Execusion in Cambria County.

Yesterday afternoon at one o'clock, in the jail yard at Ebensburg, was terminated, by the fulfilment of the law, which requires a life for a life, the terrible and widely-read Cambria county tragedy. John Baptist Houser and Daniel Bowser, convicted in the December, term of the Cambria County December term of the Cambria County Court, and sentenced to death, were hanged for the murder, on the 7th of June last, of Pollie Paul and Cassie Munday.

This was the first capital execution ever consummated in Cambria county.

In Croyle township, Cambria county.

THE MURDER.

In Croyle township, Cambria coupy, not far from Ebensburg, lived an old, u-married woman named Pollie Paul. See was upwards of sixty years of age and had lived there for some forty years. She owned a small farm which she worked herself. She was exceedingly industious and frugal, and by rigid economy had treasured up a considerable sum of god and silver, supposed to amount to between three and four thousand dollass. She lived retired and in complete solude, except that a young German gid, Cassie Munday, about fifteen years of age, lived with her to learn spinning, chevit supposed to the solution.

Ar about sunset on Thursday evening, Ar about sunset on Indistay evening, Jane 7th, 1865, a little girl who was driving a cow from pasture near Pollie's farm, heard cries from her house, and shortly afterwards saw two men run around the barn and disappear. The child reported what she had seen, but no investigation was made until the next morning. Then some neighbors went to Pollie's house and discovered that she was missing. Her body was discovered she was missing. Her body was discovered in her barn, having been dragged there On her head was a terrible wound, evidently inflicted by a large, nicely-finished club, that was found near. In an orchard near by was discovered the body of Cassie Munday, her brains having been dashed out with another club, which lay near her. In the house everything had been turned into confusion, and all of value taken away.

THE CRIMINALS.

THE CRIMINALS.

The two criminals, aside from their guilt in this particular case, were hardened and persistent wretches. They seemed always to have hunted in couples, and have served two terms together in the penitentiary. Houser was an ordinary looking man about thirty-eight years of age. He was born in Bavaria, and emigrated with his parents to New Jersey. He came to this city in 1855. In 1862 he formed an alliance with Bowser for the purpose of committing burglaries. They were captured and sentenced to the penitentiary, from which they were re-leased only a short time before the murder. His wife is now in jail, an idiotic vagrant.

Bowser was also a German, about thirtyfive years of age, and has been in this country since childhood. He was a most wicked and vicious man, seeming to be a constitu-tional criminal. About ten days ago he tried to commit suicide by opening the veins or his arms, but was discovered in time to save his life. He left a paper in the hands of his spiritual adviser which proved to be a partial confession. In it he acknowledged partial confession. In it he acknowledged a part of the guilt, and implicated Reams and Blanchard, declaring Houser innocent. He was a firm believer in spiritualism and claimed to be haunted. He also threatened after death to mercilessly haunt Chief Hague, Judge Taylor, and all others who had a hand in his conviction. After his attempt and failure his demeanor changed very materially. He lost his reckless care less appearance and became more thoughtful, seeming to pay serious attention to what his spiritual advisers said to him.

PREPARATIONS.

Recently the prepartions for the execution have been progressing rapidly. There was a report current that the scaffold on which they were to suffer was the same as that on which Marshall and Frecke and Mrs. Grinder died. This was a mistake. It was on the same principle as the gallows here, but was entirely new. It was erected in a little yard built back of the jail, and was put in full sight of Houser's window, and he looked out and watched the preparations with evident interest. The ropes, carefully manufactured of hemp was read. manufactured of nemp were made in Reserve township, and were about half an inch in thickness. The last night of the condemned was passed by the wretched men in earnest conversation with their ministers until a late hour. Then Houser laid down and slept saundly. Rowsey did laid down and slept soundly. Bowser did not sleep until very late. Both were in ex-cellent spirits in the morning, and seemed perfectly resigned. THE EXECUTION.

Yesterday morning was very clear and beautiful. The town was very quiet, the people, notwithstanding the expected excitement, seeming rather inclined to leave the place than to collect about the jail. The guard that had been detailed had very little to do to keep order. Only about forty per-sons were present to witness the execution. At precisely twelve o'clock Sheriff Myers entered the cells of the condemned and informed them that they must come forth to die. They were pinioned and at once led to the scaffold. Bowser went first, accompanied by Rev. Christy, and Houser followed with the Rev. Father Giles. Behind walked Rev. Edmund Longenfelder and Sheriff Myers. Neither of the men showed any trepidation. On the scaffold brief religious exercises were conducted, both culprits joining with apparent earnestness. Their feet were then bound and they bade farewell to the Sheriff, the reverend gentlemen and Drs. Bunn and Lemmon, who have attended them during their imprisonment. The white caps were drawn over their faces, the drop fell and the law was satisfied. Houser died with no struggle; Bowser twitched but slightly. The prisoners made no confession. In the cell Bowser repeated that Houser was innocent. The bodies were both interred in the Catholic burial ground at the north of the place. Sheriff Myers had made the necessary arrangements in the most perfect manner, and deserves great credit for the feeling manner in which he discharged his duties.-Pittsburgh Post of Saturday.
