CITY BULLETIN.

THE MURDERER PROBST.—We paid a visit to this wretched criminal yesterday afternoon. We had no conversation with him, as one of his counsel, Mr. Wolbert, has forbidden any questioning of him, and cautioned the prisoner himself against talking to visitors. Probst was chained by the ankle to the floor and he sat upon a stool with his eyes fixed upon a point a short distance in advance of him, in his usual way. He was entirely unoccupied at the time of our visit, although religious books and a rosary were within his reach. Although idle, he by no means evinced listlessness, his eyes and countenance indicating that thought was busy.

The guilty wretch still adheres to his old story of a confederate. He freely admits the killing of the boy Carey with his own hands, and he admits that he held the horse, while "Jake" despatched Mr. Dearing and Miss Dolan, as they got out of the wagon. It can scarcely be possible that the latter part of this statement is truthful, for apart from the almost certainty of the crime having been committed by Probst alone, there are many facts to support the belief that both Mr. Dearing and Miss Dolan were butchered at the stable, and a considerable distance from the spot indicated by the murderer.

It is feared that the prisoner will commit suicide if the opportunity is afforded him. The means of doing so are kept out of his reach during daylight, and at night, in addition to the manacles at his ankle, his arms are secured behind his back by means of handcuffs.

Before proceeding to the prison yesterday we accompanied Chief Franklin on a visit to the Dearing homestead. Mr. Franklin went professionally in pursuit of a work that he has entered upon with great zeal and success, and for ourselves, we were prompted by a desire to witness the present condition of the scene of the dread tragedy. The relatives of the murdered family were about removing the furniture from the house, and confusion and desolation reigned supreme where a happy family had its home a fortnight ago. As we stood in the little sitting room we drew a picture in our mind of the scene enacted there on the morning of the dreadful Saturday when the busy housewife was first decoyed from her domestic duties to the barn, to fall beneath the axe of the murderer; and how one by one the little ones were taken from their playthings and their cradle to share the fate of their butchered mother. The details of the terrible story will probably never be known.

On all sides evidences are seen of the strange mania possessed by some persons for collecting ghastly relics. Wherever a drop of blood could be found upon barn or stable the wood-work has been chopped off and carried away by curiosity hunters, and nothing, from a wisp of hay from the stack where Carey was concealed, to a piece of blood-stained wood or a small portable article from the dwelling or out-buildings, seems to have come amiss to the crowd of relic-seekers who have overrun the place.

It was discovered yesterday that in addition to the two watches already described as having been taken by Probst, a small, old-fashioned silver watch of the "bull's eye" pattern has disappeared. Any person knowing anything of the two watches not yet accounted for would serve the cause of justice by giving information to the authorities.

THE RINGING OF THE STATE HOUSE BELL FOR FIRES.—The following is the petion of the delegates of the Fire Department for the ringing of the State House bell for fires in the day-time, presented to City Councils yesterday afternoon:

GENTLEMEN: We the undersigned delegates from the respective companies composing the Fire Department of the City of Philadelphia, respectfully represent that there is a great want of attendance of our members at fires occurring in day-time, in consequence of not having adequate means of apprising them of the existence of such fires.

By an order of his Honor, Alexander Henry, late Mayor of the city, the ringing of the State House bell was prohibited between the hours of 6 o'clock A. M. and 10 o'clock P. M., which renders it almost impossible for the majority of the members of the Fire Department to know during such hours when there is a fire or an alarm of fire.

Members of nearly every company in the Fire Department are employed in the neighborhood of the State House, where, with the noise in their workshops and the hum of business on the street, they cannot hear the ringing of the smaller fire bells or know of the existence of a fire.

The law requiring that the State House bell shall be rung for all alarms of fire has never been repealed. It often occurs that alarms, through the Fire Alarm Telegraph, are not promptly and at other times are incorrectly sent. Together with these facts, several disastrous fires have occurred from the delay in giving the alarm of fire or from no alarm having been sent at all.

Therefore, as these errors and difficulties might in a great measure be avoided by keeping, as in former times, some person continually on duty in the State House steeple, on the look-out for fires, and in order to better promote the efficiency of the Fire Department, we respectfully and earnestly request that you will enact a bill authorizing the ringing of the State House bell for all true alarms of fire during the day and evening, as well as night, and to require the presence at all times of some person in the State House steeple, on the look-out for fires.

And, as we learn from the city officials that the ringing of the State House bell was prohibited by his Honor Alexander Henry, late Mayor of the city, because it had a tendency to attract thieves, corner loungers, &c., to fires, we also earnestly request that the existing laws and police regulations relative to fires be strictly enforced.

THE SALE OF ROBINSON'S PICTURES.—As was expected, the bidding at the second evening of this sale was much more spirited, and Mr. Scott, the auctioneer, must have been happy over the prices given for most of the pictures. A little picture, 6 by 8 inches, by Pichel, of Paris, called "The Smokers," brought $400; "The Little Coquette," 12 by 14, by Meyer, of Bremen, brought $660; "The Hireling Fleeth," by Morris, $400; "The Road," by Calame (not a very fine specimen,) $125; "Flying the Kite," by Von Seben, $280; "Scene in the Tyrol," by Steinike, $350; a Landscape by H. A. Koek-Koek, $327 56; "The Bird Catchers," by Von Seben, $485; "Lake Lucerne," by Schultze, $475; three lovely landscapes, by Duntre, brought respectively $305, $187 50 and $147; the "Blacksmith Shop," by Champe, $300; "Landscape with Cattle," by Laurent de Beul," $405; "Lake of Brientz," by Jungheim, $260; two companion landscapes by C. F. de Vogel, brought $225 and $220. Many other pictures brought excellent prices, and the proceeds of the evening's sale were nearly twelve thousand dollars.

WECCACOE LEGION.—This organization is composed of all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors, who are members of the Weccacoe Fire Company, and were members of the late company B 72d Regiment P. V.; of Company B, 4th Pennsylvania Reserves, and sailors who served in the navy during the late war. It is intended as a State militia company, and has been incorporated by the State Legislature. Their uniform consists of dark blue jacket, light blue pants, and fatigue cap, with the name "Weccacoe Legion" on the front. The meetings are held every Tuesday evening, at the hall of the Weccacoe Fire Company, in Queen street, below Second.

OFFICIAL VISITORS.—The School Committee of the Boston City Councils, accompanied by Mayor Lincoln of that city, is now in the city for the purpose of examining our public schools. Yesterday the gentlemen composing the Committee, together with Mayor McMichael and a delegation from the Board of Control, made visits to the Washington, Zane street, and Twelfth and Locust streets Grammar Schools, the two High Schools and Girard College. To-day they visited other Grammar and Secondary Schools. To-night the visitors will leave for Baltimore. The Boston Committee consists of Rev. S. R. Lothrop, Henry Boroughs, Dr. J. B. Upham, N. B. Shurtleff, T. M. Brewier, Thomas Goffeld, C. W. Slack, Noah Mayo, J. C. Haynes, Charles Caverly, Jr., J. D. Philbrick and J. H. Spun.

FIRE IN THE INQUIRER BUILDINGS.—A fire broke out about nine o'clock last evening in the rear portion of the fourth-story of the Inquirer building, No. 304 Chesnut street. The firemen were soon upon the ground, and by their energetic efforts the flames were prevented from spreading beyond the apartment in which they originated. The presses and machinery upon the lower floor were somewhat injured by the water which was necessarily thrown into the building. The loss is estimated at between $2,000 and $3,000, and is covered by insurance. The fire did not interfere with the regular issue of the paper this morning.

SUICIDE.—A German named Peter Gontrum, aged about 50 years, committed suicide last night. He was the proprietor of a lager beer saloon in the basement of No. 406 South Sixth street. Last night he went into the yard, took a good stout clothes line and fastened it to a joist under a shed. After adjusting the other end arround his neck, jumped off the chair on which he stood. His body was found this morning. No cause is assigned for the act of self-destruction. Coroner Taylor was notified to hold an inquest.

MAGNESIUM SPIRAL LIGHTS.—Mr. C. H. Needles, corner of Twelfth and Race streets, has for sale the spiral lights of magnesium, which have recently been invented and which have caused such a stir in scientific circles. They are intended chiefly as an interesting source of amusement to those interested in science, and are said to be entirely harmless. They are well suited for use in schools, lecture-rooms, at tableaux, &c. Mr. Needles can promptly supply them, wholesale or retail.

RAILROAD CONVENTION.—On the 4th July next a general Convention of all the railroad Presidents, Chief Engineers and General Superintendents in the United States is to be held in this city, for an interchange of views in regard to railroad construction, management and operation. The call for the Convention has been signed by rail road officers in all parts of the country, and the chief officers of railroads in the British Provinces have been invited to attend and participate in the deliberations.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.—The fifth anniversary of the formation of the Gray Reserves was celebrated at the City Armory, Broad and Race streets, last evening. James Lynd, Esq., presided at the meeting, and addresses were delivered by Hon. Charles Gilpin, John Price Wetherill, Esq., John Davis Watson, Esq., and others. A series of resolutions urging young men to come forward and join the organization were adopted.

SHOPLIFTING.—Margt. Ullman and Hannah Levy were arrested yesterday afternoon at Third and Arch streets upon the charge of the larceny of a pair of pantaloons and two pieces of silk from a store in that vicinity. Margaret, who is 66 years of age, wore an underskirt, with large pockets, fitted up all around it for the purpose of concealing goods in shoplifting operations. The accused were taken before Ald. Hurley and were held in $1,000 bail each for trial.

ANOTHER OIL CASE.—Wm. C. Stevenson, L. R. Walker, Wm. Farson and M. H. Davis, alleged to have been connected with the Monongahela Oil Company, were yesterday held to bail by Recorder Eneu, to answer the charge of conspiracy, and obtaining money under false pretences from J. L. Patterson and others.

THE HOME FOR LITTLE WANDERERS.—A fair for the benefit of this excellent institution will commence at No. 2118 Green street, on the 23d inst. Donations of money, articles for the fair, &c., are solicited. They may be left at that place.

SERENADE.—Col. John W. Forney lectured last evening at Concert Hall, before the Banneker Institute. Subsequently the lecturer was serenaded at his residence by the Delmonico Cornet Band.

SPRING.—With such weather as we have had this morning one can appropriately speak of "Spring, ethereal mildness," and school boys and girls can write compositions celebrating the beauties of the season, without any inconsistency. As for us we are glad to be occupied in composing a brief eulogy on the excellence of the cheap coal sold and promptly delivered by W. W. Alter, No. 957, North Ninth street. He has also a branch office at Sixth and Spring Garden streets.

"WHAT 25 CENTS WILL DO!"—The entirely original and novel sales of A. J. Hoyt, No. 602 Chestnut street, are attracting crowds that astonish everybody. It is not a little singular that in these dull times a greater business is done by this gentleman than the city of Philadelphia has known since the days of solid gold and silver currency. Liberality coupled with a desire to "live and let live" is his plan, and we venture to say that our statements are corroborated by thousands of our most respectable citizens. Call in and see for yourselves.

Coroner Powell, of Gloucester, held an inquest, and also has charge of the body.
