

Daily Evening Bulletin

GIBSON PEACOCK, Editor.

OUR WHOLE COUNTRY.

F. L. FETHERSTON, Publisher.

VOLUME XIX.—NO. 291.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1866.

DOUBLE SHEET, TWO CENTS.

EVENING BULLETIN.

PUBLISHED EVERY EVENING.
(Sundays excepted.)
No. 329 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

"Evening Bulletin Association,"

PROPRIETORS.
GIBSON PEACOCK, CASPER SOUDER, Jr.,
F. L. FETHERSTON, HERBERT C. WALLACE,
THOMAS J. WILLIAMS, JOHN C. ...

The Bulletin is served to subscribers in the city at 10 cents per week, payable to the carrier, or $3 00 per annum.

DIED.

DAVIS—On Saturday morning, 24th instant, Elizabeth T., daughter of the late Thomas Davis.
FERRELL—On the 25th instant, at the residence of her husband, Green Street, the residence of her husband, No. 65 North Tenth street, on Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock, Mrs. FERRELL, nee Marshall, widow of the late John FERRELL, aged 70 years, without further notice.
FERNALD—On the 25th instant, after a short illness, at 10 o'clock, without further notice, the late Robert H. Fernald. Due notice of the funeral will be given.
HERSE—On the 25th instant, George P. Herse, in the 42d year of his life.
MILLER—On the morning of the 25th instant, Elizabeth A., wife of John Miller, and daughter of John W. and Ann B. Fuller.
ROSE—On Friday, March 23d, Jane Rose, widow of the late Robert H. Rose of Silver Lake, Susquehanna county, Pa.
WILSON—On Saturday morning, 24th instant, Wm. G. Stevenson, in the 25th year of his age.
WILSON—On Saturday morning, 24th instant, the relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral from the residence of her husband, Green Street, on Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock, A. M.
WILSON—On the morning of the 25th instant, the relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral from the residence of her husband, Green Street, on Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

RYAN & LANDRELL, FURCH and ARCH, ARE SPRING SALE.
FASHIONABLE SILKS,
NOVELTIES IN DRESS GOODS,
NEW TRAVELING DRESS GOODS,
SIZES STOCK OF NEW GOODS.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

EDWARD HOSPITAL, Nos. 1018 and 1020 Lombard street, Dispensary Department, Medical treatment and nursing furnished gratuitously to the poor.
OFFICE OF NEW COURSE—Tickets for sale on Tuesday and Wednesday, at 5 P. M., at 45 cents each, and on Thursday, at 10 o'clock, at 50 cents each.
COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS OF PHILADELPHIA—MUTUAL LECTURESHIP ON "THE SECOND COURSE OF LECTURES under the auspices of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, on Tuesday, April 3d, at 8 o'clock, P. M., on the subject of "THE TREATMENT OF ACUTE BRONCHITIS."
OFFICE CORNPLANTER OIL COMPANY, 224 N. 2d Street, Philadelphia.
AMERICAN ACADEMY OF MUSIC—Will deliver TWO LECTURES under the auspices of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION, on Wednesday, March 29th, at 8 o'clock, P. M., on the subject of "MUSIC AND THE SENSES."
UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA—The first course of lectures in this Department will commence at the University, Ninth street, above Chestnut street, on Monday, April 2d, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and will continue until the end of June. The lectures will be given in the following order: Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, at 10 o'clock, A. M.; Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, at 10 o'clock, A. M.; Sunday, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"Lucy Arlyn"—Ticknor & Fields, Boston. For sale by G. W. Pitcher, Philadelphia. Mr. Trowbridge has written a novel which will neither do much good in the world, or add very largely to the author's literary fame. It is a New England story, based upon a search for treasure supposed to be hidden in a cavern, the clue to which has been discovered by a band of spiritualists. The book is written in the interest of spiritualism, for although it brings together a group of fools and knaves of the most odious type, professing the most exalted ideas and practising every imaginable hypocrisy and deceit, it strives to make out of the transparent humbuggery of the proceedings a select specimen or two of genuine spiritualism. With the exception of the hero and heroine of the book, and the character of Ben Arlyn, the people are all bad, vulgar, or vicious. Many of the situations are absurdly unnatural, and a good deal of human wickedness is lugged into the story gratuitously, which has no particular connection with the plot. The incident of Sophy's disgrace at the end of the story is a case in point. The pernicious tendency of the book is increased by its very exposure of the grosser deceptions of the system which the author advocates. Weak or careless readers may readily be betrayed into the idea that what is left after all this dross is disposed of must needs be pure metal. The truth is that the characters of Guy and Christina are as unreal and wrong as those of any of their comrades. Mr. Trowbridge occasionally rises into the regions of blasphemy, making Christina wash Guy's feet and wipe them with her hair, while at a late period she places a crown of thorns on his head. The book is in bad taste all through, and does not deserve a place in Ticknor & Field's choice catalogue.

A very spicy, animated and readable novel is "Broken to Harness," by Edmund Yates, editor of "Temple Bar," which has been reprinted by Mr. Loring, and is for sale by G. E. Evans. It is a story of London life, introducing authors, editors, club men, and, as a very notable character, "Kub Mellon," whose original was "Anonyma," or "the pretty horse-breaker," about whom the London Times had so much to say a few years ago. The heroine, however, is "Barbara," a young belle of the highest fashion, who falls in love, at a country house, with a journalist, and marries him. She grows unhappy in her humble home, and is broken through severe trials before she is "broken to harness." The plot is ingenious, the characters are well portrayed, the descriptions of various phases of London life are spirited, the dialogue is animated and often witty, and there is nothing sensational, nothing offensive. It is long since we have met with a more readable novel.

Messrs. Harper & Brothers have issued another work from the prolific pen of Professor J. W. Draper. It is entitled "Text-Book of Physiology," and is an abridgement of the author's larger work on "Human Physiology." As an elementary textbook for schools and colleges, this volume of Dr. Draper's will be very valuable. The work is illustrated with numerous well executed wood-cuts, many of which have been expressly prepared for this publication. For sale by T. B. Peterson & Brothers.

The same publishers have just issued the third volume of "A Child's History of the United States," by John Bonner. In a very condensed, but lucid form, a sketch is given in this volume of the period of the Revolution. It will prove a very attractive book to the young people, especially as it is accompanied by many well-engraved illustrations. For sale by Peterson & Brothers.

MEDICAL LECTURES—The first course of Lectures by the Auxiliary Medical Faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, will commence on Monday next. It will be re-opened last year, by a munificent endowment from Dr. Greenough, of this city. The new professional course, a range of medical science not included in the usual course of instruction in our Medical Colleges, such as Geology, Mineralogy, Toxicology, Medical Jurisprudence, Hygiene, Botany, Zoology and other branches of science. The new faculty is a very able one, and this new feature will prove a most valuable addition to those that have long made this venerable institution one of the leading schools of the country.

EARL'S GREAT PICTURE SALE—As will be seen by the advertisement elsewhere tickets of admission will be required of those desiring to attend the great sale of Paintings to-morrow and on Wednesday evenings. Tickets may be obtained at Messrs. James S. Earle & Son's, 516 Chestnut street, and of B. Scott, Jr., 1020 Chestnut street. The tickets will be issued in order to prevent the possibility of a great crowd, and in order that buyers may have a fair opportunity to view the paintings.

Facts and Fancies.
Our numerous subscribers who have stopped their papers in consequence of the non-appearance of "Facts and Fancies" on Saturday, are informed that the omission was purely accidental. The machine broke down, while running at a very high pressure, and the remedy was not discovered until the following day. We shall guard against similar accidents by procuring a duplicate machine. Our friends can resume their subscription at any time, and the price will be the same as at first. The criminal records of England show that only one actor was ever hanged there. This was in the seventeenth century, for highway robbery. The curious part of it is that no classes of people commit many murders and other crimes.

It is reported in Paris, to construct a system of subterranean railways diverging from the Palais Royal as the common centre, and connecting at their ends with the great boulevards. The project is not always set the fashion. In this case they are going into underground railroads just as we have abandoned them.

A scheme has been started in Italy for buying the national debt of that country by the sale of the bonds of the national railway. The project is not always set the fashion. In this case they are going into underground railroads just as we have abandoned them.

The Fenians have not yet taken Canada. A squelch on the border. The suspected Fenian, who had been reported to be on them in Montreal report that there is a good deal of uneasiness about their borders. The persecuted Quakers are fleeing from Carolina. The malignants of that State are determined to drive all decent people out of it. Per contra, the Canadians are all turning Quakers.

Adah Isaacs Menken is coming back to New York. The New York Clipper says she has been guaranteed a salary for a hundred performances in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Wonder what steamer will bare back the interesting female to America.

THE HAMPTON ROADS PEACE CONFERENCE.

Secretary Seward's Official Account.

The Rebels Propose an Armistice at Home and a War Abroad.

Mr. Lincoln Insists on Surrender and Emancipation.

Secretary Seward's official account of the Hampton Roads Peace Conference. The rebels propose an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insists on surrender and emancipation. The conference was held at Hampton Roads, Virginia, on February 3, 1865. It was attended by Secretary of State William L. Seward, General Grant, and General Lee. The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation. The conference was held at Hampton Roads, Virginia, on February 3, 1865. It was attended by Secretary of State William L. Seward, General Grant, and General Lee. The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation.

The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation. The conference was held at Hampton Roads, Virginia, on February 3, 1865. It was attended by Secretary of State William L. Seward, General Grant, and General Lee. The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation.

The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation. The conference was held at Hampton Roads, Virginia, on February 3, 1865. It was attended by Secretary of State William L. Seward, General Grant, and General Lee. The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation.

The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation. The conference was held at Hampton Roads, Virginia, on February 3, 1865. It was attended by Secretary of State William L. Seward, General Grant, and General Lee. The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation.

The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation. The conference was held at Hampton Roads, Virginia, on February 3, 1865. It was attended by Secretary of State William L. Seward, General Grant, and General Lee. The rebels proposed an armistice at home and a war abroad. Mr. Lincoln insisted on surrender and emancipation.

COURTS.

SUPREME COURT—Chief Justice Woodward, and Justices Story, Jones, and ...
CHANCERY COURT—Error in Commonwealth v. ...
COMMON PLEAS COURT—Error in Commonwealth v. ...
PROBATE COURT—Error in Commonwealth v. ...
ORPHANS COURT—Error in Commonwealth v. ...
WILLS COURT—Error in Commonwealth v. ...

CHICAGO, March 22—Lake Station, thirty-six miles from Chicago, on the Michigan Central Railway, was the scene of a frightful butchery last night about seven o'clock. A man named M. H. ...

PLAIN COMMON SENSE—A recent discussion in a country debating club in Indiana, about the policy of a high tariff, was finished up with a round turn by a mechanic, thus: "Mr. President, I don't care for any of your fine-spun arguments about political economy, balance of trade, and all that; they are Greek to me. But this I do know: when there is a high protective tariff, manufacturers thrive, and I get plenty of work and good pay. I can buy everything I want and provide better for my family when butter is fifty cents a pound and eggs twenty-five cents a dozen. What advantage is it to me if butter can be bought for twenty-five cents a pound and eggs at ten cents a dozen, if I haven't got the dimes? And I never have the dimes when the manufacturers are not doing business. There is more sense in that than in all the Free Trade Leagues on this side of the Atlantic. He understands, among other things, the harmony of interests between agriculture and manufactures."

THE RIO GRANDE BORDER.
Our Brownsville correspondent, under date of March 10, sends us some matters of commercial interest on the Rio Grande border, growing out of the late imperial edict declaring Matamoros no longer a free port, and the recently enacted cattle law of this country. The merchants of Matamoros have seriously complained of the effect of the edict on their town and business, and strenuous efforts are making to have the order rescinded. The new imperial edict of the United States is said to injuriously affect the people in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and other Southwestern States. The discussions among the liberal chiefs in Mexico continued, and one of the disputes prevalent had led to a fight between Cortina and Canales, in which Cortina was fatally and severely wounded, and his man killed and captured. The officers of the Emperor's army on the Rio Grande freely express the opinion that the French troops will not be withdrawn by Napoleon until Maximilian's empire is fixed.

OUR WHOLE COUNTRY.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENTS—A Washington correspondent speaks as follows of the old school of writers and correspondents of the Northern press, that flourished at the Capital twenty-five to thirty-five years ago:
James E. Harvey, correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, was minister-resident at Lisbon; James S. Pike, also of the Tribune, is minister-resident at Hague; John Bigelow of the N. Y. Evening Post, is minister-plenipotentiary at Paris; John C. Fremont of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, still lives here, reported rich; Nathan Sargeant of the Cincinnati Gazette and some Philadelphia papers, is Commissioner of the Interior; Mr. Hart of the N. Y. Courier and Enquirer, a promising man, died early of consumption in California, where he had gone for his health; Thomas W. Higginson, followed by Richard Hildreth of the Boston Atlas and N. Y. Tribune, the well-known historian, and Consul to Trieste, where he died; W. S. Thayer of the N. Y. Evening Post, Consul-General to Alexandria, where he died last year, and Benjamin Wilson of the Chicago Journal, Assistant Secretary of Legation at London, though he has since returned and resumed his editorial duties.

FROM TODAY'S N. Y. HERALD.
Our Brownsville correspondent, under date of March 10, sends us some matters of commercial interest on the Rio Grande border, growing out of the late imperial edict declaring Matamoros no longer a free port, and the recently enacted cattle law of this country. The merchants of Matamoros have seriously complained of the effect of the edict on their town and business, and strenuous efforts are making to have the order rescinded. The new imperial edict of the United States is said to injuriously affect the people in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and other Southwestern States. The discussions among the liberal chiefs in Mexico continued, and one of the disputes prevalent had led to a fight between Cortina and Canales, in which Cortina was fatally and severely wounded, and his man killed and captured. The officers of the Emperor's army on the Rio Grande freely express the opinion that the French troops will not be withdrawn by Napoleon until Maximilian's empire is fixed.

FROM TODAY'S N. Y. HERALD.
Our Brownsville correspondent, under date of March 10, sends us some matters of commercial interest on the Rio Grande border, growing out of the late imperial edict declaring Matamoros no longer a free port, and the recently enacted cattle law of this country. The merchants of Matamoros have seriously complained of the effect of the edict on their town and business, and strenuous efforts are making to have the order rescinded. The new imperial edict of the United States is said to injuriously affect the people in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and other Southwestern States. The discussions among the liberal chiefs in Mexico continued, and one of the disputes prevalent had led to a fight between Cortina and Canales, in which Cortina was fatally and severely wounded, and his man killed and captured. The officers of the Emperor's army on the Rio Grande freely express the opinion that the French troops will not be withdrawn by Napoleon until Maximilian's empire is fixed.

FROM TODAY'S N. Y. HERALD.
Our Brownsville correspondent, under date of March 10, sends us some matters of commercial interest on the Rio Grande border, growing out of the late imperial edict declaring Matamoros no longer a free port, and the recently enacted cattle law of this country. The merchants of Matamoros have seriously complained of the effect of the edict on their town and business, and strenuous efforts are making to have the order rescinded. The new imperial edict of the United States is said to injuriously affect the people in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and other Southwestern States. The discussions among the liberal chiefs in Mexico continued, and one of the disputes prevalent had led to a fight between Cortina and Canales, in which Cortina was fatally and severely wounded, and his man killed and captured. The officers of the Emperor's army on the Rio Grande freely express the opinion that the French troops will not be withdrawn by Napoleon until Maximilian's empire is fixed.

FROM TODAY'S N. Y. HERALD.
Our Brownsville correspondent, under date of March 10, sends us some matters of commercial interest on the Rio Grande border, growing out of the late imperial edict declaring Matamoros no longer a free port, and the recently enacted cattle law of this country. The merchants of Matamoros have seriously complained of the effect of the edict on their town and business, and strenuous efforts are making to have the order rescinded. The new imperial edict of the United States is said to injuriously affect the people in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and other Southwestern States. The discussions among the liberal chiefs in Mexico continued, and one of the disputes prevalent had led to a fight between Cortina and Canales, in which Cortina was fatally and severely wounded, and his man killed and captured. The officers of the Emperor's army on the Rio Grande freely express the opinion that the French troops will not be withdrawn by Napoleon until Maximilian's empire is fixed.