

Pennsylvania Legislature.

SENATE.—Afternoon Session.

The bill allowing companies organized under the Mining act to issue preferred stock passed.

Mr. Boyer moved to amend the bill by extending to the Reading Railroad the thirtieth section of the act regulating railroads.

Mr. Markley called up an act extending certain provisions of the General Railroad law (section 13) to the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad.

Mr. Riddiman moved to amend the amendment by requiring, as a condition precedent, that passengers should be carried for five cents, and that there should be no distinction in regard to color.

Mr. Quigley favored the project of Mr. Riddiman. If the people vote to allow the cars to run they would obtain their wish, and not be obliged to return to Harrisburg next year to confirm the matter.

Mr. Riddiman opposed the bill, as well as Sunday travel in general, and Mr. Thomas declared he should vote for both the amendments.

Pending the question the House adjourned.

Afternoon Session.—Mr. Donnelly called up and vigorously urged an act declaring eight hours to be a day's labor in all cotton, woolen, silk, paper, bagging, flax, and other factories and workshops.

Mr. Sterner called up an act allowing joint stock companies to issue preferred stock, which was passed.

An act legalizing suspension of State banks one year longer was passed.

An act making valid conveyances by wives during their minority was passed.

An act extending the national manufacturing law to manufacturers of plated metal was passed.

An act requiring school directors to take an oath before taking office was passed.

Evening Session.—During the morning session this evening was specially set apart for the discussion of the bill relative to the reconstruction of the rebellious States.

The original resolutions urge Congress to resist the admission of States until the organic law of the nation is so amended as to prevent the payment of the rebel debt; to protect all persons in their rights; to prevent the sale of rebel property; and to establish an equal basis of representation.

The Democrats offered a substitute that would amend the national constitution to destroy the faith of the people in that instrument.

Speeches were delivered on the Republican side by Mr. Starnes, on the Democratic side by Mr. Kurtz and others, up to a late hour.

NOTE.—In the House of Representatives, late on Wednesday night, an act declaring felons deserters, was discussed by Messrs. Davis, Thomas, Allen, Stambaugh, and others, in favor of its passage, and by Messrs. Ferry, Dunning, and others in opposition.

The debate took a wide range, and became heated. In the course of the remarks, various persons were indicted in various ways by the Republican members that the Democratic members were in sympathy with deserters; that during the four years of the war, the Pennsylvania Club in Philadelphia had never displayed a flag nor a flag-staff; that in 1865, when the Union veterans were announced to the club, there was no applause on the Democratic side, and the members of the club were rebuffed.

The disfranchisement of deserters from the army. The following bill has been passed by both houses of the Pennsylvania Legislature.

Whereas, By the act of the Congress of the United States, passed to amend the several acts heretofore passed to provide for re-enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes, and approved March third, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, all persons who have deserted the military or naval service of the United States, and who have not been discharged or released from the penalty of disability therein provided, are deemed and taken to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited their rights of citizenship and their rights to become citizens, and are deprived of exercising any rights of citizens thereof.
