DAWKINS'S MISHAP. Dawkins came home one night quite late, And some say "flustered" sadly; He leaned his back against the grate. And corched his coat right badly.

However, he brushed it up next night, And unto a ball did go: Says he: "But few can tell; by sight, Whether cloth is scorched or no" But, soon as his first bow he tried,

A terrible rent did yawn, And the amused spectators cried,
"To Bennett's you should have gone."

BENNETT & CO.

THE DELAY. BY L. D. BABBOUE. Down the long and narrow street In winter snow and summer heat, I have watched the whole year through, Waiting patiently for you; When the wind blew cold and bleak, Often with my lips and cheek I have thawed the frost away From the window all the day, Caring not for outward pain Could I meet thy smile again.
I have thought, when April rain Pattered on the window pane. When my listening ear was drowned In soft music of the sound, The sweet influence of Spring Surely his return will bring; But no ring of manly feet Echoed through the narrow street; His excuse, I think, will be, When again he comes to me: In my way, a perfect bar,

In my way, a perfect par,

Was the crowd around the "STAB,"

Where since I have spell bound stood,
To buy these clothes, so cheap and good,
N. B.—Goods having depreciated in value, and the proprietors of the "STAR" having bought since the de cline, they are of course enabled to sell lower than those houses encumbered with such immense stocks

EVENING BULLETIN. SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1866.

HONORABLE STOCKTON. It was decided in the Senate, yesterday, that Mr. John P. Stockton is one of the "Honorables" of that body. In fact Mr. Stockton decided it himself, and who should know about it better than he? Grave doubts were entertained as to the legality of his election, and Mr. Stockton very properly declined to enter the jury-box, or to sit in judgment upon his own case, until it was suddenly revealed to him that his head was tottering on his shoulders, and that he was about to be retired to the shades of New Jersey by a tie vote. Straightway the instincts of his party were aroused, and without a blush, so far as we can gather from the telegraphic report, he recorded his vote for himself, and became an "Honorable" in due form of law.

The abstract question of Mr. Stockton's election was a fair ground of difference, and therefore we see that several good Union Senators showed their independence by voting in favor of Mr. Stockton's admission, This liberty of independent action which we, not unfrequently, see exercised by the Union side of the house, is not allowed in the ranks of the Democratic faithful, and therefore that interesting little body went as usual in a unit on the party question. It is a convenient rule of discipline, and saves these honorable gentlemen a deal of thinking. We only make the point involved by the delicate good taste of Mr. Stockton in voting himself into the Senate, where his right to a seat was, to say the least, so exceedingly doubtful.

BROAD STREET.

The bill for the improvement of Broad street, by removing the railroad tracks, has now passed both houses of the Legislature, by large majorities. The opposition to it, although not very extended, was very strenuous. But the wishes of the vast majority of the people, and the formal and earnest demand. of the City Councils, prevailed, and we thank the two Honses for one of the best pieces of legislation, in which Philadelphia is especially concerned, that they have accorded us since the consolidation act was passed. By the provisions of the act, ample time is afforded to all coal dealers, and others doing business requiring freightrailroads to move to other and more convenient localities. But by the end of three years, at farthest, we expect to see the rails wholly removed, the pavement very much improved, and new and splendid public and private buildings going up all along this mag-even those who opposed the passage of the bill, will acknowledge that they were wrong, and that they, in common with the rest of the community, are gainers by the change.

THE BUILDING SEASON.

Despite the demand for stores and dwellings there are comparatively but few heavy building operations in progress. There are several large business structures in progress or projected, and some operations are going forward in the way of improving new sections of the city by the erection of dwellings; but all that is doing in this line is in a small and feeble way, when the wants of the community in respect to new stores, and more numerous houses for the people, are taken into consideration. The reasons for this condition of things are obvious. The high cost of material; the heavy rates of compensation demanded by mechanics; the uncertainty caused by constant agitations among working people concerning wages and the hours of labor; and last, but not least, the onerous burthens imposed by municipal taxation being levied almost exclusively upon real estate, are among the principal reasons why building operations are not fully up to the demands of the season. There will be but few stores or dwellings erected this spring as mere investments or for speculative purposes. Capitalists generally believe they can use their means more profitably in other channels: the owners of property that needs modernizing, put off their improvements until cheaper times come around; and where changes are imperatively demanded, property holders content themselves with altering their old buildings instead of demolishing them in toto, and replacing them with new structurés.

It would be well for mechanics to look at things as they are, and to reflect whether by resisting the downward tendency of prices, as regards their own wages, they are not injuring themselves by bringing about enforced idleness, keeping up rents to their own directand indirect disadvantage, and retarding the prosperity of the community of which they are members. These things are worth thinking about. As regards the policy of levying municipal taxes upon real estate alone, we have frequently given our opinion and we have nothing to add to our oft repeated expressions of a conviction of the unfairness and injustice of the system. MR. VAUX ON THE WAR PATH. The Democratic politicians being campaign, they have sent for Hon.

hard up for orators for the Connecticut Richard Vaux, who, somehow or other, has been quietly dropped by the Fenians. So he has gone to make speeches in the nutmeg State, carrying a head filled with solid chunks of wisdom, and covered with ambrosial curls. When he shakes his curls, and hurls out wisdom to the nutmegs, there will be consternation in the ranks of the Republicans. Speaking of Vaux, his magnificent style is missing from the annual report of the Board of Directors of Girard College, this year. Mr. Charles E. Lex, having been elected President, we have a plain, well written, scholarly and sensible report, which is refreshing after the long series of bombastic and senseless annuals that the Girard Estate had to print during the Presidency of Mr. Vaux. He ought to read these reports to the Connecticut Democracy. They would throw as much light on the reconstruction question as they ever did on anything else.

Death of General Williams.

The telegraph announces the death of Brevet Major-General Seth Williams, at his brother's residence, in Boston. General Williams was a native of Maine, and graduated at West Point in 1842. He served with much distinction in the Mexican war, and was brevetted captain for gallant conduet at Cerro Gordo. After that war he was assigned to the Adjutant-General's office, and upon the breaking out of the rebellion was appointed Adjutant-General of General McClellan's staff, a post which he filled with great ability throughout McClellan's career. General Williams's services were too valuable to be dispensed with, and he remained as chief of staff of the army of the Potomac, through its various mutations until the close of the war. His last assignment was to General Meade's staff in this Department, but failing health had prevented his entering actively upon his new duties. General Williams was not only a gallant and able soldier, but was distinguished for a modest amiability that made him one of the most popular officers in the army. An over-taxed brain has succumbed under the pressure of protracted official duties, and another distinguished name is added to the long list of the victims of the war. His death will be mourned by a host of friends who had learned to love him for his rare soldierly and personal qualities. He was forty-four years of age at the time of his death.

Pike's Opera House. In our hurriedly written note to the tele graphic despatch published in the BULLE-TIN yesterday, concerning the burning of Pike's Opera House, in Cincinnati, we fell into the error of confounding Pike's Opera House with Smith & Nixon's Hall. The writer of the note to the despatch has not been in Cincinnati since the Opera House was built, and he got the two institutions mixed up together. He discovered his error almost as soon as it was made, but it was too late to correct it. Such mistakes will occur in the best regulated newspaper PETERSON'S NEW PUBLICATIONS.-We call attention to the advertisement of Messrs. T. B. Peterson & Brothers, in today's paper. They publish new and handsome editions of Robert Folkstone William's famous Shakspeare novels, called "The Youth of Shakspeare," "Shakspeare and his Friends," and "The Secret Passion." It is quite a number of years since these entertaining volumes have been accessible, and the new editions will be gladly welcomed. On Wednesday next. Messrs. Peterson will publish the new and thrilling romance, by Mrs. Haywood, entitled "St. Martin's Eye," It is printed from the manuscript and advance sheets of the author. and the demand for it from the host of admirers of Mrs. Wood is already very great. There seems to be no decrease in the wonderful popularity of this writer's romances, for each new work is eagerly and impatiently sought after.

Earle's Sale of Pictures. Our readers are reminded that on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week Mr. B. Scott, Jr., will sell, at the Academy of Fine Arts, the fine collection of paintings advertised by Messrs. Earle & Sons on another page of this paper. PRUSPEC' US OF JACKSON SILVER MINING COMPANY OF COLORADO.

CAPITAL, $500,000.

10 PER SHARE.

Office, 431 Walnut street, Philadelphia.
First Floor, Front.

DIRECTORS,
James B. Thompson,
A. R. Horier,
John Wiest,
Wm. H. Wile.

In submitting the claims of this Company to the consideration of the public, the undersigned deem it necessary to state that is not their purpose to sell any more stock than just sufficient to procure the working capital to get their lode in successful work.

The "Jackson" lode is located on the side of McClellan Monnialn, Argentine District, Clear Creek working capital to get their lode in successful working order.

The "Jackson" lode is located on the side of McCleilan Monniain, Argentine District, Clear Greek Clein, Colorado. The lode consists of 1,600 fet in width, with perpendicular wall rock of pure granite, with facilities for tunneling, shatting, mill sites and water privileges, equal to, it not superior to any other lode in the Territory. It has been purchased of the original discoverer of the "liver in the district in which it is located, and the tile is indisputable

It is deemed unnecessary to refer to the already well established character-of the mineral wealth of Colorado. The testimony of Governor Gilpin, well known throughout Pennsy Ivanis and long a resident for the Territory, given to the Philadelphia Board of Tof the Territory, given to the Philadelphia Board of Tof the Territory, given to the Whiladelphia Board of Tortade in September 1881, is alone sufficient—to which, however, may also be added that of Mr. Eckfeldt, formerly of this city, and now supgerittendent of the branch Mint, of Colorado. Governor Alex, Cummings, in his mess get to the Legislature, after fully investigating the matter, says: "It is safe to assert that NOCOUNTRY IN THE WORLD can compare with Colorado in the bonders. Even the owners hardly realize the facts which the assays demonstrate; every ton ef quartz is rich in fre." That the "acated in reducing one of the most valuable borners. Even the owners hardly realize the facts which the assays demonstrate; every ton ef quartz is rich in ôre."

That the "Jackson" lode is one of the most valuable in the richness of its product of pure Silver, surpassing not only the most noted in California and Nevada, some of the stocks of which are now selling at from $500 to $1,000 per share, and paying very large dividends—it is only necessary to refer to the following certificates of assays, of Garrett & Booth, and Dr. E. A. Genth, of this city. These assays were made from surface quartz, promiscuously selected. Besides which the advantage in nearness of position, over those distant regions, adds to its value at least fifty per cent. There are now dealy stages running to the Territory, making the passage in ten days or leas, thus bringing the mine almost as easy of access as some of the coal mines of Pennsylvania.

It is the intention of the Company to proceed at once in procuring the most recent and best machinery, and, with the aid of an experienced resident Superintendent, to construct smelting furnaces on the Lyons' process, and put them into immediate operation.

President—JAMES B. THOM PSON.

Secretary and Treasurer—WILLIAM H. WILLE.

JOHN SLAWSON (late of City Mines, Lake Superior), Mining Engineer.

NEW BOOKS.

Published this Day, ST. MARTIN'S SUMMER, BY ANNE H. M. BREWSTER,

Author of "Compensation," etc. One vol. 16mo. $2 25.

" 'St. Martin's Summer' is the journal of a residence in Italy, and a voyage through the Mediterranean. It is more concerned, however, with inner experiences than outward observation. Instead of feelings and emotions described at second hand, the anatomist of the human heart is presented with some new secrets. of that mysterious innerworld, while the artist gets fresh glimpses of the might of music, painting and architecture, as interpreters of thoughts which the architecture, as interpreters of thoughts which the tongue is powerless to convey. The sights and sounds encountered, the love-making of certain young people in the party, various rices in the country.—in short, all little incidents which fall out is daily life; serve but to suggest some original reflection, or to recall some api utterance of the masters of literature. The account of ife in Naples—the life of the refined and caldivated—is excellent from first to last. . . Another pleasant leature in this book is the charming manner in which the birth and growth of first love in a youthful maiden's heart of heart's are here duly chronicled."—Philadelphia Press.
