Our purchases for this season baving been delayed, waiting the expected decline in goods, we have now on hand the largest and best assorted stock of Clothing in Philadelphia, purchased for cash exclusively, at the very lowest rates of the season, which enables us to realize a fair profit and sell at prices less than the cestod and profit must other setablishments. TO CLOTHIERS. same goods in most other establishments. We can supply Clothiers doing a fine city trade with goods adapted to their sales at prices so much lower than the sost of their present stocks, that, by making an average of the whole, they will be enabled to dispose of their goods at prices covering the average cost, and even paying a profit.

ATTRACTION MADE EASY.-A LOGICAL DE DUCTION. Lightning has got a mild and sparing way Or seldom touching women, so they say; Selecting out the rougher sex to hit, And scarcely striking lady folks a bit! It's strange the finid should be so very tender As to discriminate the female gender; But as but twenty-five per cent, are hurt, There are more women ieft to live and-flirt. But men, if thus pick'd out by hostile skies, Are also pick'd out to attract fair eves:

And those who at the "STAR" procure attire Will soon attract the glances they desire: Having determined that the 'Star," as its name sig nifies, shall be the leading Clothing House of Philadelphia, as far as the CHEAPNESS, STYLE, FASHION, FINISH AND DURABILITY of its garments can make i so, we spare no effort or expense to effect that object. We buy and sell for cash exclusively, and laid in our present stock when the market was at the very lowes ebb. Therefore the "STAB" now offers special in-DUCKMENTS to the public who purchase Ready made Clothing. We keep an immense stock, comprising every style and variety of Gentlemen's Ciothing, and all can be accurately fitted. EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1866.

WHAT CONSERVATISM MEANS. A Richmond paper of a very recent date said in substance that Diogenes had very indifferent success in looking for honest men; but that if he could set out upon a search for Union men in Virginia. at the present time, he would burn his candle for nothing. This is a frank acknowledgment, and, we believe, pretty nearly a truthful statement. The more intelligent Virginians accept the situation to the extent of an acknowledgment of the fact that they were worsted in the great conflict; but no further than this. They hold that they are martyrs in a holy cause, they refuse to acknowledge the heresy of secession, and they cannot yield the idea that they are the chivalry of the land and the natural and appropriate rulers of the country. They admit that they have been unfortunate, but they deny that they have done any wrong and they coolly demand that they should be allowed forthwith to re-enter the councils of the nation, to control the Government, if possible, and when it suits their purpose, to repeat the experiment of 1861. We do not assert thus much from mere surmise; but from the most authoritative Virginian utterances, and from recent extended personal intercourse with a large number of out-spoken Virginians upon their own soil. Frank men among their number, while insisting upon their right to take a full share in the government of the country, did. not conceal the fact that they hope and expect, with the aid of Northern Democrats, to give the South its old ascendancy at Washington. · Are the loyal people of the country ready to accept this condition of things as the result of the great struggle through which the country has passed? Are they prepared to see Jefferson Davis in the Cabinet of the Federal executive; to see Robert E. Lee holding high command in the Federal army, and to see Raphael Semmes an Admiral in the Federal navy? Are they ready to restore the old era of Preston S. Brooks, James H. Hammond and John C. Breckinridge? Are they ready to forget the life and death of the great and good Lincoln? And will they tell the crippled men in blue, and the mourning mothers and widows whose loved ones sleep upon Southern battle-fields, that all their sacrifices were for nought? And are the people who have paid thousands of millions of treasure that the nation might live, and in order that the crime of treason should be made odious and punished—are they to be told that their holes were a delusion and their expectations a mistake, and that all this great cost was for nothing?

We give it as a solemn conviction, based upon ample observation, that the Southern people are not changed in sentiment since the war; that they are beaten but not subdued, and that they only desire to asserta lost supremacy, and to destroy the Union when it no longer serves their purpose to preserve it. The so-called conservatism of the day tends to the consummation so eagerly desired by the "reconstructed South." Are the people who love the Union, and who stood by it in its time of greatest peril, ready to give their countenance and support to this description of "reconstruction ?"

THE SOLDIERS' MESSENGER CORPS. We have repeatedly recommended and urged the establishment of a Soldiers' Messenger Corps in Philadelphia similar to that which has been in operation in Boston and New York. We are glad to see that our suggestions have at length been acted upon, and that such an organization of public messengers has been formed. To-day, for the first time, the men have appeared at their posts in various parts of the city. They are designated by a uniform red cap, with a white band bearing the name of the corps and each messenger's number. The men, about sixty in number, areali honorably discharged soldiers, selected carefully with reference to their honesty and reliability, the Messenger Company being responsible for the prompt and faithful delivery of parcels or execution of work. A table of charges has been established, on a very moderate basis, and a ticket showing the amount received is to be given by the messenger to his employer, which will prevent any improper charge. The messengers can also be engaged for a certain time to clean offices, move furniture, watch merchandise, stores, ship sand buildings, day or night, &c. We heartily recommend this new enterprise to the cordial support of our citizens. There is not a business establishment in Philadelphia that cannot easily and advantageously throw some occupation into these brave fellows' ands every day. There are innumerable little errands and commissions which will be promptly and properly attended to by the Messenger Corps much more conveniently than can be done by the regular employés of our merchants, lawyers, tradesmen, or other branches of industry. We hope this encouragement will be freely extended by the community generally.

On the part of the men the public will expect good habits, good manners, strict punctuality, prompt execution of their work, neat personal appearance, and a rigid adherence to their regular terms and prices. Men who fail in any one of these particulars will fail of any success themselves, and will injure the reputation of the whole enterprise. The agent of the Company is Mr. W. C. Whiteman, 423 Walnut street, and any dereliction of duty on the part of the messengers should be promptly reported to him. Let these gallant soldiers, many of whom have been maimed and wounded in the service, have a fair chance to earn an honest living, and the benefit which they derive from the establishment of this Messenger Corps will be shared by all who encourage and employ them.

At a single bound he has placed himself in the front rank of modern poets, and the volume now first reprinted in America will amply sustain his reputation. It is replete with those vivid and original bursts of poetic fervor and fancy that sustain his reputation. It is replete with those vivid and original bursts of poetic ferver and fancy that stamp the writer as a men of genius sure of his ground and able to sustain himself in whatever region he may essay to soar. The Queen Mother and Rosamand are no less marked productions than "Atalanta" or "Chastelard."

It is the record of observations made by the author during a journey of several months in a number of the Southern State and the recording the southern State and the recording the southern State and the recording the southern State and ber of the Southern States, after the cessation of hosber of the Southern States, after the cessation of hos-tilities. He had every opportunity to note the effect-produced on the people of the South by the complete-annibilation of their military power, and to observe the change caused by the reconstruction policy of the-President. He was brought in cortact with represen-tatives of all classes, from provisional governors to-rice negroes, and he gives full accounts of his conver-sations with various persons, with reference to what is rice negroes, and he gives run accounts of his conver-sations with various persons, with reference to what is called the "negro question." He describes the Con-ventions held in North and South Carolina and Georyenions neighbors and south Caronna and Geor-gia, to act upon the policy of the President, the pre-sent condition of things at Andersonville, Salisbury sent condition of things at Andersonville, ballabury and Florence; scenes in the track of Sherman's army: and the characteristics of social life in the interior of South Carolina and Georgia. The work is marked by the same fairness and c'earness of statement which caused the author's letters-from the South to be so extensively copied and so eagerly read. sent postpaid on receipt of price.
