Astonishing as these prices may seem, compared with these to which we have been accustomed for several years they are not fictifious—We have the goods in grantities at the prices mentioned. We make up no trash—they are all serviceable goods. Advancing from these rates we have goods of all grades, up to the very frest fabrics, comprising BY FAR the largest and most complete assortment of Clothing in Philac (Ben's, Youths and Boys'), surpassed by none, and equated by few, in style, make and fit, at prices guaran-teed lower than the lowest elsewhere, or the money re-

Our purchases for this season having been delayed, maiting the expected decline in good, we have now on hand the largest and best assorted stock of Mothing in Philadelphia, purchased for CASH EXCLUSIVELY, AT THE VERY LOWIST BATES OF THE SEASON, which enables us to realize a fair profit and self at prices less than the cost of same goods in most other establishments. We can supply Clothiers doing a fine city trade with goods adapted to their sales, at prices so much lower than the cost of their present stocks, that, by making an average of the whole, they will be enabled to dispose of their goods at prices covering the average cost, and even BENNETT & CO., TOWER HALL, 518 MARKET STREET.

DESTINY! There is, however, one part of the Emperor's charac-ter which always affords him a support, on which he can always rely, and that is his belief in his lucky star. EVENING BULLETIN.

SATURDAY, APRIL 21, 1866. SENATORIAL MANNERS.

We wish that the United States Senate would show itself as strong and steadfast in maintaining its dignity as it has been in asserting its Constitutional prerogatives. On several occasions, during the present session, the proprieties of the Senate Chamber have been grossly outraged by exhibitions of noisy drunkenness, on the part of Senators Saulsbury and McDougall. Saulsbury has been taken out of the Senate in a helpless state of intoxication, and McDougall has disgusted and shocked the country with a tirade of profanity and indecency which we had supposed would force a crisis upon the Senate and compel the expulsion of the offender. We are sadly disappointed in this expectation. Saulsbury, without even the formality of an apology, continues to talk his insolent treason almost unrecuked, and McDougall, with a shallow and unmeaning apology, retains the seat which he so habitually disgraces. He tells the Senate, in effect, that he went to bed drunk and disorderly, and awoke with a headache and sober, and his apology appears to have been accepted as amply sufficient.

How much good is effected by such a course of mistaken leniency on the part of the Senate, is clearly demonstrated by what has followed. Any man, with a a ray of proper feeling, would have been so humiliated by the disgrace which he had brought upon himself and upon his State, that he would have been content to keep himself in the background, and make himself, if it might be, forgotten for the remainder of the session. Not so Saulsbury. The impunity with which he has inflicted his drunken disloyalty upon the Senate, has only made him more arrogant, and yesterday he undertook to repeat his sentiments of defiance to the authority of the United States. He was promptly met by Senator Clark, of New Hampshire, with a bold and stinging rebuke. Saulsbury attempted a blustering and abusive reply, but was met by Mr. Clark with such dignified firmness that the bullying tone of Saulsbury dwindled away to a whimpering request to Mr. Clark to be more cautious in the future. How far Mr. Clark was alarmed by Saulsbury's language may be inferred from his closing the discussion by saying:

"I have heard the Senator's remarks, and I do not recede one jot or tittle from what I have said. I meant no disrespect to the Senator, but simply to rebuke a spirit manifested here. If I have occasion to say again what I have said, Ishall certainly say it." Will not the Senate assert its own proper dignity and rid itself of men like Saulsbury and McDougall, both of whom have so flagrantly violated every principle of personal decency and so grossly dishonored the States which they nominally represent?

RINGING THE STATE HOUSE BELL. A number of fire 'companies,' through their delegated representatives, have petitioned City Councils to have the State House bell struck for all fires that may occur, whether by day or by night. The reasons for the desired change are set out in full in the petition which was published in the local columns of the BULLETIN yesterday. There is but one reason among the whole which carries any substantial weight with it in our estimation. This reason is the alleged fact that an insufficient number of firemen are sometimes upon the ground at a conflagration. This is a matter of opinion and somewhat a question of taste, and a very large number of old firemen and the great mass of the citizens will agree with us that it more frequently happens that there are too many persons upon the fire ground than that there are too few. We know that the stopping of the ringing of the State House bell for fires between six o'clock A. M. and ten o'clock P. M. has contributed greatly to the preservation of good order in the city, and we have it upon the authority of those who are in a position to judge most correctly, that less loss by fire and water has been sustained during the last two years than if the State House bell had been struck for all fires that took place, whether by night or by day. We trust that Councils will stand firm in this matter, and consult the public good rather than the desires of a few zealous

THE SOLDIER MESSENGERS. the coldiers' Messenger Corps has made an excellent beginning, and as the community becomes better acquainted with the working of the organization, it will meet with growing success. We have a suggestion to make which, if carried out, will greatly add to the efficiency of the Corps. It is that the Messengers be allowed the privilege of riding on the platforms of the street passenger cars when on duty. The loss of time incurred in making their trips on foot will deprive them of many commissions, and as the police have alwavs been allowed the privilege of using the cars without charge, we hope the railway companies will extend the same facility to the Soldiers' Messenger Corps, many of whose members are wounded men, and all of whom deserve all the aid and encouragement that can reasonably be afforded them.
