It was that of Mrs. Mary Flaherty, who was charged with obstruct-ing an officer in the discharge of his duty. It seems that a "gintleman," very drunk and disorderly, was arrested one the old Lancaster pike, and was being conveyed to the station. Approaching Mrs. Flaherty's domicil, he broke from the "star," and plunged in the inviting door. Mrs. F. at once sprang to his assistance, and slamming the door in the officer's face, assailed the helpless fellow, with a volubility of tongue, perfectly refreshing. The fighting lasted from 4 A. M. till 6 P. M. The Imperialists were aided by Ca-manches with cannon as far as Uncas. The next day the fighting was continued, when all the reserve and movable artillery was ordered out to aid the Imperialists, but up to the departure of the steamer no decisive result had been attained. A later report from Mazatlan states that the Imperialists had returned to the city with small losses, The French claim to have killed 350 of the Juarists, and wounded a still greater number. The accounts from the whole country show that the Juarists are stronger than ever, Rumors of conspiracy are rife in the city of Mexico, and General Galvez has been imprisoned. Secret arrests are made and citizens disappear mysteriously. The Imperialists claim a victory by Col. Redriguez near Coence. General Garcia has taken charge of the War Department at the city of Mexico.
