that letter. He then made me take a solemn oath that I would never as long as I lived ever reveal it. It has been troubling my conscience ever since and I thought a bad oath was "better broken than kept." Her father told her to keep in the house as much as possible, as Moran always carried weapons with him, and as he was a very bad character, he might injure her. Monday evening her father, Patrick Kearney, received a message from a neighbor, named Cassidy, asking him to come to his house, as his child was dwing. On his way to Cass as his child was dying. On his way to Cassidy's house, Kearney observed Moran dodge he had passed the alley, when he turned suddenly round and saw Moran looking at him. He stayed at Cassidy's a short time, and when he returned to his house found his daughter murdered. Moran had been seen walking up and down the opposite side of the street during the day, and it is supposed that he was waiting for Mr. Kearney to leave the house. When he saw him leave the house, add knowing that there was only Ellen Kearney and her aunt in the house, he thought it would be a good chance to murder her, and thereby prevent her confessing. and when he returned to his house found her confessing.

Moran has been working in Grover & Baker's sewing machine manufactory, and he left there about a week ago. After shooting his victim, he fled, but yesterday morning he entered the office of the Chief of Police & Kurtz, in Boston and delivered. Police Kurtz, in Boston, and delivered himself up to justice. During the forenoon, he was delivered into the custody of the Roxbury Police, where he now is. Moran is 20 years old, and is anything but communicative about the sad efficient 20 years old, and is anything but communicative about the sad affair.

Coroner Ira Allen, M.D., has summoned a jury of inquest, and in conjunction with Drs. Mann and Warren, yesterday held an autopsy of the body. The ball entered the side of the breast and passing across came out behind the opposite breast. The jury subsequently adjourned until Thursday afternoon, when they will meet in the Roxbury Police Court Room, at two o'clock.

Miss Kearney was of light complexion, with light hair, and blue eyes, was somewhat tall, and considered good looking. She was of irreproachable character, a faithful attendant ant on the ministrations of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and was be-loved by all who knew her. Her aunt and were inmates of the same house. Mo-uncle were inmates of the same house. Moran's character is bad, and among his closest companions were a pistol and a dirk.

Up to last evening nothing further as to the motive of Moran for committing the deed had been developed. Heappears disinclined to talk, and evidently begins to realize the position into which his crime has precipitated him. The friends of the murdered woman manifest great sympathy for her afficted family.

HANDSOME IMPROVEMENT ON THIRD STREET.—The newest and most attractive object to the denizens and visitants to Third street, where financial men most do congregate, is the new banking house of the well known and energetic firm of Work, Grabam & Co. It is located at No. 48 South Third, a few doors above Chesinut, and just at the heart of financial operations. Banking houses in front and on both fiants welcome the new editice, and it is so ornamental a feature of the square, that no brown atone or marble edifice could put it out of countenance. The front is of iron, in imitation of stone, and the architectural design, including the cornice, window frames, &c., is remarkably graceful and elegant. The entire front of the lower floor is occupied by wainnt doors, through which an abundant flood of light enters the establishment, the dors having large and beautiful paned of glass set in them. In sky light, and at the rear of the apartment here is another skylight, through which the sun throws its beams profusely. Though for size the office is a byout the entre of the room on the lower floor horses, not an inch of space is lost, from the tasteric counter in front to the Nault in the extreme rear Drawers, and tan inch of space is lost, from the tasteric counter in front to the Nault in the extreme rear Drawers, as to afford the utmost amount of account on arranged that room is ample, while at the same time it takes up a very trifing amount of space. An iron stairway leading to the upper stories, is also bulk so so to take up for the use of the obok-keepers of the concern, and the stories above will also be occupied by the firm The heating apparatus is a model in its way, and we can think of no neat and graceful detail which has been sighted. In the mesin room of the banking house there is some remarkably fine freescings, around the walks and along the curve below the frame of the principal skylight. It will repay examination by the most critical eye. Messrs. Work, Graham & Co, may well be prond of their new quarters, and HANDSOME IMPROVEMENT ON THIRD

PRISON AGENT'S REPORT,-Mr. William

PRISON AGENT'S REPORT.—Mr. William J. Mullen, Prison Agent, is his twelfth annual report, is states that during the year he has succeeded in liberating from prison 1,410 persons. Of this number, there were 728 males, 69 females, and 73 children. They were liberated at a cost of $257 10, paid to magistrates and other officials. There were over 2,500 cases investigated, and more than 500 letters have been written and mailed on account of prisoners during the year. The parties were all committed for Court, but an impartial and searching examination showed that, in the majority of these cases, the imprisonment was unnecessary, while, in many instances, it was cruel and oppressive. The liberation of the persons referred to was a saving to the county within the year of the sum of $17,1476, of which $8,178 would have been paid for ignering their cases, at $50 each, and $3,956 70, which their maintenance would have cost had they been detained in prison until the earliest period in the term of the Court for disposing of their cases.

FUEL.—It is said that in Wisconsin a new stricte of fuel has been discovered. This substance is different in formations and colors. Some of it, where it lies nearest the surface, resembles blue slate, and is middling hard, so that it can be worked more speedily by blasting, but as it gets deeper in the ridge, it changes its color and texture. It becomes of a deep brown, and so soft that it can be easily worked with at pck, and is much richer. When exposed to the air, it becomes of a dull, brown color. When, dried a little, and broken into thin scales, it can be lighted by a watch, slmost as easily as a candle. The odor arising from it while burning resembles that produced by kerosene. VOTE DIRECT FOR THE PRESIDENT AND VOTE DIRECT FOR THE PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT—Mr. Howe presented a petition in the Senate yesterday for an amendment to the Constitution, to regulate the choosing of President and Vice President by a direct vote, without the Electoral College. New Jersey Matters.

NEW JERSEY CONFERENCE—SECOND DAY.—The Conference was called to order at $1'_2$ o'clock on Thusaday morning, by Bishop Scott, when a portion of the Scripture (Romans 12) was read a hymn sung, and the usual prayer given. Calling of the roll was ispensed with. Mioutes read and approved. Rev. Dr. Strong, member of the Laymen's Convention, was introduced, and read a statement on lay legislation, which was quite interesting and which elicited considerable discussion. It was stated that the General Conference was willing to admit lay delegation, when properly satisfied on the subject.

Dr. Porter, who represents the Book Department, was introduced. Dr. Winner made some per inent remarks in reply to br. Strong, in reference to lay membership in the General Conference. He said that years ago, the General Conference had taken a vote upon that question, and had expressed an opinion adverse to admissions. The Doctor was willing to meet delegations of laymen from anywhere, discuss these questions with them in an open field, and "fisg them all."

Dr. Porter, of New York, made a strong and nower-NEW JERSEY CONFERENCE-SECOND delegations of laymen from anywhere, discuss these questions with them in an open field, and "fig them all."

Dr. Porter, of New York, made a strong and powerful argument against the admission of lay representation, citing the agitation on the same subject which led to the formation of the organization of the Method at Protestant Church, several years since. He was willing to refer the whole subject to a decision of the people, or the members of the church, including the isdies, to say whether they are willing to make so important an alteration in the government of the church instead of by obtaining an expression by petition. Dr. Porter's remarks were favorably received, and veryoften met with considerable appianus. He wished to keep the church which had run for a hund ed years, together, and work in perfect harmony. Will the brethren keep it running another hundred years? He wanted to die in the church—it was the cest in the world—and he wanted no alteration in its government. The "Steward's Call" was made the order for ten o'clock, and at the arrival of that hour the Conference went into the disposition of that business. The different districts and churches rulsed more than the amount assessed adding the superannusted members of the Conference, who had been worn out in the ministerial service. This collection and assessment are made every year, and amounts in the aggregate to a handsome sum. This occupied the attention of the Conference until nearly 12 o'clock, the hour fixed for adjournment.
