From Fortress Menree-Case of the Steamer "Washington Irving."

Steamer "Washington Irving." FORTRESS MONROE, May 1.—The follow-ing additional particulars have been ob-tained in relation to the steamer Washing-ton Irving, which left Norfolk yesterday under such mysterious circumstances, and created such excitement as she passed out of the harbor by disregarding three heavy shots fired at her by a sand-battery on the beach, and repeated halls and volleys of musketry from a pursuing steamer. It appears that she was seized at Norfolk several days ago by the United States Mar-shal in a case of contract with the U. S. Government, and also libeled by other parties for debts incurred in Norfolk. During yesterday the Government claim, amounting to $1,100, was paid by her owners, and shortly afterwards she was cut owners, and shortly afterwards she was cut loose from her moorings at the wharf and started down the river. A telegram to this effect was sent to MajoraGeneral Miles, commanding the District, who issued instructions for a steamer to start in pursuit as soon as she appeared in sight. The pursuing steamer failed to intercept her, and she proceeded to sea, having been fired at three times from the fort, and received several vol-leys of musketry. Towards evening a guard leys of musketry. Towards evening a guard of men was placed on the steamer Eliza Hancox at Cape Henry, which started in pursuit of the Washington Irving and overtook her about nine miles east of Smith's Island. The guard boarded her, sought an interview with the captain, and endeavored to persuade him to return, but met with an emphatic refusal, and the plea that his steamer was on the high seas, and beyond the jurisdiction of the ciril authorities of Virginia. Captain Shutes, of the Hancox, having no instructions in regard to the af-fair, was undecided how to act. but taking took her about nine miles east of Smith's fair, was undecided how to act, but taking the part of discretion, returned here about the part of discretion, returned here about twelve o'clock last night, to await further instructions, leaving the Irving drifting about at sea, in charge of the guard of one sergeant and two men, detailed from the Fifth United States Artillery. A misunderstand evidently exists in regard to the whole affair, and is attributed by a majority of persons to injudiciousness by a majority of persons to injudiciousness on the part of the military authorities in so hastily acting upon the information of a mere telegram from a sheriff of police in Norfolk. The further instructions were not given to the Eliza Hancox this morning, and she resumed her station on the quarantine grounds. One man was wounded aboard the Irving. It is asserted that her captain had a regular clearance from the Norfolk Custom House. She did not me ke her ap-pearance in the harbor to-day, as was expearance in the harbor to-day, as was ex-pected, and it is now presumed that she has gone North, with the intention of reaching either Philadelphia or New York. The whole transaction naturally created a great deal of excitement here, and many specu-lations are rife as to the sequel of the proceedings. The fact that the Government claim on the steamer was adjusted, and the United States Marshal having released her before she started away from Norfolk, has occasioned the doubt in the minds of those conversant with the details of the occurrence as to the propriety of firing on her as she passed out of the harbor.
