EVENING BULLETIN.

FRIDAY, APRIL 13, 1866.

THE FIRST WARD HORROR. The people of Philadelphia, horrified by the appalling murder of the Deering family, have not been kept long in suspense as to the authors of the crime. The murderer was arrested last evening and he has already confessed his guilt. He declared that he had an accomplice, and the police are already in search of the man he described to them. Perhaps before we go to press our reporters may be able to give some account of both the men, together with additional details concerning the awful crime.

We rejoice that the perpetrators of this unparalleled crime have been discovered so soon after it was known, and one of them at least is in the hands of just tice. People will now naturally feel eurious to learn the motives that led to the commission of such wholesales laughter. After murdering a man, one can understand why the murderer should also destroy the grown-up members of his family who were witnesses of the deed. But the massacreof four children of tender age, one of them under two years, can only be accounted for by a savage thirst for blood. The monster that could commit such a deed seems altogether out of the pale of humanity. His career will be a subject of study, so that it may be ascertained by what strange steps a human being can arrive at a stage of devilishness that will qualify him for such a crime.

THE POSITION OF MR. SEWARD. When the Republican Convention assembled in Chicago, in 1860, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Presidency, William H. Seward was prominently put forward by his friends for that office. He was regarded as the head and front of the Republican party, the embodiment of the "Irrepressible Conflict" idea, the expounder of the "Higher Law" doctrine. His nomination failed because the mass of the Republicans of the country feared that his radical sentiments would defeat them in the campaign, and they turned aside from the accomplished and astute statesman and politician of New York, to take up "Honest Old Abe" of Illinois. How with all his rugged simplicity and childlike honesty has grown up to a stature that is to dwarf all living Americans on the pages of the history of these times, has completed his great work, and gone to his great reward. The other narrowly escaped the same fearful fate that befel his illustrious chief, to fall, as we begin to fear; into a worse danger and to meet a more disastrous termination of his distinguished career. Whether we attribute it to the timidity of advancing years, or to a want of a sincere conviction of the truth of the great principles which have been at the foundation of all his success and fame as a public man, it is impossible to disguise the fact that Mr. Seward has made a radical "change of base" during the last few months. It is a very little while indeed, since it would have been quite impossible to convince any one that Mr. Seward could possibly be brought to a position in which he would endorse such a speech as that made by Mr. Johnson, on the 22d of February, or befoundlending himself to the proscription of loyal newspapers for the crime of adhering to the platform constructed for us by the President himself. While it is known that a majority of the Cabinet are true to the principles of the man who appointed them to office, it is equally well known that Mr. Seward is keeping steady pace with Mr. Johnson in his rapid divergence from the policy and principles of his predecessor. We are not disposed to attach over-much consequence to the attitude assumed by this or that individual man, public or private, in matters affecting great national issues. Believing as we honestly do, that the hand of Infinite Providence has guided us through the fearful perils and storms of the last five years, we cannot fear that the future of the Republic can be jeopardized, or its onward progress impeded by the unfaithfulness of any particular man. Mr. Seward is an important member of the Government, and has wielded a powerful influence in our public affairs for many years; but the people of this country have been educated up to an intelligent comprehension of the cardinal principles of self-government, and they will discard their teachers who try to teach them new doctrines, while they will cling to the truths which they have derived from these very sources. Like all other men, Mr. Seward may stand or fall, but the world will go on unaffected by anything that may happen to him. There would be a passing sentiment of regret if such a shining light should go out in darkness. It would be a sorry end for a life devoted to the cause of human freedom, but if Mr. Seward chooses such a termination for his public record, he will be the chief if not the only sufferer. The single fact that of the whole Union party of the House of Representatives, These instruments have been awarded the highest promiums at all the principal exhibitions ever held in his country, with numerous testimonials from the arest artists in a merica and Europe. They are now the seading Planos, and are sold to all parts of the world. Mr. Raymond alone was found to vote against us in the recentissue, is, of itself, whatever Mr. Seward or any other individual man may say or think, or do, the governing masses of the country are sound to the core in the maintenance of the principles upon which the Union party rose to power and upon which the war for the Union was fought and won.

CRIMINALS FROM ABROAD.

It must have been observed by every reader of newspapers that a large proportion of the crimes that are reported are committed by foreigners, and most frequently by Germans. From this fact it is not to be inferred that the Germans or other foreigners are, as a general thing, naturally more vicious than native born Americans. But we believe that if a careful inquiry could be made, it would be ascertained that the United States are a land of refuge for criminals and fugitives from justice in their own lands, and their vicious qualities receive new development among us. It is known also that in some cases men convicted of crime in some of the German States and in Switzerland, have been sentenced to banishment to the United States. One case of this kind was recently brought to the attention of the State Department.

The annals of murder in Philadelphia alone show that the criminals in most cases have been foreigners. Langfeldt, the Skupinski's, Arthur Spring, the supposed murderer of the Bartle family, and Christian Berger, who killed Miss Watts, were all foreigners, and other cases might be named. Now we have the frightful murder of the Deering family, committed also by Germans. Of crimes below the rank of murder, a very large proportion are also committed by foreigners; a proportion unduly large, when it is remembered that much the greater portion of our population are natives of the country.

It is quite natural for men who have committed crimes in Europe to fly to the United States, a distant and extensive country, where capture is next to impossible, and where a new and rich field is offered for further criminal operations. Such people generally have but little money, and the temptation to rob, or to murder for the sake of robbery, is very strong. In the cases of Berger, the murderers of the Deering family, the Skupinskis and others, the object was plunder. Some measures should be adopted for preventing criminals and paupers from other lands from coming to this country. Our Consuls at the ports of emigration should have authority to inquire into the characters and histories of the people wishing to emigrate, and to prevent the departure of those who prove to have been guilty of crimes, or who are simply the wisdom of their action has been or to make a living by theft or other windicated, history already begins to crimes. It cannot be tolerated that our

The almost unknown man, | land should be made a penal colony for the countries of Europe.

The Pennsylvania Legislature adourned sine die yesterday. The session has been a busy and important one, and we have reason to believe that the results of it will be found advantageous to the State. We have heard less of "the Ring" and its operations, and believe that the corrupt lobby has been less potential than it has been for many years. It is quite certain that many acts have been passed for which no money was needed. There have been several in which Philadelphia was especially interested, and our citizens will have reason to remember gratefully the Legislature of 1866. The closing hours of the session were marked with unusual good feeling among the members, and the officers of each House received handsome testimonials. As is customary a new Speaker of the Senate was chosen and the Senate could not have found a worthier man than the one they selected, Hon. Louis W. Hall, of Blair county. He will make a fit successor to the late excellent presiding officer of the Senate, Hon. David Fleming, of Dauphin.

REV. HENRY GILES.—We learn that the popular lecturer, Henry Giles, is in so feeble a state of health that he is unable to speak in public. F. J. Nicholls, Esq., of Boston, is reading in different places for the benefit of the author, an able lecturer upon the "Compensations of War." Mr. Nicholls's reading is commended. The able character of the lecture, and the benevolent purpose of the reader, will, we trust, secure him a full audience next Wednesday evening, the 18th inst., in the church corner of Tenth and Locust streets, where this lecture is to be read. Tickets to be had ($1 each) at T. B. Pugh's, corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets, and at the door of the church.
